Fraud, Fakery and False Business Abigail Harrison Moore, 2011-09-08 In 1922 Adolphe Shrager having made his fortune during the First World War approached the London dealer Basil Dighton for advice on purchasing antique furniture Dighton sold him about five hundred items but shortly afterwards Shrager discovered that one of his collector's pieces was judged to be a fake and grossly over priced and he sued The trial held in early 1923 became a cause celebre but it can be viewed as a case study of a much wider set of social and cultural concerns the fact that Shrager lost both the first trial and the appeal despite demonstrating on numerous occasions that he had a clear case against Dighton raises questions of race prejudice and class where the establishment closed ranks against Shrager the nouveau riche Jew and alleged war profiteer This book the first on the Shrager Dighton case is the result of the author's original archival research

Country Visions Paul J. Cloke,2003 Country Visions is a highly readable challenging and incisive collection of essays exploring different ways of knowing rurality of understanding the countryside The essays suggest that we must go beyond cultural constructions of rural idyll and their accompanying political cultural and theoretical orthodoxies which risk both purification of transgressive presences and practices and ignorance of significant agency and performance It begs questions about how to read analyse and write about the country about how the countryside works for its actors and how it might work better in the future

The Contested Countryside Jeremy Burchardt, Philip Conford, 2020-06-25 Life in rural Britain has changed beyond recognition since the beginning of the 20th century Not only dramatic events such as the ban on hunting and mad cow disease but also the growth of the organic movement changes in farming practices and increasing rural poverty have all had an effect on how we view the countryside and the people who live there In The Contested Countryside the authors put contemporary rural issues in their historical context which they argue is essential in order to see modern problems in a clearer light and perhaps even find some solutions The Contested Countryside examines the historical background to some of the main controversies of contemporary rural life The authors explore key elements of rural life including the varying responses to animal disease from Biblical times to the 2001 outbreak of foot and mouth the relationship between farming methods and landscape preservation as well as organic farming the role of the European Union and the truth about the Countryside Alliance In the process they address the thorny question of whether the countryside can still support a rural population The Contested Countryside is essential reading for anyone with an interest in 21st century rural life in Britain

English Landed Society in the Great War Edward Bujak, 2020-04-30 The extent to which the Great War impacted upon English landed society is most vividly recalled in the loss of young heirs to ancient estates English Landed Society in the Great War considers the impact of the war on these estates Using the archives of Country Life Edward Bujak examines the landed estate that flourished in England In doing so he explores the extent to which the wartime state penetrated into the heartlands of the landed aristocracy and gentry and the corrosive effects that the progressive and systematic militarization of the countryside had on the authority of the squire The book demonstrates how the commitment of landowners to the defence of an England of home and beauty an image also adopted in wartime propaganda ironically led to its transformation By using the landed estate to examine the transition from Edwardian England to modern Britain English Landed Society in the Great War provides a unique lens through which to consider the First World War and its impact on English society

Village England Trevor Wild,2020-12-24 The romantic imagery of village England and the prominence that this commands in English cultural identity is well known Yet just how accurate is this notion of the rural idyll in which the organic nature of village life was gradually undermined and destroyed by social and economic factors Trevor Wild's text explores the evolution of village England from the earliest times to the present Drawing upon both contemporary accounts and scholarship he provides an engaging and revealing account of the major transformations affecting the English village Of particular interest is the book's coverage of the more recent past with the whittling away of the great estates the appearance of such institutions as the village hall and the development of alternative systems of power such as the councils Elephants Are Not Picked from Trees Liv Emma Thorsen,2014-08-29 Elephants are not picked from trees are the words of Swedish taxidermist and conservator David Sjolander spoken while he was in Angola looking for a fine bull elephant specimen in the autumn of 1948 At the age of 62 Sjolander was to satisfy his life's dream of shooting the elephant he for so long had wished to prepare and exhibit The African elephant was to be the main attraction in the Mammal Room of the Gothenburg Museum of Natural History Liv Emma Thorsen professor of cultural history has reconstructed the collection history of four mammals exhibited in the Gothenburg Museum of Natural History that attracted much attention when they were displayed to the public for the first time The elephant gorilla Tonkean macaque and walrus The book examines how the museum acquired animals for its exhibits from 1906 to 1948 and how living animal bodies became museum exhibits Using photographs and documents from the Gothenburg Museum of Natural History the book shows that these museums are in possession of valuable material for writing the cultural history of animals and that the museums of natural history display a nature that is historically socially and culturally construed
