We Weren't Modern Enough Marsha Meskimmon, 1999-10-14 Meskimmon asks why women artists were left out of the canon of German modernism tracing the reasons to the construction of a unified male history of art that in effect denied women a voice. The book is an effort to reconceive the period's art history and the perspective of the Weimar woman artist.

Expressions & Evocations Gayatri Sinha, 1996 Written by some of India's best known critics and scholars of contemporary art including Tapati Guha Thakurta, Geeta Kapur, Yashodhara Dalmia, Rupika Chawla and Geeti Sen, this volume traces the significant contribution of women on the Indian art scene from the early presence of Amrita Sher-Gil in the 1930s to the artists of the 1990s.

The Reckoning Eleanor Heartney, Helaine Posner, Nancy Princenthal, Sue Scott, 2014-05-12 The authors of After the Revolution return with an incisive study of the work of contemporary women artists. In After the Revolution the authors concluded that the battles may not all have been won but barricades are gradually coming down and work proceeds on all fronts in glorious profusion. Now with The Reckoning authors Heartney, Posner, Princenthal and Scott bring into focus the accomplishments of 24 acclaimed international women artists born since 1960 who have benefited from the groundbreaking efforts of their predecessors. The book is organized in four thematic sections: Bad Girls profiles artists whose work represents an assault on conventional notions of gender and racial difference; History Lessons offers reflections on the self in the context of history and globalization; Spellbound focuses on women's embrace of the irrational, subjective and surreal; while Domestic Disturbances takes on women's conflicted relationship to home, family and security. Written in lively prose and fully illustrated throughout, this book gives an informed account of the wonderful diversity of recent contemporary art by women. An indispensable contribution to the literature on contemporary art by women.

Whitney Chadwick, author of Women Art and Society. In the 2007 book After the Revolution: Women Who Transformed Contemporary Art the authors set a new standard in documenting and evaluating the work of a dozen key women artists spanning generations between the 1960s to the 2000s. The beat goes on with the appearance of The Reckoning written by the same authors in the same accessible scholarly style but reflecting important historical changes over the past decade and more. In line with the increased presence of women in mainstream art, the book includes twice as many artists as its predecessor. And its global reach has expanded vastly stretching from Europe and the Americas to Africa and China.

Holland Cotter, The New York Times

Women Can't Paint Helen Gørrill, 2020-02-06 In 2013 Georg Baselitz declared that women don't paint very well. Whilst shocking, his comments reveal what Helen Gørrill argues is prolific discrimination in the art world. In a groundbreaking study of gender and value, Gørrill proves that there are few aesthetic differences in men and women's painting but that men's art is valued at up to 80 per cent more than women's. Indeed, the power of masculinity is such that when men sign their work it goes up in value yet when women sign their work it goes down. Museums, the author attests are also complicit in this vicious cycle as they collect tokenist female artwork which impinges upon its artists market value An essential text for students and teachers G rill s book is provocative and challenges existing methodologies whilst introducing shocking evidence She proves how the price of being a woman impacts upon all forms of artistic currency be it social cultural or economic and in the vanguard of the Me Too movement calls for the artworld to take action

Engendering the City Marsha Meskimmon,1997 Concentrating upon contemporary women photographers who have used the theme of the city in their work this volume provides a challenging viewpoint on notions of gender space and representation Engendering the City looks at the ways in which women have negotiated with the powerful tropes of modernism notions of the body and embodiment and the concept of the pedestrian to form new models of seeing and knowing Feminist reconceptions of space are combined with innovative representational strategies which reveal the many ways in which women can engender the city
