Contemporary Reader No 1:

The Hand of the Interpreter G. F. Mitrano, Eric Jarosinski, 2009 This collection of essays by scholars and artists of different disciplines and from different countries is designed to navigate the labyrinth of contemporary aesthetic ideologies with the aim of reassessing how we read both the way in which texts touch us and we them Theory has transformed texts into mute interlocutors exposed to infinite indeterminacy While the response to this sense of silence that undermines meaning is often informed by a nostalgia for older notions of close reading the essays in this volume work towards a re evaluation of key subjects such as reader writer and text The contributors engage with topics such as digital books popular culture alternative ways of book making visual verbal collaborations and thematic explorations of the hand in literature A Contemporary Reading of Confucius in the Light of the Yi Jing and Complexity Theory Wei-Bin Zhang, 2025-01-11 Confucius was idolized neglected or disdained over centuries in China Korea Vietnam and Japan as well as in the West but was revered by some great European thinkers in the Age of Enlightenment There are only a few studies about how Confucius basic ideas can be integrated with Western rational thought This new book situates Confucian ideas in complexity theory to demonstrate how East Asian rationality based on the Yi Jing and Western rationality based on Newtonian principles can be integrated This re examination of Chinese civilization especially the thoughts of Confucius in the light of complexity theory is a unique contribution Understanding Confucius and his implications for modern thought provides key insights into contemporary East Asian societies Ars Interpres: An International Journal of Poetry, Translation and Art: No. 1 , Making the Modern Reader Barbara M. Benedict, 2018-12-04 Inquiring into the formation of a literary canon during the Restoration and the eighteenth century Barbara Benedict poses the question Do anthologies reflect or shape contemporary literary taste She finds that there was a cultural dialectic at work miscellanies and anthologies transmitted particular tastes while in turn being influenced by the larger culture they helped to create Benedict reveals how anthologies of the time often created a consensus of literary and aesthetic values by providing a bridge between the tastes of authors editors printers booksellers and readers Making the Modern Reader the first full treatment of the early modern anthology is in part a history of the London printing trade as well as of the professionalization of criticism Benedict thoroughly documents the historical redefinition of the reader once a member of a communal literary culture the reader became private and introspective morally and culturally shaped by choices in reading She argues that eighteenth century collections promised the reader that culture could be acquired through the absorption of literary values This process of cultural education appealed to a middle class seeking to become discriminating consumers of art By addressing this neglected genre Benedict contributes a new perspective on the tension between popular and high culture between the common reader and the elite This book will interest scholars working in cultural studies and those studying noncanonical texts as well as eighteenth century literature in general Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.

Research in Education, 1968 Comparative Criticism: Volume 12, Representations of the Self E. S. Shaffer, 1990-09-27

This volume explores a theme that has become central in our time as the death of God is widely seen to be succeeded by the death of Man. Our contributors set forth its urgency in a variety of contexts. Among these Peter Stern gives the paradigmatic history of the bereft, damaged and repudiated self in German philosophy and literature from Kleist to Ernst Jilnger. In Not I Michael Edwards pursues the theological and psychological consequences of a self without substance. Peter France supplies a witty account of the marriage of self and commerce more at home in the eighteenth century tradition of British empiricism and the challenge of Rousseau's refusal of the terms of commerce. Raman Selden explores views of the self from the Romantics to the poststructuralists. Roger Cardinal probes the secret diary as the genre a contradiction in terms. Stephen Bann explores the representations of Narcissus in recent psychoanalytic theory. Other contributors include Pierre Dupuy, David James, Julie Scott Meisami, Gregory Blue, Mark Ogden and A. D. Nuttall.

Readers in History James L. Machor, 1993

Nineteenth century America witnesses an unprecedented rise in reading activity as a result of increasing literacy, advances in printing and book production and improvements in transporting printed material. As the act of reading took on new cultural and intellectual significance, American writers had to adjust to changes in their relationship with a growing audience. Calling for a new emphasis on historical analysis, Readers in History reconsiders reader response and reception approaches to the shifting contexts of reading in nineteenth century America. James L. Machor and his contributors dispute the essentializing tendency of much reader response criticism to date, arguing that reading and the textual construction of audience can best be understood in light of historically specific interpretive practices, ideological frames and social conditions. Employing a variety of perspectives and methods including feminism, deconstruction and cultural criticism, the essays in this volume demonstrate the importance of historical inquiry for exploring the dynamics of audience engagement.

Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination Vin Nardizzi, Tiffany Jo Werth, 2019-04-18

Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination explores how the cognitive and physical landscapes in which scholars conduct research, write and teach have shaped their understandings of medieval and Renaissance English literary ecologies. The collection strives to practice what Ursula K. Heise calls eco cosmopolitanism, a method that imagines forms of local environmentalism as a defense against the interventions of open market, global networks. It also expands the idea's possibilities and identifies its limitations through critical studies of premodern texts, artefacts and environmental history. The essays connect real environments and their imaginative recreations and affirm the urgency of reorienting humanity's responsiveness to and responsibility for the historical links between human and non human existence The discussion of ways in which meditation on scholarly place and time can deepen ecocritical work offers an innovative and engaging approach that will appeal to both ecocritics generally and to medieval and early modern scholars

A Cultural History of Early Modern English Cryptography Manuals Katherine Ellison, 2016-06-10 While there are many surveys of cryptography none pay any attention to the volume of manuals that appeared during the seventeenth century or provide any cultural context for the appearance design or significance of the genre during the period Through close readings of five specific primary texts that have been ignored not only in cryptography scholarship but also in early modern literary scientific and historical studies this book allows us to see one origin of disciplinary division in the popular imagination and in the university when particular broad fields the sciences the mechanical arts and the liberal arts came to be viewed as more or less profitable

Contemporaries and Snobs Laura Riding, 2014-02-28 This new edition of Contemporaries and Snobs a landmark collection of essays by Laura Riding offers a counter history of high modernist poetics Laura Riding's Contemporaries and Snobs 1928 was the first volume of essays to engage critically with high modernist poetics from the position of the outsider For readers today it offers a compelling account by turns personal by turns historical of how the institutionalization of modernism denuded experimental poetry Most importantly Contemporaries and Snobs offers a counter history of the idiosyncratic of what the institution of modernism left and leaves behind With Gertrude Stein as its figurehead the book champions the noncanonical the barbaric and the undertheorized Riding's nuanced defense of a poetics of the person in Contemporaries and Snobs represents a forgotten but essential first attempt to identify and foster what is now a well defined poetic lineage that leads from Stein to the contemporary experimental avant garde In these essays Riding takes her readers on a remarkably thorough tour through the critical scene of the 1920s Among other influential treatises she considers T S Eliot's The Sacred Wood and his editorial essays in The Criterion Allen Tate's Poetry and the Absolute John Crowe Ransom's essays on the modernist poet Edgell Rickword's essays in The Calendar of Modern Letters and Herbert Read's posthumous publication of T E Hulme's essays All of this criticism Riding notes gave modern poets a sheen of seriousness and professionalism but was it good for poetry Her decisive answer is no This new edition includes an introduction by Laura Heffernan and Jane Malcolm that makes legible the many connections between Contemporaries and Snobs and the critical debates and poetic experiments of the 1920s as well as explanatory notes a chronological bibliography of Riding's work and an index of proper names
