HOW TO HANDLE DISRESPECT

4 Key Strategies to Handle Disrespect

	Assess the Situation	Address Calmly	Set Clear Boundaries	Know When to Walk Away
Scenario	A team member dismisses your idea.	Your manager uses a harsh tone.	A colleague interrupts often.	A customer makes a rude comment.
What to Do	Pause and decide if it was intentional or stress-driven.	Speak privately, staying calm and clear about boundaries.	Politely assert your need to finish speaking. <small>By Justin Mecham</small>	Decide if responding helps or if staying silent preserves your peace.
What to Say	"Can we revisit my idea and discuss it further?"	"I value your feedback, but I'd prefer a more constructive tone."	"Please let me finish my point before we continue."	"Thank you for your input. Let's move forward with the solution."

Control In Conflict:

Disarming Conflict Ernie Regehr, 2015-10-15 In the past quarter century our world has hosted ninety nine wars twenty nine of these are ongoing The bill for maintaining huge stores of weapons and some 70 million people in uniform currently stands at 1.7 trillion a year Of these wars over 85 percent are not settled on the battlefield they are fought to desperately hurting stalemates eventually being turned over to diplomats and politicians who go in search of whatever face saving outcomes may still be available And yet abandoning the conference table in favour of the battlefield is still justified when viewed as a last resort In this brave and discerning book Ernie Regehr OC explains the approaches and initiatives needed to steer away from the futility of global military effort Combining four decades of experience in conflict zones advising and leading diplomacy efforts building NGOs and contributing to the adoption of the Responsibility to Protect Act by the World Assembly Regehr boldly shows that political stability will never be issued from the barrel of a gun

Unconscious information processing in executive control Nicola De Pisapia, The aim of this Frontiers Research Topic is to review and further explore the topic of unconscious processing in executive control Executive control refers to the ability of the human brain mostly associated with prefrontal cortex activity to regulate the processing involved in the execution of novel or complex goal directed tasks Previous studies or models of human cognition have assumed that executive control necessarily requires conscious processing of information This perspective is in line with common sense and personal introspection which suggest that our choices are intentional and based on conscious stimuli Nevertheless in the last few years several behavioural and cognitive neuroscience studies have put under scrutiny this assumption Cumulating evidence is now showing that prefrontal executive control can involve or be triggered by unconscious processing of information with consequent effects on observed behaviours One of the main methods adopted to study such unconscious mechanisms is masked priming consisting in presenting visually masked stimuli which nonetheless are shown to affect goal directed behaviour or influence constructs linked to executive control and prefrontal cortex activity e.g. task set representation response inhibition conflict monitoring error detection reward processing emotion regulation and task switching This area of research is relatively young and while scientific evidence is emerging no general consensus has been reached yet on how to interpret these early findings some researchers accept that executive control can involve unconscious processing others momentarily put aside in first approximation this issue others criticize this possibility on theoretical grounds e.g. pointing to the need of better definitions of terms such as control conflict and consciousness or based on experimental findings At this stage it appears necessary that researchers in the field make a collective effort to deepen the understanding of the unconscious mechanisms involved in executive control This Research Topic will focus on neuroscience but it will welcome contributions on purely behavioural and psychophysiological studies patient reports computational investigations as well as philosophical and historical analyses of the relationship between executive control and consciousness In particular we encourage experts in this field to submit contributions in the form of a reviews opinions and discussions on existing literature concerning unconscious processing of information in executive control b original research articles both behavioural only and neuroimaging studies on unconscious processing of information in executive control c discussions and opinions on new methodologies to investigate this issue e g other than masked priming which has been the technique of choice in most of the existing studies

Church Conflict Charles H. Cosgrove,Dennis D. Hatfield,1994 If church is like a family it fights like one too As in any family conflict in the church family is natural and inevitable But the way the church family handles its fights can make or break ministry By using stories and examples of real problems at actual churches Cosgrove and Hatfield have applied family systems theory to help us identify the hidden structural boundaries in any group relationship They show how the dynamics and family rules operating in the informal family like church system powerfully influence how church members relate to each other
