Continuing Discussions in Teacher Certification Testing, 1994 What's Happening in Teacher Testing Lawrence M. Rudner, 1987 Linking Standards and Assessment, 1997 Defending Standardized Testing Richard Phelps, 2005-03-23 The education reform movement of the past two decades has focused on raising academic standards Some standards advocates attach a testing mechanism to gauge the extent to which high standards are actually accomplished whereas some critics accuse the push for standards and testing of impeding reform and perpetuating inequality At the same time the testing profession has produced advances in the format accuracy dependability and utility of tests Never before has obtaining such an abundance of accurate and useful information about student learning been possible Meanwhile the American public remains steadfast in support of testing to measure student performance and monitor the performance of educational systems Many educational testing experts who acknowledge the benefits of testing also believe that those benefits have been insufficiently articulated Although much has been written on standardized testing policy most of the material has been written by opponents The contributing authors of this volume are both accomplished researchers and practitioners who are respected and admired worldwide They bring to the project an abundance of experience working with standardized tests The goal of Defending Standardized Testing is to describe current standardized testing policies and strategies explain many of the common criticisms of standardized testing document the public support for and the realized benefits of standardized testing acknowledge the limitations of and suggest improvements to testing practices provide guidance for structuring and administering large scale testing programs in light of public preferences and the No Child Left Behind Act requirements and present a defense of standardized testing and a vision for its future Defending Standardized Testing minimizes the use of technical jargon so as to appeal to all who have a stake in American educational reform
