The Otherworld Saga: Chains Of Uncertainty MSA Wilson, 2022-10-25 She drove the carving knife directly into the center of it shattering the glass which encased the compass needle She pushed the knife into it even further trying to open it from the outside as glass clattered to the floor She had broken her most precious keepsake so her wish would be granted There had to be something within it something which would point her in the right direction and all this time she truly believed she lacked the courage to find it Now the power of the compass would become hers Come on just a little bit more Quincy said trying to remove the needle from the center That was when the whole world seemed to come to a standstill She kept trying to shimmy the knife in deeper until she could no longer move She held her breath out of fear She felt an immense pressure of heat an overpowering presence of some sort Her eyes followed the glowing light of the compass as it had risen from where she had shattered it on top of the wardrobe It began to burn brighter with heat and light The metal that comprised the compass began to turn red hot until it was molten white superheated from the concentrated energy flow She watched in awe as the compass reassembled itself after having been broken to pieces The chains Quincy once wore around her neck began to move fluidly on their own and the white hot links wrapped themselves around that of her wrist and left hand as she cried out in excruciating pain The molten metal melded with flesh as it began to sink beneath her skin It felt as if her very hand was being torn apart and was melting to pieces The sharp unbearable pain was indescribable Sparks began to fly from the burning compass as it flew closer toward the palm of her left hand Quincy believed she was going to die She could not breathe She felt as if she were being burned alive from the inside out as her body became irradiated with the unbearable heat The compass seeped into the scalding wound which had been gouged into her hand

Speaking Beyond Earth Paul E. Quast, David Dunér, 2024-04-03 Since the dawn of the Space Age small cohorts of humanity have broadcast signals towards other stars fabricated space time capsules to speak for Earth aboard interstellar probes deposited collections of space oddities on other astronomical bodies and permanently incised the memory of our species across the deep time legacy of the Sol System Many of these purposeful messages are the consequence of age old behaviors traditions and material practices using modern aerospace technologies Most attempt to preserve narratives of human experience in social exchange devices for imagined exotic audiences Looking back upon this accumulative history of messaging from Earth how do we begin to interpret such an eclectic portrait of Earth for ourselves Surveying and cataloguing the variety of these artifacts through a series of interdisciplinary essays and visual documentation this volume chronicles our changing relationships customs and assumptions made within this material culture for our own eyes What do these autobiographical accounts tell us about Terrans and our minds set against the backdrop of our planetary history

Magic, Witchcraft and the Otherworld Susan Greenwood, 2020-08-02 Anthropology's long and complex relationship to magic has been strongly influenced by western science and notions of rationality This book takes a refreshing new look at modern magic as practised by contemporary Pagans in Britain It focuses on what Pagans see as the essence of magic a communication with an otherworldly reality Examining issues of identity gender and morality the author argues that the otherworld forms a central defining characteristic of magical practice Integrating an experiential ethnographic approach with an analysis of magic this book asks penetrating questions about the nature of otherworldly knowledge and argues that our scientific frameworks need re envisioning It is unique in providing an insider's view of how magic is practised in contemporary western culture

Shapes of Time Michael McGillen, 2023-12-15 Shapes of Time explores how concepts of time and history were spatialized in early twentieth century German thought Michael McGillen locates efforts in German modernism to conceive of alternative shapes of time beyond those of historicism and nineteenth century philosophies of history at the boundary between secular and theological discourses By analyzing canonical works of German modernism those of Karl Barth Franz Rosenzweig Siegfried Kracauer and Robert Musil he identifies the ways in which spatial imagery and metaphors were employed to both separate the end of history from a narrative framework and to map the liminal relation between history and eschatology Drawing on theories and practices as disparate as constructivism non Euclidean geometry photography and urban architecture Shapes of Time presents original connections between modernism theology and mathematics as played out within the canon of twentieth century German letters Concepts of temporal and spatial form McGillen contends contribute to the understanding not only of modernist literature but also of larger theoretical concerns within modern cultural and intellectual history

Wrong-Doing, Truth-Telling Michel Foucault, 2014-06-04 Three years before his death Michel Foucault gave a series of lectures at the Catholic University of Louvain that have remained relatively unknown until only recently Entitled Wrong Doing Truth Telling these lectures provides the missing link between Foucault's early work on sexuality and punishment and his later work on Greek and Roman antiquity Ranging broadly from Homer to the 20th century Foucault traces how the early ethical acts of truth telling in ancient Greece gradually metamorphosed into acts of self incrimination in monastic times and ultimately into the birth and rise of psychiatry as the foundation of modern penology criminology and criminal justice For Foucault self incrimination no longer did the work necessary to quell justice because by the 19th century we wanted to know more than just the fact of wrongdoing we wanted to know who the criminal was not just whether the accused committed the crime but what it was about him that made him commit the crime An avowal of wrong doing was no longer sufficient psychiatric expertise was now necessary and that development marks the birth of discipline and modern criminal justice made so famous by Foucault

Religion and Media Hent de Vries, Samuel Weber, 2001 Counter The twenty five contributors to this volume who include such influential thinkers as Jacques Derrida Jean Luc Nancy Talal Asad and James Siegel confront the conceptual analytical and empirical difficulties involved in addressing the complex relationship between religion and media The book s introductory section offers a prolegomenon to the multiple problems raised by an interdisciplinary approach to these multifaceted phenomena The essays in the following part provide exemplary approaches to the historical and systematic background to the study of religion and media The third part presents case studies by anthropologists and scholars of comparative religion The book concludes with two remarkable documents a chapter from Theodor W Adorno s study of the relationship between religion and media in the context of political agitation The Psychological Technique of Martin Luther Thomas s Radio Addresses and a section from Niklas Luhmann s monumental Die Gesellschaft der Gesellschaft Society as a Social System
