Contest For Social Science Relations And Representations Of Gender And Class:

Leisure, Citizenship and Working-class Men in Britain, 1850-1945 Brad Beaven, 2005 From the bawdy audience of a Victorian Penny Gaff to the excitable crowd of an early twentieth century football match working class male leisure proved to be a contentious issue for contemporary observers For middle class social reformers from across the political spectrum the spectacle of popular leisure offered a view of working class habits and a means by which lifestyles and behaviour could be assessed For the mid Victorians gingerly stepping into a new mass democratic age the desire to create a bond between the recently enfranchised male worker and the nation was more important than ever This trend continued as those in governance perceived that good leisure and citizenship could fend off challenges to social stability such as imperial decline the mass degenerate city hooliganism civic and voter apathy and fascism Thus between 1850 and 1945 the issue of male leisure became enmeshed with changing contemporary debates on the encroaching mass society and its implications for good citizenry Working class culture has often been depicted as an atomised and fragmented entity lacking any significant cultural contestation Drawing on a wealth of primary and secondary source material this book powerfully challenges these recent assumptions and places social class centre stage once more Arguing that there was a remarkable continuity in male working class culture between 1850 and 1945 Beaven contends that despite changing socio economic contexts male working class culture continued to draw from a tradition of active participation and cultural contestation that was both class and gender exclusive This lively and readable book draws from fascinating accounts from those who participated in and observed contemporary popular leisure making it of importance to students and teachers of social history popular culture urban history historical geography historical sociology and cultural studies

Science, Reform, and Politics in Victorian Britain Lawrence Goldman, 2002-06-13 This book is a study of the relationships between social thought social policy and politics in Victorian Britain Goldman focuses on the activity of the National Association for the Promotion of Social Science known as the Social Science Association For three decades this served as a forum for the discussion of Victorian social questions and as an influential adviser to governments and its history discloses how social policy was made in these years The Association which attracted many powerful contributors including politicians civil servants intellectuals and reformers had influence over policy and legislation on matters as diverse as public health and women's legal and social emancipation The SSA reveals the complex roots of social science and sociology buried in the non academic milieu of nineteenth century reform And its influence in the United States and Europe allows for a comparative approach to political and intellectual development in this period

Edward Carpenter Sheila Rowbotham, 2009-10-05 The gay socialist writer Edward Carpenter had an extraordinary impact on the cultural and political landscape of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries A mystic advocate of among other causes free love recycling nudism women's suffrage and prison reform his work anticipated the sexual revolution of the 1960s Sheila Rowbotham's highly acclaimed biography situates Carpenter's life and thought in relation to the social aesthetic and intellectual movements of his day and explores his friendships with figures such as Walt Whitman E M Forster Isadora Duncan and Emma Goldman Edward Carpenter is a compelling portrait of a man described by contemporaries as a weather vane for his times Feminism, Femininity and the Politics of Working Women Gillian Scott, 1998 This text discusses the development of the Women's Co-operative Guild from the 1880s to World War II Charting the rise and fall of a feminist organization the author assesses its political significance and examines the causes of its demise

British and American School Stories, 1910-1960 Nancy G. Rosoff, Stephanie Spencer, 2019-02-25 This book examines school and college fiction for girls in Britain and the United States written in the first half of the twentieth century to explore the formation and ideologies of feminine identity Nancy G Rosoff and Stephanie Spencer develop a transnational framework that recognises how both constructed and essential femininities transcend national boundaries The book discusses the significance and performance of female friendship across time and place which is central to the development of the genre and how it functioned as an important means of informal education Stories by Jessie Graham Flower Pauline Lester Alice Ross Colver Elinor Brent Dyer and Dorita Fairlie Bruce are set within their historical context and then used to explore aspects of sociability authority responsibility domesticity and possibility The distinctiveness of this book stems from the historical analysis of these sources which have so far primarily been treated by literary scholars within their national context Winner of the History of Education Society Anne Bloomfield Prize for the best book on history of education published in English 2017 19 Hannah More Anne Stott, 2003 This is the first substantial biography of More for 50 years and the first to make extensive use of her unpublished correspondence

Speaking to Power Lynn Wilson, 2020-08-11 For nearly fifty years US government officials have identified Belau in western Micronesia as a key strategic site and have implemented administrative policies designed to maintain permanent access to Belau's land reefs and waters for military purposes Elder women placed themselves at the forefront of opposition to these policies and as part of oppositional efforts successfully entered international political arenas Speaking to Power moves beyond examining the impact of militarism and colonial administrative policy in Belau and draws on feminist poststructural analysis to explore the fluidity of contests in constructions of gender politics and tradition during US administration in Belau Leisure, citizenship and working-class men in Britain, 1850-1940 Brad Beaven, 2013-07-19 From the bawdy audience of a Victorian Penny Gaff to the excitable crowd of an early twentieth century football match working class male leisure proved to be a contentious issue for contemporary observers For middle class social reformers from across the political spectrum the spectacle of popular leisure offered a view of working class habits and a means by which lifestyles and behaviour could be assessed For the mid Victorians gingerly stepping into a new mass democratic age the desire to create a bond between the recently enfranchised male worker and the nation was more important than ever This trend continued as those in governance perceived that good leisure and citizenship could fend off challenges to social stability such as imperial decline the mass degenerate city hooliganism civic and voter apathy and fascism Thus between 1850 and 1945 the issue of male leisure became enmeshed with changing contemporary debates on the encroaching mass society and its implications for good citizenry Working class culture has often been depicted as an atomised and fragmented entity lacking any significant cultural contestation Drawing on a wealth of primary and secondary source material this book powerfully challenges these recent assumptions and places social class centre stage once more Arguing that there was a remarkable continuity in male working class culture between 1850 and 1945 Beaven contends that despite changing socio economic contexts male working class culture continued to draw from a tradition of active participation and cultural contestation that was both class and gender exclusive This lively and readable book draws from fascinating accounts from those who participated in and observed contemporary popular leisure making it of importance to students and teachers of social history popular culture urban history historical geography historical sociology and cultural studies Handbook of Research on Gender and Leadership Susan R. Madsen, 2017-05-26 Although some progress has been made in recent decades in getting women into top positions in government business and education there are on going persisting challenges with efforts to improve the opportunities for women in leadership The Handbook of Research on Gender and Leadership comprises the latest research from the world's foremost scholars on women and leadership exposing problems and offering both theoretical and practical solutions on how to best strengthen the impact of women around the world Labour History Review, 2004 Football and Social Sciences in Brazil Sérgio Settani Giglio, Marcelo Weishaupt Proni, 2021-11-02 This book presents a kaleidoscopic view of the multidisciplinary field of research developed within Brazilian social sciences to study football as a major cultural and social phenomenon in the country As a contributed volume it brings together chapters authored by researchers from different disciplines such as sociology anthropology political science history geography economy communication studies and physical education who contributed to make Brazilian football a multifaceted object of study for the human and social sciences The book is divided in four parts The first two parts are dedicated to the classic areas in which the best known research lines are concentrated part one focuses on politics and history while part two is dedicated to sociology and anthropology The third part brings together studies from other four different areas communication studies geography economy and physical education The fourth part is organized not by disciplines but around transversal themes such as gender violence fans and racism The varied approaches and different interpretations brought together in this book seek to provide an overview of the fertile academic debate that has stimulated the renewal of scientific research on football in Brazil which makes Football and Social Sciences in Brazil a useful resource for researchers from different disciplines within the human and social sciences interested in the study of football as major cultural and social phenomenon all over the world American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences 36-4 Nazreen S.
