Boczkowski, Kirsten A. Foot, 2014-01-24 Scholars from communication and media studies join those from science and technology studies to examine media technologies as complex sociomaterial phenomena. In recent years, scholarship around media technologies has finally shed the assumption that these technologies are separate from and powerfully determining of social life, looking at them instead as produced by and embedded in distinct social cultural and political practices Communication and media scholars have increasingly taken theoretical perspectives originating in science and technology studies STS while some STS scholars interested in information technologies have linked their research to media studies inquiries into the symbolic dimensions of these tools In this volume scholars from both fields come together to advance this view of media technologies as complex sociomaterial phenomena The contributors first address the relationship between materiality and mediation considering such topics as the lived realities of network infrastructure The contributors then highlight media technologies as always in motion held together through the minute unobserved work of many including efforts to keep these technologies alive Contributors Pablo J Boczkowski Geoffrey C Bowker Finn Brunton Gabriella Coleman Gregory J Downey Kirsten A Foot Tarleton Gillespie Steven J Jackson Christopher M Kelty Leah A Lievrouw Sonia Livingstone Ignacio Siles Jonathan Sterne Lucy Suchman Fred Turner

Production Technology for Deep Reservoirs Yan Peng,Yishan Liu,Hongyan Qu,Feng Dong,Jiehao Wang,2024-11-28 Underground energy is important for the whole society development but conventional underground energy is becoming exhausted The energy for deep reservoirs usually 3500m for petroleum engineering 1000m for mining engineering is diverse including not limited shale gas oil tight gas oil hot dry rock geothermal reservoirs and coal gasification Although it has abundant reserves the energy production from deep reservoirs is difficult in stimulations because the geological conditions for those deep reservoirs are tougher than those for conventional reservoirs such as high in situ stress obvious heterogeneity in rock properties and complex natural fracture networks Meanwhile common technologies also have environmental impacts The development trend of production technology for deep reservoirs requires it to be environment friendly or decrease environmental impacts at least CO2 utilization may achieve this environmental aim In order to efficiently produce energy from deep reservoirs technological innovation is booming around North America Europe and Asia
