Contemporary Issues In Chronic Pain:

Contemporary Issues in Chronic Pain Management Winston C.V. Parris, 2012-12-06 PROFESSOR SIR KENNETH L STUART Pain control has become one of medicine's most rapidly growing disciplines and I welcome the opportunity to write this foreword to a book that I am sure will make its own unique contribution to advancing this discipline. My pleasure in writing it is heightened by my pride in the fact that its editor was at one time an undergraduate student of mine at the University of the West Indies in Jamaica. One of the uncertainties teachers always face is that they can never predict how their charges will turn out. This uncertainty has been happily resolved. Dr Parris' professional career has been marked by the same dedication and commitment that characterized his undergraduate days and that clearly has been brought to the preparation of this scholarly and practical work. Pain relief has been until recently a comparatively neglected field. Its neglect was determined not so much by lack of professional awareness of its importance but mainly because so little could be done about it in the past.

Current Issues in Clinical Psychology Eric Karas, 2012-12-06 This book is the second volume in the series Current Issues in Clinical Psychology which is designed to build into a composite text of the field of clinical psychology. The contents of the series are based on the post-qualification training conferences held each autumn in Merseyside. These events organised by a sub-group of the training committee of the Mersey Regional Group of Clinical Psychologists are unique in that they are the only annual psychology conferences in Britain focussing exclusively on clinical areas. The opening paper of Volume 1 of the series emphasised the importance of the present disposition towards sustained clinical training for practising psychologists. The series Current Issues in Clinical Psychology represents a contribution to this trend by offering practitioners an opportunity to assimilate
