What Postcolonial Theory Doesn't Say Anna Bernard, Ziad Elmarsafy, Stuart Murray, 2015-08-11 This book reclaims postcolonial theory addressing persistent limitations in the geographical disciplinary and methodological assumptions of its dominant formations It emerges however from an investment in the future of postcolonial studies and a commitment to its basic premise namely that literature and culture are fundamental to the response to structures of colonial and imperial domination To a certain extent postcolonial theory is a victim of its own success not least because of the institutionalization of the insights that it has enabled Now that these insights no longer seem new it is hard to know what the field should address beyond its general commitments Yet the renewal of popular anti imperial energies across the globe provides an important opportunity to reassert the political and theoretical value of the postcolonial as a comparative interdisciplinary and oppositional paradigm This collection makes a claim for what postcolonial theory can say through the work of scholars articulating what it still cannot or will not say It explores ideas that a more aesthetically sophisticated postcolonial theory might be able to address focusing on questions of visibility performance and literariness Contributors highlight some of the shortcomings of current postcolonial theory in relation to contemporary political developments such as Zimbabwean land reform postcommunism and the economic rise of Asia Finally they address the disciplinary geographical and methodological exclusions from postcolonial studies through a detailed focus on new disciplinary directions management studies

Contemporary Arab Women Writers Anastasia Valassopoulos, 2008-03-10 This book engages with contemporary Arab women writers from Egypt Palestine Lebanon and Algeria In spite of Edward Said's groundbreaking reappraisal of the uneven relationship between the West and the Arab world in Orientalism there has been little postcolonial criticism of Arab writing Anastasia Valassopoulos raises the profile of Arab women writers by examining how they negotiate contexts and experiences that have come to be identified with postcoloniality such as the preoccupation with Western feminism political conflict and war the social effects of non conformity and female empowerment and the negotiation of influential cultural discourses such as orientalism Contemporary Arab Women Writers revitalizes theoretical concepts associated with feminism gender studies and cultural studies and explores how art history popular culture translation studies psychoanalysis and news media all offer productive ways to associate with Arab women's writing that work beyond a limiting socio historical context Discussing the writings of authors including Ahdaf Soueif Nawal El Saadawi Leila Sebbar Liana Badr and Hanan Al Shaykh this book represents a new direction in postcolonial literary criticism that transcends constrictive monothematic approaches

Rereading the Imperial Romance Laura Chrisman, 2000 This book examines literary romance as a vehicle for the ideological contradictions of British imperialism in South Africa Chrisman draws upon postcolonial theory and cultural materialism to discuss the imperialist Rider Haggard's fictional accounts of mining in King Solomon's Mines and Zulu history in Nada the Lily examining these novels as fraught responses to the introduction of capitalist modernity She goes on to analyse the counter narratives of metropolitan and African resistance of feminist Olive Schreiner and black nationalist Sol Plaatje Exploring Schreiner's much neglected Trooper Peter Halket of Mashonaland Chrisman situates this book in relation to the violent creation of Rhodesia the 1896-7 Shona uprisings and contemporary criticism of Cecil Rhodes In doing so she shows how Schreiner's is a much more challenging example of anti imperialist fiction than Conrad's Heart of Darkness published two years later Chrisman's discussion of Plaatje's Mhudi the first black African novel in English considers the book as a direct response to Haggard's imperialism and Schreiner's feminist theory Locating the book through the politics and epistemology of the early ANC she reveals how Plaatje challenges Haggard's misogyny and fatalistic historiography Mhudi she argues is a novel whose nationalist and sexual politics are considerably more complex than has been recognized Plaatje uses his narrative form to articulate both radical and liberal alternatives to white South African rule Chrisman's book demonstrates how South Africa played an important if now overlooked role in British imperial culture and shows the impact of capitalism itself in the making of racial gender and national identities This book makes an original contribution to studies of Victorian literature of empire South African literary history African studies black nationalism and the literature of resistance
