Making the Modern Reader Barbara M. Benedict, 2018-12-04 Inquiring into the formation of a literary canon during the Restoration and the eighteenth century Barbara Benedict poses the question Do anthologies reflect or shape contemporary literary taste She finds that there was a cultural dialectic at work miscellanies and anthologies transmitted particular tastes while in turn being influenced by the larger culture they helped to create Benedict reveals how anthologies of the time often created a consensus of literary and aesthetic values by providing a bridge between the tastes of authors editors printers booksellers and readers Making the Modern Reader the first full treatment of the early modern anthology is in part a history of the London printing trade as well as of the professionalization of criticism Benedict thoroughly documents the historical redefinition of the reader once a member of a communal literary culture the reader became private and introspective morally and culturally shaped by choices in reading She argues that eighteenth century collections promised the reader that culture could be acquired through the absorption of literary values This process of cultural education appealed to a middle class seeking to become discriminating consumers of art By addressing this neglected genre Benedict contributes a new perspective on the tension between popular and high culture between the common reader and the elite This book will interest scholars working in cultural studies and those studying noncanonical texts as well as eighteenth century literature in general Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its

Readers and Reading Andrew Bennett, 2014-07-15 Much literary criticism focuses on literary producers and their products but an important part of such work considers the end user the reader It asks such questions as how far can the author condition the response of the reader and how much does the reader create the meaning of a text Dr Bennett's collection includes important essays from such writers and critics as Wolfgang Iser Mary Jacobus Roger Chartier Michel de Certeau Shoshana Felman Maurice Blanchot Paul de Man and Yves Bonnefoy It looks in turn at deconstructionist feminist new historicist and psychoanalytical response to the school The book then considers the act of reading itself discussing such issues as the uniqueness of any reading and the difficulties involved in its analysis
