Contextual Factors In Education:

Contextual Factors in Education ,1987 Individual and Contextual Factors in the English Language

Classroom Rahma Al-Mahrooqi,Christopher J. Denman,2022-03-22 This edited volume examines a number of topics related to the roles of individual and contextual factors in English as second or foreign language ESL EFL settings by presenting chapters across the three sections of theoretical and pedagogical approaches teacher and learner research and research into the roles of technology The book has a focus on practical actions and recommendations related to individual and contextual factors in ESL EFL with a specific concern with issues of cognition metacognition emotion and identity and offers perspectives from a diverse range of international education settings For teachers of ESL EFL the effective recognition and integration of individual and contextual factors into the classroom may represent a significant challenge This is often the case in those settings where native English speaking teachers work in foreign language contexts where they may have limited understanding of local cultures and languages or where language instructors have class groups that are culturally and linguistically diverse In these and similar contexts the types and extent of individual and contextual factors impacting on language learning may challenge both learner and instructor expectations of what an effective and supportive classroom is While such a situation offers numerous opportunities for learners and teachers to expand their knowledge of themselves and each other it also presents the possibility for ineffective teaching and learning to occur It is within this framework that the book presents the latest theoretical pedagogical and research perspectives from around the world thereby providing a resource for all stakeholders with an interest in the roles individual and contextual factors play in the English learning process

Science Education Keith S. Taber, 2009-05-29 Exploring one of the central themes in science education theory this volume examines how science education can be considered as a scientific activity within a broad post positivist notion of science Many students find learning science extremely problematic whatever level of education they have reached At the end of the 1970s a new approach to tackling learning difficulties in science was developed drawing on ideas from psychology and cognitive science and centred on the way students build up new knowledge in reference to their existing ideas Constructivism became the dominant paradigm in science education research for two decades spawning a vast body of literature reporting aspects of learners ideas in different science topics However Constructivism came under fire as it was recognised that the research did not offer immediate and simple prescriptions for effective science teaching The whole approach was widely criticised in particular by those who saw it as having anti science leanings In this book the notion of scientific research programmes is used to understand the development limitations and potential of constructivism It is shown that constructivist work in science education fits into a coherent programme exploring the contingencies of learning science The author goes further to address criticisms of constructivism evaluate progress in the field and suggest directions for future research It is concluded that constructivism has provided the foundations for a progressive research programme that continues to guide enquiry into learning and teaching science Students and universities

Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Innovation, Universities, Science and Skills Committee, 2009-08-02 The Innovation Universities Science and Skills Committee calls for urgent changes in the higher education sector in this report examining students university experience The report says the current system for safeguarding standards is out of date inconsistent and should be replaced The Quality Assurance Agency should be transformed into an independent Quality and Standards Agency with a specific standards remit The Committee also says that the culture at the top of the sector should change The Committee found defensive complacency in the leadership of the sector and no appetite to explore key issues such as the reasons for proportional increase in first and upper second class honours degrees in the past 15 years Support for and treatment of part time and mature students should be improved the current system amounts to a form of discrimination The Government's forthcoming review of fees needs to examine all aspects of support for these students The report also says further education colleges should play a larger role in the development of higher education the Government should help create a credit transfer system which will allow credit earned in one institution to be transferred to another schemes such as those run by Leeds University for students from disadvantaged backgrounds should be standard practice across the sector there is a lack of consistency across the higher education sector and codes of practice applying to all institutions receiving public money should be introduced elements of chance in the admissions process should be reduced so that students get a fairer deal on access to university
