Content, Consciousness, and Perception Conor McHugh, Ezio Di Nucci, 2009-01-14 What sort of thing is the mind And how can such a thing at the same time belong to the natural world represent the world give rise to our subjective experience and ground human knowledge Content Consciousness and Perception is an edited collection comprising eleven new contributions to the philosophy of mind written by some of the most promising young philosophers in the UK and Ireland The book is arranged into three parts Part I Concepts and Mental Content which begins with an attack by Hans Johann Glock on the representational theory of mind addresses the nature of mental representation Part II Consciousness and the Metaphysics of Mind concerns the prospects for a naturalistic metaphysics of the conscious mind Finally Part III entitled Perception pursues the project of giving a satisfactory philosophical account of perceptual experience The book begins with an introductory essay by the editors which provides an overview of the state of contemporary philosophy of mind locating the articles to follow within that context The individual chapters of Content Consciousness and Perception are professional contributions to their respective areas of interest to any philosopher of mind The volume as a whole is ideal for non specialists and students interested in getting to grips with the state of the art in contemporary philosophy of mind

Consciousness as a Scientific Concept Elizabeth Irvine, 2012-10-13 The source of endless speculation and public curiosity our scientific quest for the origins of human consciousness has expanded along with the technical capabilities of science itself and remains one of the key topics able to fire public as much as academic interest Yet many problematic issues identified in this important new book remain unresolved Focusing on a series of methodological difficulties swirling around consciousness research the contributors to this volume suggest that consciousness is in fact not a wholly viable scientific concept Supporting this eliminativist stance are assessments of the current theories and methods of consciousness science in their own terms as well as applications of good scientific practice criteria from the philosophy of science For example the work identifies the central problem of the misuse of qualitative difference and dissociation paradigms often deployed to identify measures of consciousness It also examines the difficulties that attend the wide range of experimental protocols used to operationalise consciousness and the implications this has on the findings of integrative approaches across behavioural and neurophysiological research The work also explores the significant mismatch between the common intuitions about the content of consciousness that motivate much of the current science and the actual properties of the neural processes underlying sensory and cognitive phenomena Even as it makes the negative eliminativist case the strong empirical grounding in this volume also allows positive characterisations to be made about the products of the current science of consciousness facilitating a re identification of target phenomena and valid research questions for the mind sciences
