Jackson,2007-07-11 The population structure in the world is rapidly changing to the extent that in 75 years we will face a tripling of the elderly population Although women are favored in terms of life expectancy they also live with a longer period of disability approximately twice that of aging men as well as with the enemies of all the elderly cardiovascular disease cancer and dementia Menopause is the endocrine event that overlaps with aging potentially worsening both the quality of life and the risks of disease in women While the effect of hormone replacement therapy HRT on menopausal symptoms is generally viewed as rapid and consistent and is thereby accepted by the scientific community its relationship to the other aforementioned chronic conditions associated with menopause is considered variable and controversial In analyzing these complex issues this volume yields new and significant insights into both the study of menopause related disorders and their treatment by illustrating the most recent information on mechanisms of actions of new estrogen receptors and on the use of sophisticated techniques of statistical analysis for population based studies

The Menopause H.J. Buchsbaum,2012-12-06 Nearly one half of an American woman s life is spent after the cessation of reproductive function A woman of 40 years has an additional life expectancy of nearly 40 years a woman of 75 over 11 years This pattern of longevity is likely to continue so that by the year 2000 it has been estimated 30 percent of the female population will be postmenopausal While it is difficult to separate the results of aging from those of estrogen deprivation it is important that we try to do so since the results of the latter are amenable to treatment The medical infirmities resulting from estrogen deprivation take a high toll among postmenopausal women Nearly 200 000 hip fractures occur annually in this group resulting in 15 000 deaths and a high morbidity rate Sleep disorders compromised sexuality psychomotor alterations of the climacterium and urinary tract disorders all contribute to a lowered quality of life Appropriate treatment of these disturbing postmenopausal conditions requires an understanding of the underlying bio chemical endocrinologic psychologic and pathophysiologic al terations of estrogen deprivation Toward this end the reader will find herein chapters dealing with estrogen metabolism in the postmenopausal female end organ response to estrogen deprivation and bone metabolism and osteoporosis Next the reader will find chapters dealing with specific or gans organ systems or conditions related to the quality of life for example sexuality urinary tract problems sleep disorders the breast sports and exercise the climacteric and the psycho biology of the menopause

Hormonal Contraception and Post-menopausal Hormonal Therapy IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans, 1999 Evaluates evidence for an increased risk of cancer in women using combined oral contraceptives progestogen only hormonal contraceptives post menopausal estrogen therapy and post menopausal estrogen progestogen therapy Although the carcinogenicity of these preparations has been extensively investigated the book stresses the many complex methodological issues that must be considered when interpreting findings and weighing results Evidence of an association between use of these preparations and positive effects on health including a reduced risk of some cancers is also critically assessed The first and most extensive monograph evaluates evidence of an association between the use of combined oral contraceptives and cancer at nine sites Concerning breast cancer the evaluation concludes that even if the association is causal the excess risk for breast cancer associated with patterns of use that are typical today is very small Studies of predominantly high dose preparations found an increased risk of hepatocellular carcinoma in the absence of hepatitis viruses Citing these findings the evaluation concludes that there is sufficient evidence in humans for the carcinogenicity of combined oral contraceptives The evaluation also found sufficient evidence for the carcinogenicity of some but not all combined preparations in animals Combined oral contraceptives were classified as carcinogenic to humans The evaluation also cites conclusive evidence that these agents have a protective effect against cancers of the ovary and endometrium Progestogen only contraceptives are evaluated in the second monograph which considers the association with cancer at six sites The evaluation found no evidence of an increased risk for breast cancer Although the evaluation found sufficient evidence in animals for the carcinogenicity of medroxyprogesterone acetate evidence for the carcinogenicity of progestogen only contraceptives in humans was judged inadequate Progestogen only contraceptives were classified as possibly carcinogenic to humans The third monograph on post menopausal estrogen therapy considers evidence of an association with cancer at eight sites Findings from a large number of epidemiological studies indicate a small increase in the risk of breast cancer in women who have used these preparations for five years or more Studies consistently show an association between use of post menopausal estrogen therapy and an increased risk for endometrial cancer Data on the association with other cancers were either inconclusive or suggested no effect on risk The evaluation concludes that post menopausal estrogen therapy is carcinogenic to humans The final monograph evaluates the association between the use of post menopausal estrogen progestogen therapy and cancer at four sites The evaluation of limited data on breast cancer found an increased relative risk observed with long term use Data were judged insufficient to assess the effects of past use and of different progestogen compounds doses and treatment schedules For endometrial cancer the evaluation found an increase in risk relative to non users when the progestogen was added to the cycle for 10 days or fewer Post menopausal estrogen progestogen therapy was classified as possibly carcinogenic to humans Concerning post menopausal therapy in general the book notes that evidence of carcinogenic risks must be placed in perspective of potential benefits The prevention of osteoporotic fractures is cited as the best established benefit Evidence also suggests that estrogen prevents heart disease and may prevent memory loss and dementia Berek & Novak's Gynecology Jonathan S. Berek, 2025-04-22 Covering the entire spectrum of women s healthcare Berek preventive and primary care for women and methods of diagnosis and management in general gynecology operative gynecology urogynecology and pelvic reconstructive surgery early pregnancy issues reproductive endocrinology and gynecologic oncology Diagnosis of Endometrial Biopsies and Curettings Tricia A. Volodymyr Dvornyk,2013-01-22 Menopause is a significant event in a woman's life as is generally considered as an indicator for senescence in women. Evidence suggests that menopause results in many psychological and postmenopausal health problems such as anxiety, osteoporosis, cardiovascular disease, metabolic disorder and others. Menopausal symptoms and associated disorders are of great importance for public health as they influence the quality of life of affected individuals. Therefore, proper management of menopause will definitely contribute to healthy aging and the overall well-being of women. This e-book reviews recent progress in the research and management of menopause and associated health problems. It provides comprehensive coverage of both clinical aspects and basic research of menopause. Topics covered in this e-book include research findings about risk factors for complex medical conditions associated with menopause along with the treatment options for these conditions with particular emphasis on hormone replacement therapy (HRT). These conditions include osteoporosis, dementia, cardiovascular diseases, obesity and diabetes mellitus. Subsequent chapters detail on common oncological malignancies post-menopause. The e-book concludes with a review of HRT treatment including its advantages and disadvantages followed by a review on risk factors, causes and complications of premature menopause occurring in women before an age of 40 years. This e-book is a valuable guide for medical researchers and gynecological professionals with a focus on the pathophysiology and treatment of this medical condition. Journal of the National Cancer Institute, 1990
