Women, Work, and Families

Angela Hattery, 2001 Hattery's book is an important contribution to this literature The book is engaging and is well written I would recommend this book and encourage Hattery to continue examination of this construct Psychology of Women Quarterly Women Work and Family Balancing and Weaving is a fascinating examination of the extraordinary juggling skills of working mothers who balance their obligations to both work and family Angela Hattery goes beyond a mere description of women's conflicts of interest and seeks to understand the decision making process through which they accomplish this balancing Through intensive interviews with 30 married women all with children under 2 years of age Hattery uncovers a remarkable range of ways in which these women weave together the complex strands of their lives The data in the volume are examined from a number of theoretical standpoints including structural theory motherhood theory and feminist theory A key variable that runs through the data is economic need which has an obvious effect on work patterns Women Work and Family will make a major contribution to family studies and will illuminate the difficult choices that women make within the family work context

Family Life and Family Policies in Europe Franz-Xaver Kaufmann, 2002 This volume is a comparative study of family change in Europe and its dependency on social policy regimes The authors explore family discourse family law single parents gender relations the new fathers divorce and abortion within the framework of national policies vis a vis the family Conventional wisdom assumes that policy decisions affecting the life situation of a population shape different opportunities for private living particularly in relation to children and the family But the authors argue it would be too simplistic to assume a direct causal link between welfare policies for the family and developments in the family sector Family change is in fact mediated by institutional factors as well as by cultural traditions and political intervention The chapters in this volume deal with the substantial and methodological problems of ascertaining the impact of different national policy regimes on family change
