Seventeenth-Century Spanish Poetry Arthur Terry, 1993-11-11 The first comprehensive study in English of one of the most important bodies of verse in European literature

Modern Spanish American Poets María Antonia Salgado, 2003 Essays on authors considered to be among the most representative writers of each of the eighteen Spanish speaking American countries including the commonwealth of Puerto Rico Within this context modern refers to those poets writing from the 1880s to the early 21st century

Spanish Poetry of the Twentieth Century Andrew Debicki, 2014-10-17 Twentieth century Spanish poetry has received comparatively little attention from critics writing in English Andrew Debicki now presents the first English language history published in the United States to examine the sweep of modern Spanish verse More important he is the first to situate

Spanish poetry in the context of European modernity to trace its trajectory from the symbolists to the postmodernists. Avoiding the rigid generational schemes and catalogs of names found in traditional Hispanic literary histories, Debicki offers detailed discussions of salient books and texts to construct an original and compelling view of his subject. He demonstrates that contemporary Spanish verse is rooted in the modern tradition and poetics that see the text as a unique embodiment of complex experiences. He then traces the evolution of that tradition in the early decades of the century and its gradual disintegration from the 1950s to the present as Spanish poetry came to reflect features of the postmodern, especially the poetics of text as process rather than as product. By centering his study on major periods and examining within each the work of poets of different ages, Debicki develops novel perspectives. The late 1960s and early 1970s, for example, were not merely the setting for a new aestheticist generation but an era of exceptional creativity in which both established and new writers engendered a profound intertextual and often self-referential lyricism. This book will be essential reading for specialists in modern Spanish letters, for advanced students, and for readers interested in comparative literature.

Early Modern Women's Writing and Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz Stephanie Merrim, 1999. This book maps the field of seventeenth-century women's writing in Spanish, English, and French and situates the work of Sor Juana more clearly within that field. It holds up the multi-layered proto-feminist writings of Sor Juana as a meaningful lens through which to focus the literary production of her female contemporaries. Merrim's book advances the integration of Hispanic women authors and women's issues into the panorama of early modern women's writing and opens up unexplored commonalities between Sor Juana and her sister writers. Early modern women writers whose works are explored include Marie de Gournay, Margaret Fell Fox, Catalina de Erauso, Maria de Zayas, Ana Caro, Mme de Lafayette, Anne Bradstreet, St. Teresa, and Margaret Lucas Cavendish. Merrim's study provides a full-bodied picture of the resources that the cultural and historical climates of the seventeenth century placed at the disposal of women writers, the manners in which women writers instrumentalized them, the building blocks and concerns of early modern women's writing, and the continuities between early modern and modern women's writing. Written in an engaging, clear manner, this innovative study will be of interest not only to Hispanists but also to scholars in early modern studies, women's studies, history, and comparative literature.
