New Worlds, New Technologies, New Issues Stephen H. Cutcliffe, 1992 In this volume fifteen scholars from the United States Spain Puerto Rico and Colombia discuss the social implications of new technologies Their essays address the cultural worlds that crystallize around technologies the challenges to democracy that they pose and the responsibility of modern technology for forcing a public response to new social and moral issues Three themes define the three sections into which the volume is divided New Worlds New Technologies and New Issues The essays in the section New Worlds range from optimism that new technologies will produce a better world than that of 1992 through a nonjudgmental discussion of the transformation of our lifeworld that new technologies are effecting to deep concern for the viability of the world that modern technology has already created In New Technologies the focus is on political responses to modern technologies The authors in this section see the challenge to understanding and controlling our technological world in reshaping existing relations of social power and authority and in creating new institutions more adequate to the sociopolitical realities of the process of technological innovation While the contributors in the first two sections of the volume argue that broad changes in values and institutions are preconditions of a more beneficent relationship among people nature and technology those in the section New Issues adopt narrower more specific viewpoints Their essays address the political values underlying the Deep Ecology movement the ethics of military technologies the capacity of democratic institutions for a public role in setting technology policies and science and technology literacy mechanisms Collectively these essays reflect the growing international concern with the role played by technological innovation in a rapidly changing world and they point toward the formulation of concrete political platforms for informed social responses to the innovation process

Carbonneau on International Arbitration Thomas E. Carbonneau, 2011-01-01 The chapters of this volume represent the majority of Professor Carbonneau s scholarly writings on the subject of international commercial arbitration They reflect his interest over the course of thirty years of law teaching in international litigation comparative law and of course international arbitration Some of the chapters are of a recent vintage while others were written a decade or two ago Whatever their date of production the chapters have a continuing professional interest Each addresses some of the major issues of trans border arbitration law A number of chapters emphasize the importance of courts in developing and maintaining a legal culture that is hospitable to arbitration The work of the courts has been instrumental to the reception of arbitration in the United States and in several European jurisdictions The courts can make or break arbitration by upholding arbitration agreements and enforcing arbitral awards Other chapters underscore that arbitration can operate as a complete legal system It not only provides workable trial procedures but arbitrators can also create law in their rulings With the addition of an internal arbitral appellate mechanism arbitrations can function with almost absolute independence The world law on arbitrations seems to favor the a national and a juridical operation of the arbitral process A few of the chapters recognize that arbitration is being increasingly employed to resolve political or mixed political and commercial disputes Investment arbitration and BITs are the most recent expression of this development it had been apparent in WTO and NAFTA dispute resolution The Iran U S Claims Tribunal presented the first great occasion for assessing the vocation of arbitration in a mixed dispute situation While arbitration has made significant inroads in this area political sovereignty remains resistant to the imposition of limitations In many less visible political cases determinations are nonetheless made and rendered enforceable The concluding chapters address more specific developments in the field of ICA A number of cases point to the strong perhaps overweening support of the judiciary for arbitration The courts in some jurisdictions support arbitration unequivocally and are bent upon a single outcome no matter the impact on doctrine Lawyer presence in the arbitral process has lead to increased formalization in some proceedings The judicialization of arbitration tilts the process toward the protection of rights and hinders its ability to function effectively and reach finality Lawyers can readily misunderstand and undermine the gravamen of arbitration The concluding chapters also establish that the UK Arbitration Act 1996 is one of the world s outstanding arbitration statutes It rivals and bests the UNCITRAL Model Law on ICA and is the equal of the French codified law on arbitration Finally the express text of the New York Arbitration Convention appears to have been altered significantly by court practice The possible limitations of national law have been neutralized and the provisions of the Convention articulate a truly trans border regulation of the enforcement of awards In sum the chapters in this book reflect the author s lifetime work in the area of international arbitration and are required reading for all those practicing in the field law students arbitrators academics and practicing lawyers
