Economic Crisis shows readers relatively simple and highly effective ways of assessing the social economic situation in their given geographical area. This allows professionals to be in touch with their surrounding communities and estimate the clientele to be served, their particular needs, and their abilities to access services. Chapters in Social Work Intervention in an Economic Crisis describe the responses of local institutions, the roles of informal and formal support networks, and the economic devastation inflicted upon individuals, households, and whole communities. To this end, Hide Yamatani, Lambert Maguire, Robin K. Rogers, and Mary Lou O. Kennedy take the socioeconomic pulse of six communities, launching a longitudinal monitoring effort that can be replicated elsewhere for long range planning and intervention. Martha Baum, Barbara K. Shore, and Kathy Fleissner address the special problems women face. Mary Page and Myrna Silverman focus upon the elderly and their families. Phyllis D. Coontz, Judith A. Martin, and Edward W. Sites look at fathers facing altered childrearing, and Lambert Maguire and Hide Yamatani discuss youth facing altered economic opportunities. With this knowledge in hand, readers acquire skills for using action research to assess how economic tragedy affects people's lives, mobilizing appropriate actors to engage in intervention, learning from community groups and leaders about their concerns to work with them rather than for them, recognizing the properties of community cohesion versus fragmentation as they affect efforts of renewal, identifying individuals and families suffering most under economic devastation, realizing the limits of micro level intervention, generating macro policies at the state and federal levels, disseminating findings from action research and intervention demonstration efforts. Finally, Social Work Intervention in an Economic Crisis offers proposals for new societal mechanisms that might reduce the impact of future recessions. The findings and policy proposals set forth in this book help households and institutions deal with the effects of economic change which continue to afflict many families and small communities in the 1990s.

Breadth in Contemporary Topology David T. Gay, Weiwei Wu, 2019-06-27 This volume contains the proceedings of the 2017 Georgia International Topology Conference held from May 22 to June 2, 2017, at the University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia. The papers contained in this volume cover topics ranging from symplectic topology to classical knot theory to topology of 3 and 4 dimensional manifolds to geometric group theory. Several papers focus on open problems, while other papers present new and insightful proofs of classical results. Taken as a whole, this volume captures the spirit of the conference, both in terms of public lectures and informal conversations, and presents a sampling of some of the great new ideas generated in topology over the preceding eight years.

Analyzing Ideology and Narratology in Film Series, Sequels, and Trilogies Seçmen, Emre Ahmet, 2024-07-17 The study of ideology and narratology in film reveals intricate layers of meaning and cultural significance embedded within cinematic narratives. This exploration delves into how ideologies are conveyed, reinforced, or challenged across multiple installments of a film franchise. By analyzing the narrative structures, character developments, and thematic continuities, scholars can uncover the underlying messages and societal implications that shape audience perceptions. Analyzing Ideology and Narratology in Film Series, Sequels, and Trilogies explores the
