Social Science Education Simantini Dhuru, Yemuna Sunny, 2024-08-26. This book provides an introduction into social science pedagogy in India. It delves into the interrelationships between society, social relationships, education and learning. Social science education in schools helps build a critical understanding of social processes and institutions. This book critically examines school spaces and approaches to social science teaching and pedagogy in Indian schools. It outlines distinguishing features, differences and similarities in pedagogical models and also explains how these varied approaches can be applied in the teaching process. The book also addresses the challenges and possibilities of integrating technology in teaching social sciences. Part of the series Principles based Adaptive Teaching, this book will be of interest to students and teachers of education and the social sciences. It will also be of interest to teachers, educators, curriculum designers, policy makers and social science course developers, NGOs and public and private sector bodies who focus on teaching and learning practices.

Childhoods Gaile Sloan Cannella, Lourdes Diaz Soto, 2010. For the past 20 years a range of scholars, educators and cultural workers have examined dominant discourses of childhood using critical feminist and other postmodern perspectives. Located in a variety of disciplines, these poststructural, deconstructive and even postcolonial critiques have challenged everything from notions of the universal child to adult-child dualisms to deterministic developmental theory. The purpose of this volume is to acknowledge the profound contributions of that large body of literature while demonstrating the ways that critical analyses can be used to generate avenues, actions that increase possibilities for social justice for those who are younger while at the same time avoiding determinism. In this time of globalization, hyper capitalism and discourses that would control and disqualify through constructions like accountability, we believe that projects such as this are of utmost importance. The volume is divided into four major sections to reflect the multiplicity of human voices and perspectives: section I contemporary circumstances and dominant discourses within which we all attempt to function; sections II and III and the generation of new possibilities for constructing relationships together; section IV. Finally, a voice from the heart within a reconceptualist social science agenda for early childhood studies is presented Who's who in Nigeria ,1990 Social Studies in the New Education Policy Era Paul G. Fitchett, Kevin W. Statistical models attempt to describe and quantify relationships between variables In the models presented in this chapter there is a response variable sometimes called dependent variable and at least one predictor variable sometimes called independent or explanatory variable When investigating a possible cause and effect type of relationship the response variable is the putative effect and the predictors are the hypothesized causes Typically there is a main predictor variable of interest other predictors in the model are called covariates Unknown covariates or other independent variables not controlled in an experiment or analysis can affect the dependent or outcome variable and mislead the conclusions made from the inquiry Bock Velleman given the model  $p$  is the probability that a relationship is seen by mere chance The smaller the  $p$  value the more confident we can be that the pattern seen in the data is not random In the type of models examined here the  $R$  measures the proportion of the variation in the response variable that is explained by the predictors specified in the model if  $R$  is close to 1 then almost all the variation in the response variable has been explained This measure is also known as the multiple correlation coefficient

Statistical studies can be grouped into two types experimental and observational
