Integrating East Asian Medicine into Contemporary Healthcare E-Book Volker Scheid, Hugh MacPherson, 2011-10-24 Traditional East Asian healthcare systems have moved rapidly from the fringes of healthcare systems in the West towards the centre over the past 50 years This change of status for traditional medicines presents their practitioners with both opportunities and challenges as the focus shifts from one of opposition towards one of integration into biomedically dominated healthcare systems Integrating East Asian Medicine into Contemporary Healthcare examines the opportunities and challenges of integrating East Asian medicine into Western healthcare systems from an interdisciplinary perspective Volker Scheid and Hugh MacPherson bring together contributions from acknowledged experts from a number of different disciplines including clinical researchers Chinese Medicine practitioners historians medical anthropologists experts in the social studies of science technology and medicine to examine and debate the impact of the evidence based medicine movement on the ongoing modernization of East Asian medicines The book considers the following questions What are the values goals and ethics implicit within traditional East Asian medical practices What claims to effectiveness and safety are made by East Asian medical practices What is at stake in subjecting these medical practices to biomedical models of evaluation What constitutes best practice How is it to be defined and measured What are the ideologies and politics behind the process of integration of East Asian medical practices into modern health care systems What can we learn from a variety of models of integration into contemporary healthcare Acupuncture Research Hugh MacPherson, Richard Hammerschlag, George Thomas Lewith, Rosa N. Schnyer, 2007-10-12 This is the first book to set out a full range of research strategies for evaluating the clinical practice of acupuncture. Leading acupuncturists and researchers with international reputations share their expertise. They illustrate their descriptions with practical examples of what has worked and what has not. It outlines many of the key challenges in the field. These challenges relate to the nature of acupuncture and the gap between current research evidence and the actual experiences of acupuncturists in the field. By focusing the chapters on key research questions rather than methods, the book has a user-friendly feel. Each chapter is easily accessible with brief explanations of research designs as well as vignettes of relevant past research. The book is based on a deep understanding of acupuncture with its inherent complexity in practice, whether based on traditional principles or more modern concepts. By incorporating a more sophisticated understanding of the field, this book details a range of strategies aiming to develop the evidence base with the utmost rigour. It is the first book on acupuncture research to take this unique view, integrating the very best of evidence-based medicine with a genuine sensitivity to the discipline of acupuncture from its traditional and holistic roots to its more modern interpretations A New American Acupuncture Mark Seem, 1993

Current Research in Acupuncture Ying Xia, Guanghong Ding, Gen-Cheng Wu, 2012-08-09 Written by over 60 scientists and clinicians from the United States, mainland China, Germany, Australia, Japan, Sweden, Portugal, and Hong Kong, Current Research in Acupuncture discusses recent advances in acupuncture research in a modern scientific language. The first 5 chapters investigate the basic mechanisms of acupuncture. Later chapters explore topics including acupuncture treatment and potential mechanisms for epilepsy, Parkinson's disease, neurodegenerative disorders such as Alzheimer's disease, vascular cognitive impairment, aging, anxiety, polycystic ovary syndrome, pain, nerve root, cervical spondylosis, stroke, inflammation, myocardial ischemia, and other cardiovascular diseases. Following the translational and clinical discussions, 4 chapters present new prospects for acupuncture theories and applications. The final chapter comments on the pitfalls and problems of the previous studies and suggests direction for future research towards in-depth understanding of acupuncture along with better application of acupuncture in modern medicine. Each chapter is written by one or more experts in the field. This unique book provides a broad perspective on the principles of acupuncture for acupuncture researchers and neuroscientists. The laboratory and clinical investigations of various acupoints and optimal conditions provide unique clues to acupuncturists for improved clinical efficacy. For a medical student, this book is a modern course in ancient Traditional Chinese Medicine, especially acupuncture. Ying Xia, the chief editor, is Professor and Vice Chairman of the Department of Neurosurgery at The University of Texas Medical School in Houston, Texas, USA. Guanghong Ding is Professor in the Department of Mechanics and Engineering Science at Fudan University and Director of Shanghai Research Center for Acupuncture and Meridians, Shanghai, China. Gen-Cheng Wu is Professor of Neurobiology, Chairman, Department of

Integrative Medicine and Neurobiology Director Institute of Acupuncture Research and Director WHO Collaborating Center for Traditional Medicine at Shanghai Medical College of Fudan University Shanghai China Chinese Medicine in East Africa Elisabeth Hsu, 2022-07-08 Based on fieldwork conducted between 2001 2008 in urban East Africa this book explores who the patients practitioners and paraprofessionals doing Chinese medicine were in this early period of renewed China Africa relations Rather than taking recourse to the placebo effect the author explains through the spatialities and materialities of the medical procedures provided why apart from purchasing the Chinese antimalarial called Artemisinin locals would try out their alternatively modern formulas for treating a wide range of post colonial disorders and seek their sexual enhancement medicines
