Rural Racism Neil Chakraborti, Jon Garland, 2013-05-13 Rural issues are currently attracting unprecedented levels of interest with the debates surrounding the future of traditional rural customs and practice becoming a significant political concern However the problem of racism in rural areas has been largely overlooked by academics practitioners and researchers who have sought almost exclusively to develop an understanding of racism in urban contexts This book aims to address this oversight by examining notions of ethnic identity otherness and racist victimisation that have tended to be marginalised from traditional rural discourse

Rural Identities Sarah Neal, 2016-04-15 Rural Identities investigates and engages with the ways in which ideas of the English countryside and rural nature are enrolled into and fashion the narratives of Englishness At the heart of the book is an examination of the formations of rural social relations where the processes and practices through which rural attachments and senses of rural belonging are established and maintained Drawing on a substantial research project Rural Identities presents important new empirical material in its analysis of why the concepts of community and ethnicity are relevant to understanding the contested status of the English countryside In doing so it outlines the exclusionary limitations and inclusionary possibilities of the relational discourses of rurality and nation The rich empirical material and the conceptual apparatus employed in this volume render it appealing to policy makers as well as to scholars of research is undertaken and knowledge is formed In this instance the aim was to connect the largely discrete research domains of tourism studies and migration This was informed not only by awareness of the limitations of disciplinary barriers but also by the growing need to respond to the emergence of new forms of mobility and circulation which fitted uncomfortably into many of the analytical categories of tourism and migration studies The extension of property rights across boundaries e g second homes vacation homes and time shares space time convergence changing approaches to work and leisure and structural changes in economies and the demographic profiles of societies are only some of the factors which have generated these new forms of mobility These serve to bind places and individuals in new and challenging ways with implication for both movers and stayers The various chapters of this volume bring together a range of dimensions and locations within which to study the relationships between tourism and migration
