This book equips readers with the necessary tools to take an analytical and systematic approach to contemporary texts. The author provides answers to some of the critical questions in the field: What makes a literary text contemporary? Is it possible to have a canon of contemporary literature? How does a reader's location affect their understanding? How do print, electronic and audio visual media impact upon contemporary literature? Which key concepts and themes are most prevalent? Containing diverse illustrative examples and discussing the topics which define our current sense of the contemporary, this is an ideal starting point for anyone seeking to engage critically with contemporary literature.

Contemporary Readings in Curriculum Barbara Slater Stern, Marcella L. Kysilka, 2008-03-20 This book of readings provides readers with an historical context of the curriculum field Contemporary Readings in Curriculum focuses on how curriculum may be organized and what is happening in the academic and co curriculum of schools The readings also address the political nature and current debates of curriculum and how we must be attentive to the increasingly diverse populations found in our schools Proceedings of the Tenth Seminar of the IATS, 2003. Volume 6: Contemporary Tibetan Literary Studies, 2007-03-31 These essential readings in the emerging field of Tibetan literary studies offer specialists and non specialists provocative new studies of contemporary Tibetan literature and criticism ranging from discussions of individual works to theoretical interventions The nature of Tibetan literature as both a regional voice within China and a transnational voice in the world is explored by L Hartley on the relationship between the terms rtsom rig wen and literature F Robin on historical fiction L Maconi on literature in the Yunnan Tibetan areas T Dhondup on Mongolian Tibetan writers J Drakpa on poetic explication P Schiaffini on the creation of Tibetan subjectivities F X Erhard on magical realism and Gray Tuttle s interview with writer and critic Pema Bhumi The Early Reader in Children's Literature and Culture Jennifer Miskec, Annette Wannamaker, 2015-12-22 This is the first volume to consider the popular literary category of Early Readers books written and designed for children who are just beginning to read independently It argues that Early Readers deserve more scholarly attention and careful thought because they are for many younger readers their first opportunity to engage with a work of literature on their own to feel a sense of mastery over a text and to experience pleasure from the act of reading independently Using interdisciplinary approaches that draw upon and synthesize research being done in education child psychology sociology cultural studies and children s literature the volume visits Early Readers from a variety of angles as teaching tools as cultural artifacts that shape cultural and individual subjectivity as mass produced products sold to a niche market of parents educators and young children and as aesthetic objects works of literature and art with specific conventions Examining the reasons such books are so popular with young readers as well as the reasons that some adults challenge and censor them the volume considers the ways Early Readers contribute to the construction of younger children as readers thinkers consumers and as gendered raced classed subjects It also addresses children s texts that have been translated and sold around the globe examining them as part of an increasingly transnational children s media culture that may add to or supplant regional ethnic and national children s literatures and cultures While this collection focuses mostly on books written in English and often aimed at children living in the US it is important to acknowledge that these Early Readers are a major US cultural export influencing the reading habits and development of children across the globe educational settings Contemporary Intellectual Assessment, Third Edition Dawn P. Flanagan, Patti L. Harrison, 2012-01-24

In one volume this authoritative reference presents a current comprehensive overview of intellectual and cognitive assessment with a focus on practical applications. Leaders in the field describe major theories of intelligence and provide the knowledge needed to use the latest measures of cognitive abilities with individuals of all ages from toddlers to adults. Evidence-based approaches to test interpretation and their relevance for intervention are described. The book addresses critical issues in assessing particular populations including culturally and linguistically diverse students, gifted students, and those with learning difficulties and disabilities in today's educational settings. New to This Edition: Incorporates major research advances and legislative and policy changes. Covers recent test revisions plus additional tests: the NEPSY II and the Wechsler Nonverbal Scale of Ability. Expanded coverage of specific populations: chapters on autism spectrum disorders, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, sensory and physical disabilities, and traumatic brain injury and intellectual disabilities. Chapters on neuropsychological approaches, assessment of executive functions, and multi-tiered service delivery models in schools. Research in Education, 1968 Literature and Ethics Daniel K. Jernigan, 2009. Literature and Ethics covers a wide gamut of literary periods and genres including essays on Victorian literature and modernism as well as several studies on narrative, but the central ethos emerges from considerations of issues of responsibility and irresponsibility as they find expression in literary study and in ethics. Students and academics who are interested in literary theory, ethics, narrative form, and issues of authorial responsibility and how such matters inform the reading of literary texts will find that this collection offers a wide array of approaches and viewpoints by major figures from the relevant sub-disciplines in literary studies. The collection offers much timely critical observation on a variety of contemporary authors but also provides critically adventurous commentaries on Victorian literature and on Indian, African, Irish, and Australian literature. The volume assembles a collection of essays that would illustrate the great diversity of methods by which considerations of responsibility can and do offer insight into a range of literary texts and theoretical discourses while also making a contribution to the philosophical question of responsibility and irresponsibility in the contemporary world. The collection as a whole testifies to the human fascination with issues of responsibility just as it testifies to the necessity of posing questions of responsibility as questions of ethics and literature: the necessity of recognizing, in other words, that responsibility names a concept whose only ground is the history of those fictional narratives of responsibility and irresponsibility that modern civilization would do well to continue inventing and reflecting upon critically. So whether ethical discourses find expression in theoretical debate or in and through the sophisticated fictions that constitute an imaginative culture, what is clear both from wider discussions related to the value of literary texts that are such a central part of contemporary literary studies and from the varied and nuanced arguments that are made in this collection is that questions of responsibility are central to literature, philosophy, and the arts just as they are to the social realities that spawned them in the first place. Literature and Ethics is an important book for all literature and literary theory collections It has specific resonance for students and teachers who are interested in the value of literary study and in questions of ethics and narrative Russian Life ,1998
