Gonzalez, 2018-03-01 In this provocative and original study George A Gonzalez argues that the relationship between energy and the state as well as global politics has become more and more deeply intertwined reaching something of a crescendo with the global hegemony of Pax Americana in the twentieth and early twenty first centuries He presents a clear and concise case for viewing the modern state as the collaborative and affirmative union of capitalism and political authority in a setting where energy resources be it wind coal or oil provide the basis for the relatively inexpensive projection of political power More broadly energy serves as the foundation of the modern economy and because of this a prime function of the modern state is ensuring access to cheap reliable sources to power and grow the economy Historically energy is more of a zero sum resource than capital markets labor or technology and thus is a greater source of geopolitical tension and violence Energy politics and by extension international politics is moreover shaped by domestic corporate elites especially those within the United States The Life of the North American Suburbs Jan Nijman, 2020-02-28 This is the first comprehensive look at the role of North American suburbs in the last half century departing from traditional and outdated notions of American suburbia

but burgeoning numbers were attracted by the economic and housing opportunities of fast growing metropolitan areas and their largely suburban settings The pace of change in this new geography of immigration has presented many local areas with challenges social fiscal and political Edited by Audrey Singer Susan W Hardwick and Caroline B Brettell Twenty First Century Gateways provides in depth comparative analysis of immigration trends and local policy responses in America s newest gateways The case examples by a group of leading multidisciplinary immigration scholars explore the challenges of integrating newcomers in the specific gateways as well as their impact on suburban infrastructure such as housing transportation schools health care economic development and public safety The changes and trends dissected in this book present a critically important understanding of the reshaping of the United States today and the future impact of

Findlay, 1993-09-22 The American West conjures up images of pastoral tranquility and wide open spaces but by 1970 the Far West was the most urbanized section of the country Exploring four intriguing cityscapes Disneyland Stanford Industrial Park Sun City and the 1962 Seattle World s Fair John Findlay shows how each created a sense of cohesion and sustained people s belief in their superior urban environment This first book length study of the urban West after 1940 argues that Westerners deliberately tried to build cities that differed radically from their eastern counterparts In 1954 Walt Disney began building the world s first theme park using Hollywood s movie making techniques The creators of Stanford Industrial Park were more hesitant in their approach to a conceptually organized environment but by the mid 1960s the Park was the nation s prototypical research park and the intellectual downtown for the high technology region that became Silicon Valley In 1960 on the outskirts of Phoenix Del E Webb built Sun City the largest most influential retirement community in the United States Another innovative cityscape arose from the 1962 Seattle World's Fair and provided a futuristic somewhat fanciful vision of modern life These four became magic lands that provided an antidote to the apparent chaos of their respective urban milieus Exemplars of a new lifestyle they are landmarks on the changing cultural landscape of postwar America

Race and the Suburbs in American Film Merrill Schleier, 2021-07-01 This book is the first anthology to explore the connection between race and the suburbs in American cinema from the end of World War II to the present It builds upon the explosion of interest in the suburbs in film television and fiction in the last fifteen years concentrating exclusively on the relationship of race to the built environment Suburb films began as a cycle in response to both America's changing urban geography and the re-segregation of its domestic spaces in the postwar era which excluded African Americans Asian Americans and Latinx from the suburbs while buttressing whiteness By defying traditional categories and chronologies in cinema studies the contributors explore the myriad ways suburban spaces and racialized bodies in film mediate each other Race and the Suburbs in American Film is a stimulating resource for considering the manner in which race is foundational to architecture and urban geography which is reflected promoted and challenged in cinematic representations

Manufacturing Suburbs Robert Lewis, 2008 Urban historians have long portrayed suburbanization as the result of a bourgeois exodus from the city coupled with the introduction of streetcars that enabled the middle class to leave the city for the more sylvan surrounding regions Demonstrating that this is only a partial version of urban history Manufacturing Suburbs reclaims the history of working class suburbs by examining the development of industrial suburbs in the United States and Canada between 1850 and 1950 Contributors demonstrate that these suburbs developed in large part because of the location of manufacturing beyond city limits and the subsequent building of housing for the workers who labored within those factories Through case studies of industrial suburbanization and industrial suburbs in several metropolitan areas Chicago Baltimore Detroit Pittsburgh Los Angeles San Francisco Toronto and Montreal Manufacturing Suburbs sheds light on a key phenomenon of metropolitan development before the Second World War

Gonzalez, 2013-06-20 Since the onset of the Second Industrial Revolution in the second half of the nineteenth century energy has become a key axis of politics and international relations particularly for the United States and Western Europe In Energy and the Politics of the North Atlantic George A Gonzalez documents how the United States thanks to its copious reserves of oil coal and natural gas was able to assume a dominant position in the world system by the 1920s This energy economic imbalance was an important causal factor underlying the eruption of World War II After 1945 and in the context of the Cold War with communism the United States used its access to both fossil fuels and nuclear power as a means to defeat the Soviet Union and its allies Driving American foreign policy Gonzalez argues is a domestic system of urban sprawl based on the automobile and the energy reserves necessary to maintain it The massive consumer demand created by urban sprawl underpins US foreign policy in the Middle East while concerns over access to energy drive the European Union project
