Martyrdom: A Guide for the Perplexed Paul Middleton, 2011-06-02 It can be said almost without exaggeration that martyrdom has become one of the most pressing theological issues facing the contemporary world Since the attack on the World Trade Center in 2001 the world has had to face up to an Islamic manifestation of martyrdom Martyrdom has a long history as long as individuals have been dying for their faith or cause others have been telling and more importantly interpreting their stories These martyrologies are essentially conflict stories Whether a Christian confessing her faith before a bemused Roman governor or a suicide bomber blowing himself up in a crowded cafe in Jerusalem the way these stories are recounted positively or negatively reflect a wider conflict in which the narrator and his community find themselves Martyr narratives whether textual oral or even a CNN news report do more than simply report a death they also contain the interpretative framework by which that death is understood again positively or negatively When the death of a martyr is reported the way in which that story is told places that death within a larger narrative of conflict which may be regional global or even cosmic The martyr becomes a symbol of the community's desires and hopes or for that matter their terrors and fears but in either case the martyr is representative of a larger struggle and often martyrology contains the vision of how the community envisages final victory over their enemy This book aims to illuminate the way these conflict stories have been told and function principally though not exclusively within Christian Jewish and Islamic communities Continuum's Guides for the Perplexed are clear concise and accessible introductions to thinkers writers and subjects that students and readers can find especially challenging or indeed downright bewildering Concentrating specifically on what it is that makes the subject difficult to grasp these books explain and explore key themes and ideas guiding the reader towards a thorough understanding of demanding material

A Double-Edged Sword Brenda E. Novack, 2014-05-19 On first consideration one might not be inclined to view Adolf Hitler and Dietrich Bonhoeffer in relation to Jehanne d'Arc Joan of Arc but Brenda E. Novack does just that She demonstrates how these three prominent figures who influenced world history all acted in accordance with what they claimed or perceived to be divine sanction of their participation in violence Taking the reader on a unique exploration of their lives and deaths Novack identifies significant similarities and differences in notions of divine call and human response conveyed by these personalities and determines how they align or fail to align with the biblical prophetic tradition Taking Jehanne d'Arc as her foundational study the author engages important theological issues such as the nature of revelation evil and morality The process culminates in the construction of a model of righteous warfare and human agency presented as a tool for evaluating claims to divinely sanctioned violence and as a potentially effective alternative to an outmoded and currently inadequate just war model Case studies of Hitler and Bonhoeffer tentatively establish the model's ability to steer humanity away from unnecessary destruction toward justice compassion and peace of post Holocaust family culture with the study of collective memory Over the last two decades the cross generational transmission of trauma has become an important area of research within both Holocaust studies and the more broad study of genocide The overall findings of the research suggest that the Holocaust informs both the psychological and social development of the children of survivors who like their parents suffer from nightmares guilt fear and sadness The impact of social memory on the construction of survivor identities among succeeding generations has not yet been adequately explained Moreover the importance of gender to the intergenerational transmission of trauma has for the most part been overlooked In The Holocaust across Generations Janet Jacobs fills these significant gaps in the study of traumatic transference The volume brings together the study of post Holocaust family culture with the study of collective memory Through an in depth study of 75 children and grandchildren of survivors the book examines the social mechanisms through which the trauma of the Holocaust is conveyed by survivors to succeeding generations It explores the social structures such as narratives rituals belief systems and memorial sites through which the collective memory of trauma is transmitted within families examining the social relations of traumatic inheritance among children and grandchildren of Holocaust survivors Within this analytic framework feminist theory and the importance of gender are brought to bear on the study of traumatic inheritance and the formation of trauma based identities among Holocaust carrier groups
