Contemporary Southeast Asia Mark Beeson, 2004 BERGER Senior Lecturer in International Studies University of New South Wales Australia CHUA BENG HUAT Professor Department of Sociology National University of Singapore Singapore WILLIAM CASE Senior Lecturer School of International Business and Asian Studies Griffith University Australia LORRAINE ELLIOTT Fellow Department of International Relations The Australian National University Australia and until August 2005 Reader Department of Politics and International Studies University of Warwick UK ROBERT ELSON Professor of Southeast Asian History School of History Philosophy Religion and Classics University of Queensland Australia GREG FEALY Research Fellow Research School of Pacific and Asian Studies and Lecturer Faculty of Asian Studies The Australian National University Australia GREG FEL KER Assistant Professor Division of Social Science Hong Kong University of Science and Technology Hong Kong VEDI HADIZ Assistant Professor Department of Sociology National University of Singapore Singapore RICHARD STUBBS Professor of Political Science McMaster University Canada Dynamic of Ethnic Relations in Southeast Asia Mohd Azizuddin Mohd Sani, Shamsuddin L. Taya, 2010-04-16 Dr Mahathir Mohamad former Prime Minister of Malaysia said in the Far Eastern Economic Review 28 October 1996 The threat is from inside So we have to be armed so to speak Not with guns but with the necessary laws to make sure the country remains stable He implied that ethnic conflict and political instability are inevitable in a multi ethnic society unless protected by certain laws Ethnic conflict is like a time bomb The misuse of human rights for political ends and to exploit ethnic sentiments can spark ethnic conflict In theory the modern nation state must achieve pluralism in its project of nation building There are few nations in the world which consist of a single ethnic group Yet multi ethnicity also seems to be a serious challenge to any system of government especially in Southeast Asia as it adds possibly deep running cleavages to societies Some groups are marginalized in the course of nation building as a result of the nature of the relationship between nation and state Arjun Appadurai stated that the nation and the state have become one another's project groups try to capture states and their power while states try to monopolize about the nationhood There is always tension between the centre and the margin The centre often consists of one ethnic group and marginalised minority groups are denied their right to equality Sometimes horrible wars with thousands of victims commence as a consequence of such processes of ethnically framed nation building Therefore a democratic setting should be functionally superior that is in a better position to moderate the escalatory tendencies inherent in a multi ethnic setting thereby achieving less violence prone conflict management and its eventual resolution in Southeast Asia This book is intended for anyone interested in the subject of ethnic relations and conflicts especially politicians policy makers civil society activists academia and students of ethnic race studies and Southeast Asian politics Modernization Trends in Southeast Asia Terence Chong, 2005 This book discusses and identifies the modernizing trends which have changed Southeast Asian countries in varying ways After an overview of current concepts of modernity the following chapters introduce issues of education citizenship and ethnicity

religion the emergence of the middle class and mass consumption in Southeast Asia This book concludes by profiling the characteristics of Southeast Asian modernity

Non-Western International Relations Theory Amitav Acharya, Barry Buzan, 2009-12-22 Given that the world has moved well beyond the period of Western colonialism and clearly into a durable period in which non Western cultures have gained their political autonomy it is long past time that non Western voices had a higher profile in debates about international relations not just as disciples of Western schools of thought but as inventors of their own approaches Western IR theory has had the advantage of being the first in the field and has developed many valuable insights but few would defend the position that it captures everything we need to know about world politics In this book Acharya and Buzan introduce non Western IR traditions to a Western IR audience and challenge the dominance of Western theory An international team of experts reinforce existing criticisms that IR theory is Western focused and therefore misrepresents and misunderstands much of world history by introducing the reader to non Western traditions literature and histories relevant to how IR is conceptualised Including case studies on Chinese Japanese South Korean Southeast Asian Indian and Islamic IR this book redresses the imbalance and opens up a cross cultural comparative perspective on how and why thinking about IR has developed in the way it has As such it will be invaluable reading for both Western and Asian audiences interested in international relations theory

The Regional and Local Shaping of World Society Mark Herkenrath, 2007 Globalization is usually seen as a uniform force producing similar social consequences across all societies affected The contributions in this volume challenge this notion by demonstrating that reactions to the same global changes vary across different parts of the world In particular this volume examines the crucial role of economically and politically integrated regions as mediators between global challenges and local responses To the extent that different regional reactions to global change retroact on their global context global social transformation becomes a highly complex phenomenon

Institutions of the Asia-Pacific Mark Beeson, 2008-08-18 The Asia Pacific is arguably the most important but also the most complex and contested region on the planet Containing three of the world s largest economies and some of its most important strategic relationships the region s capacity of regional elites to promote continuing economic development whilst simultaneously maintaining peace and stability will be one of the defining challenges of the twenty first century international order Intuitively we might expect regional institutions to play a major role in achieving this Yet one of the most widely noted characteristics of the Asia Pacific region has been its relatively modest levels of institutional development thus far However things are changing as individual economies in the Asia Pacific become more deeply integrated there is a growing interest in developing and adding to the institutions that already exist Institutions of the Asia Pacific examines how this region is developing and what role established organisations like APEC and new bodies like ASEAN Plus Three are playing in this process An expert in the field Mark Beeson introduces the contested nature of the very region itself should it be the Asia Pacific or East Asia to which we pay most attention and expect to see most institutional development By placing these developments in historical context he reveals why the very definition of the region remains unsettled and why the political economic and strategic relations of this remarkably diverse region remain fraught and difficult to manage Mutual Trust in Regional and Interregional Cooperation on Counterterrorism Céline C. Cocq, 2024-07-29 This book provides a detailed theoretical and practical analysis of a key concept in cooperation namely mutual trust in the EU and ASEAN regions It particularly looks at the issue of counterterrorism It analyses the differences in the legalistic approach of the EU and the consultation and consensus based approach in the ASEAN region and the correlation between mutual trust and regional and interregional cooperation against terrorism Thereby this book extends the well known concept of counterterrorism in EU criminal law to another regional case in order to analyse its possible use and operationalisation in other regions It provides important findings on whether and if so how the EU and ASEAN legal frameworks have facilitated intra regional and potentially interregional cooperation In order to measure trust it focuses on information sharing and discusses the terminology related to this matter the mechanisms of cooperation and the difficulties and successes of information sharing This book is of great interest for academics doing research on trust transnational cooperation regional counterterrorism legal architecture in the EU and ASEAN and comparative legal regional and interregional analysis and officials and practitioners involved in transnational cooperation in criminal matters especially terrorism

Transforming Learning in Schools and Communities Bob Lingard, Jon Nixon, Stewart Ranson, 2011-11-03 Many educators have been looking for a fundamentally different approach to engage young people and encourage progress in learning Supported by recent public policy developments a transformation is beginning to take place in the practice of many schools The focus of learning is shifting away from the child as an individual in a classroom detached from the surrounding neighbourhood to a learning community that embraces carers and families as well as young people and teachers This monograph analyses the organising principles of this cultural transformation and considers how it will shape learning in schools and communities throughout the world The book brings together key thinkers from the fields of new learning new communities of educational practice and new forms of educational governance Arguing for the necessary interconnectedness of pedagogy institutions and governance this ground breaking book will undoubtedly shape the policy agenda in this area for years to come

Bounding the Mekong Jim Glassman, 2010-09-16 Transnational economic integration has been described by globalization boosters as a rising tide that will lift all boats an opportunity for all participants to achieve greater prosperity through a combination of political cooperation and capitalist economic competition The Asian Development Bank ADB has championed such rhetoric in promoting the integration of China Southeast Asia s formerly socialist states and Thailand into a regional project called the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS But while the GMS project is in fact hastening regional economic integration Jim Glassman shows that the approach belies the ADB s idealized description of win win outcomes The process of actually existing globalization in the GMS does provide varied opportunities for different actors but it is less a rising tide that lifts all boats than an uneven flood of transnational capitalist development whose outcomes are determined by intense class struggles market competition and regulatory battles Glassman makes the case for adopting a class based approach to analysis of GMS development regionalization and actually existing globalization First he analyzes the interests and actions of various Thai participants in GMS development then the roles of different Chinese actors in GMS integration He next provides two cases illustrating the serious limits of any notion that GMS integration is a relatively egalitarian process Laos participation in GMS development and the role of migrant Burmese workers in the production of the GMS He finds that Burmese migrant workers dam displaced Chinese and Laotian villagers and economically stressed Thai farmers and small businesses are relative losers compared to the powerful business interests that shape GMS integration from locations like Bangkok and Kunming as well as key sites outside the GMS like Beijing Singapore and Tokyo The final chapter blends geographical historical analysis with an assessment of uneven development and actually existing globalization in the GMS Cogent and persuasive Bounding the Mekong will attract attention from the growing number of scholars analyzing globalization neoliberalism regionalization and multiple scales of governance It is suitable for graduate courses in geography political science and sociology as well as courses with a regional focus

Re-Shaping Education for Citizenship Mike Byram, Lai Pak-Sang, 2011-11-15 Despite or perhaps because of globalisation and internationalisation in the contemporary world the role of education has become more significant in nation formation However whereas in the past its function was to create homogeneity and assimilation today it must deal with diversity and plurality The modernist premise of one nation one state is being questioned and re constituted with the notion of the plural national state This book explores school processes in Hong Kong under these new conditions The focus is on investigating how the concept of a national identity of the one country two systems policy is developing and is thus a study of that diversity which all education systems now have to address The policy aims at facilitating national re integration and consolidation in the face of an insistence on local citizens universal civic rights and the values of liberty equality democracy and autonomy The analysis shows citizenship education in the Hong Kong school system is more a locally oriented cultural and political process than a transmission of a national ideology Students learn their values attitudes and perspectives by engaging and interacting with people within and beyond the school community They acquire a liberal and democratic national identity which is distinct from that of pan Chinese state nationalism in mainland China The book is thus both a case study of Hong Kong and an analysis of change in the relationship of education citizenship and national identity in the contemporary world

Rethinking Political Islam Shadi Hamid, William Faizi McCants, 2017 Rethinking Political Islam offers a fine grained and definitive overview of the changing world of political Islam in the post Arab Uprising era

Regionalism, Globalisation and International Order Jens-Uwe Wunderlich, 2016-03-23 New regionalism and globalization have been prominent themes in academic and political debates since the beginning of the 1990s Despite the considerable amount of scholarly attention that the new regionalism has received in recent years its full empirical and theoretical potential has yet to be fully investigated This illuminating study provides an overview of new avenues in theorizing regionalism and proposes a consolidated framework for analysis and comparison Offering a comparative historical perspective of European and Southeast Asian regionalism it presents new and imaginative insights into the theory and practice of regionalism and the links between regional developments globalization and international order

The Battle for Asia Mark T. Berger, 2004 This book is a history of the Asian region from 1945 to the present day which delineates the various ideological battles over Asia's development

Regimes in Southeast Asia Henriette Litta, 2011-11-01 In the context of massive environmental problems in Southeast Asia the countries in the region have decided at least in some instances to create regimes to solve these problems jointly This empirical observation is surprising given the Southeast Asian countries' general reluctance to regional cooperation the governance and budgetary constraints that are typical for developing countries and the huge heterogeneity of the involved countries in terms of environmental vulnerability economic capacity and hegemonic power This book analyzes the creation and effectiveness of two environmental regimes one on transboundary haze pollution and a second on resource management of the Mekong It will be shown that regime creation is extremely problematic and strategies to overcome conflicting actor constellations are mostly lacking

Bush and Asia Mark Beeson, 2006-09-27 Bush and Asia analyzes the changing nature of relations between the East Asian nations and the United States since the election of George W Bush in 2000 and the events of September 11 2001

New Regionalism and the European Union Alex Warleigh-Lack, Nick Robinson, Ben Rosamond, 2011-06 This book explores regionalism in the European Union in comparative context with Latin American African Asian North American regionalism It also investigates the links between the EU and other regional organisations and assesses the implications for the study of contemporary regionalism both inside and beyond Europe

Empire and Neoliberalism in Asia Vedi R. Hadiz, 2006-09-27 This book analyzes the overall effect of American primacy on social and political conflicts in Asia discussing how the post Cold War American agenda does not promote democratization in the region in contradiction to one of the major proclaimed aims of the proponents of the Pax Americana This team of renowned scholars argue that the US agenda can strengthen anti democratic impulses in Asian societies exacerbating and complicating existing domestic conflicts and struggles

Empire and Neoliberalism in Asia also examines how the requirements of the War on Terror intersect with and reinforce those of transnationalized sections of American capital Drawing on country case studies this multidisciplinary book looks at the ramifications of the American Empire for the Asian region and will appeal to anyone interested in Asian politics international relations political economy development studies and sociology

Regionalism in Southeast Asia Nicholas Tarling, 2006-09-27 This innovative text provides the reader with an historical analysis of Southeast Asia from the unusual perspective of regionalism

Bibliography of ASEAN-China Relations, 2006 Contains a list of titles in English covering relations between ASEAN and China Titles cover topics such as bilateral relations economic relations finance and investment the Greater Mekong Subregion maritime issues and territorial disputes socio cultural issues and trade relations Security and Insecurity in the Middle East Imad El-Anis, Sahra Joharchi, Natasha Underhill, 2018-10-09 This volume draws together a number of research papers presented at a conference titled Security Insecurity and Prospects for Peace in the Middle East and North Africa organised by Nottingham Trent University's Middle East and North Africa Research cluster in April 2016. The conference focused on questions pertinent to what may be termed the post Arab Spring era in which the Middle East is experiencing unprecedented national and transnational challenges. Conflict, instability, radicalisation and the mass displacement of people have become increasingly salient features of the political and economic landscape of the region. The contributions here analyse a range of political, economic, security and socio-cultural issues that the authors argue lie at the heart of the instability that the region is currently experiencing. Re-thinking issues of security and insecurity in the Middle East not only allows us to explain what might have led to current instability but also allows us to posit possible solutions to these security issues. In doing so, this book goes beyond the concepts of security and insecurity as a standard account of perpetrator versus victim in a state-centric and violence-centric manner to a broader and more complex understanding of the underlying processes informing security and insecurity in the region. The contributors include scholars from around the world working in a variety of different fields including Middle Eastern studies, international relations and international political economy, providing an eclectic discussion of the state of the region.
