Country Houses:

The Architecture of Country Houses A. Downing, 2012-03-08 Cheshire Country Houses Peter De Figueiredo, Julian Treuherz, 1988 The Country Houses of Shropshire Gareth Williams, 2021

A gazetteer of the many fine Shropshire country houses which covers the architecture the owners family history and the social and economic circumstances that affected them Shropshire is the largest English inland county and has a wide variety of important landed country houses with owners from diverse social groups with links to trade in Liverpool Manchester and London as well as the local gentry This book is not simply about the houses they built but also about the people who lived in them and the context in which the houses are set The architecture is of course fully covered What is distinctive about the author s approach is that he treats the histories of the families their artistic tastes and their estates as an integral part of the character of each house Country houses can serve as a barometer of national tastes and of the social and economic times in which they were built The work includes reference to the important sporting associations fine and decorative art collections and to important guests and social networks Unlike most architectural guides this aims at a wider readership and will be an important resource for social historians genealogists and local historians The Country Houses of Shropshire considers the history of 347 identified houses of varying importance those with a significant or influential history are given a main entry of up to 6000 words whilst lesser houses are treated with an entry of less than 1000 words All houses have footnoted entries enabling the reader to refer directly to source and to undertake further research themselves rtant guests and social networks Unlike most architectural guides this aims at a wider readership and will be an important resource for social historians genealogists and local historians The Country Houses of Shropshire considers the history of 347 identified houses of varying importance those with a significant or influential history are given a main entry of up to 6000 words whilst lesser houses are treated with an entry of less than 1000 words All houses have footnoted entries enabling the reader to refer directly to source and to undertake further research themselves rtant guests and social networks Unlike most architectural guides this aims at a wider readership and will be an important resource for social historians genealogists and local historians The Country Houses of Shropshire considers the history of 347 identified houses of varying importance those with a significant or influential history are given a main entry of up to 6000 words whilst lesser houses are treated with an entry of less than 1000 words All houses have footnoted entries enabling the reader to refer directly to source and to undertake further research themselves f less than 1000 words All houses have footnoted entries enabling the reader to refer directly to source and to undertake further research themselves Life in the English Country House Mark Girouard, 1978-01-01 Based on the author's Slade lectures given at Oxford University in 1975

76 English Country Houses William Wilkinson, 1870 English Country Houses and Landed Estates Heather A. Clemenson, 1982-01-01 Warwickshire Country Houses Geoffrey Tyack, 1994 Warwickshire boasts some of England's finest country houses ranging in date from the Middle Ages to the 20th century This book gives a comprehensive history of 53 of the main houses in the historic county such as the medieval castle of Warwick and ancient manor houses such as Baddesley Clinton The often complex histories of these houses are related in detail with information about the families who built and lived in them and about the architects craftsmen and gardeners who created them There are also accounts in gazetteer format of 100 of the lesser known houses General editor Nicholas Kingsley English Country Houses and Landed Estates Heather Clemenson, 2021-11-30 Originally published in 1982 and based on extensive research in estates archives this book outlines the changing fate of the 500 largest estates in England over the centuries It examines estates in their heyday and looks at their changing role as they declined in the twentieth century showing how some estates have survived and describing the differing uses to which country houses have been put The Country House Described Michael Holmes, National Art Library (Great Britain), Victoria and Albert Museum, 1986 The aim of this index is to provide a quick reference to the literature on individual country houses in England Wales Scotland and Ireland held in the National Art Library at the Victoria and Albert Museum Over 4 000 country houses are included The contents of 135 general books on architecture architectural details and county histories have been indexed as well as guides to individual country houses catalogues of collections and sales catalogues Only a few periodicals apart from Country Life up to 1982 have been included

Introduction Creating Paradise Richard Wilson, Alan Mackley, 2000 Looking at the building of country houses as a whole this book investigates why owners embarked on extensive building programmes often following a grand tour It explores the cost of building and the cost of furnishing and decoration Country Houses of Dorset Arthur Oswald, 1935 Lost Country Houses of the North East Ian Greaves, 2024-03-15 A fascinating highly illustrated description of the lost country houses of the North East of England The Architecture of Country-Houses; Including Designs for Cottages, Farm-houses, and Villas ... With ... Illustrations Andrew Jackson DOWNING, 1853 English Country Houses Christopher Hussey, 1988 Country Houses of Britain and Ireland Tom Quinn, 2005 This book covers aristocratic dwellings from a range of periods including the late medieval Owlpen Manor in Gloucestershire and the beautiful Victorian interior of Knebworth House in Hertfordshire Tom Quinn's lively commentary brings each country house to life Some Country Houses and Their Owners James Lees-Milne, 2009 During the 1930s and 1940s a charming clever and sharply observant young man named James Lees Milne visited the owners of country houses all over England with a view to persuading them to hand over their properties for preservation by the National Trust His famous diaries of these travels first published in the 1970s are both uproariously funny as he describes the owners eccentricities and deeply poignant as he depicts a world and way of life which are coming to an end Country Houses of England Geoffrey Tyack, Steven Brindle, 1994 County by county descriptions cover most of the houses regularly open to the public and details of the architects artists craftsmen and families responsible for them Country Houses of the Cotswolds Nicholas Mander, 2008 Highlighting England's largest designated area of outstanding natural beauty this beautifully presented pictorial demonstrates why the Cotswolds continue to fascinate tourists from around the globe From the region's unique unspoiled countryside its unrivaled heritage of vernacular architecture in limestone and sublime castles to the Prince of Wales's new garden at Highgrove House and the classical county houses and noblemen's palaces of the 18th century this stunning collection of photographs is testament to the historical and architectural importance of the area With more than 200 colorful photographs accompanied by descriptions of the architecture gardens and history this intriguing resource is historically important visual journey to one of Europe's most picturesque and nostalgic destinations The Country Houses of Northamptonshire John Heward, Robert Taylor, 1996 From the 14th century roof at Drayton House to the English Baroque of Easton Neston the country houses of Northamptonshire present a cross section of English architecture Lesser known buildings included in this book vary from late medieval manors such as Hardwick Manor House to the Neo Classical facade of Ayah Park The volume contains a gazetteer exploring the development of 59 Northamptonshire country houses It is illustrated with photographs drawings and plans as well as reproductions of engravings and other early documents The Architecture of Country Houses Andrew Jackson Downing, 1853
