Continuities In Sociological Human Ecology:

Continuities in Sociological Human Ecology Michael Micklin, Dudley L. Poston, 2013-11-11 The completion of this volume would not have been possible without the generous and dedicated help of numerous people The book had its genesis in a conference held at Cornell University in the fall of 1990 that was organized by Dudley Poston Paul Eberts and Michael Hannan all professors at the time at Cornell With the very generous financial assistance of David Call then the dean of Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences Poston Eberts and Hannan put together a two day conference of lectures and papers by human ecologists from Cornell University and elsewhere The conference focused on sociological human ecology and celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the publication of Amos Hawley's Human Ecology Ronald Press 1950 Professor Hawley was the keynote speaker at the conference Many of the authors of the chapters in this volume presented earlier versions at the Cornell conference in 1990 Cornell's Departments of Rural Sociology and Sociology also contributed financial assistance however without Dean Call's very generous support the conference would not have been possible A few months after the conference Poston and Michael Micklin discussed the possibility of asking the various authors of the Cornell conference papers to revise them for publication in a volume on sociological human ecology Many opted to do so but others did not because of time and other kinds of commitments and constraints Handbook of Population Dudley L.

Poston, Michael Micklin, 2006-04-26 This comprehensive handbook provides an overview and update of the issues theories processes and applications of the social science of population studies The volume's 30 chapters cover the full range of conceptual empirical disciplinary and applied approaches to the study of demographic phenomena This book is the first effort to assess the entire field since Hauser and Duncan's 1959 classic The Study of Population The chapter authors are among the leading contributors to demographic scholarship over the past four decades They represent a variety of disciplines and theoretical perspectives as well as interests in both basic and applied research A Sociology: The Dynamics of Collectivities Kris Merschrod, 2008 A Sociology is a combination of sociological theory and examples of its application to social development and change projects from around the world based on the author's experiences over the last thirty years The theory of social structure is based on four dimensions and corresponding theorems on the dynamics between those dimensions The four dimensions are intuitively grasped Division of Labor Solidarity Pluralism and Linkage and can be applied to all levels of collectivities from groups to organizations to communities states regions countries and sectors of societies The book is written for the medium to advanced theory course and for development practitioners with a few years experience

Handbook of Population Dudley L. Poston Jr., 2019-04-16 The 2nd edition of the Handbook of Population covers the major topics of the discipline of demography including current substantive methodological and theoretical issues of interest as well as new and emerging topics in the field In addition to revised updated and extended chapters that were included in the 1st edition this 2nd edition of the Handbook brings to the forefront entirely new chapters covering such major themes as children adoption sexuality inequality population psychology rural demography and obesity Chapters in this Handbook will expand our knowledge of the field and will raise awareness of the causes and the consequences of demographic behavior and events in societies throughout the world This 2nd edition will also serve as a reference in the field of population studies for years to come It will generate new questions and research ideas and will positively impact the growth development and expansion of demography An Autecological Theory of the Firm and its Environment Colin Jones,Gimme

Walter,2017-06-30 The process of firm level adaptation and survival have historically been of great interest to researchers of firms However these researchers have previously been denied an ecological framework within which to study the processes through which individual firms respond to and indeed modify their individual environments This book remedies this situation providing the first comprehensive introduction to organisational autecology or the study of individual firms and the environments they interact with and typically modify to ensure their survival In addition to establishing the theoretical and philosophical foundations of organisational autecology the empirical application of this new approach is demonstrated and its future application to the domain of organisational studies is contemplated Same-Sex Partners Amanda K.

Baumle,D'Lane Compton,Dudley L. Poston Jr.,2009-03-09 Addressing the lack of understanding regarding the lives of same sex couples this book examines the sociodemographic characteristics of partnered gay men and lesbians The authors draw on U S census data to present quantitative analyses of topics pertaining to gay men and lesbians that have previously been relatively unexamined or assessed mainly through qualitative studies They explore where gay men and lesbians live why they choose those residences income inequality occupations dimensions of family attachments relationship commitments and family structures The census data allows the authors to provide a more detailed representation of many of the essential features in the lives of gay men and lesbians compared to those of married and cohabiting heterosexuals In certain cases the data and analyses reinforce current stereotypes while in other cases they challenge preexisting beliefs Ultimately this book provides a foundation for future research policy law and understanding regarding gay men and lesbians 21st Century

Crowell, Mark A. Fossett, 2023-08-31 This open access book provides new findings on and insights into trends and patterns in residential segregation between racial and ethnic groups in the United States It draws on new methods that make it possible to investigate segregation involving small groups and segregation patterns in nonmetropolitan communities with greater accuracy and clarity than has previously been possible As one example the authors are able to track residential segregation patterns across a wide selection of nonmetropolitan communities where Black Latino and Asian populations are small but can still potentially experience segregation The authors also track White Latino segregation from its inception when Latino households first arrived in non negligible numbers in new destination communities and then document how segregation changes over time as the Latino population grows over time to become larger and more established Finally this work shows how segregation of Latino and Asian households is fundamentally different from that of Black households based on the much greater role that cultural and socioeconomic characteristics play in shaping White Latino and White Asian segregation in comparison to White Black segregation Population and Society Dudley L. Poston, Jr, Leon F.

Ecosystems Alan R. Berkowitz, Charles H. Nilon, Karen S. Hollweg, 2006-05-29 Nowhere on Earth is the challenge for ecological understanding greater and yet more urgent than in those parts of the globe where human activity is most intense cities People need to understand how cities work as ecological systems so they can take control of the vital links between human actions and environmental quality and work for an ecologically and economically sustainable future An ecosystem approach integrates biological physical and social factors and embraces historical and geographical dimensions providing our best hope for coping with the complexity of cities This book is a first of its kind effort to bring together leaders in the biological physical and social dimensions of urban ecosystem research with leading education researchers administrators and practitioners to show how an understanding of urban ecosystems is vital for urban dwellers to grasp the fundamentals of ecological and environmental science and to understand their own environment Demography In Transition Amanda K.

Baumle, 2009-03-26 The discipline of demography much like the population processes which comprise its focus changes theoretically methodologically and substantively as the world's populations respond to internal and external forces These disciplinary shifts are often identified and examined by demographers in academic journals and at annual population studies conferences Demography in Transition is a compilation of seven studies presented by demographers at the Southwestern Sociological Association's 2005 Annual Meeting The works selected for this volume provide unique insight into complex demographic issues as well as highlight many of the growing foci in the discipline There has been a movement in demographic research towards focusing on understanding population processes for more heterogeneous rather than homogenous populations This movement has resulted in an increase in research concentrating on outcomes dependent on gender race and ethnicity Changes in population structures within the United States have resulted in another notable disciplinary focus Aging populations altering family structures and a rise in Asian and Latino immigration to the U S have all attributed to novel areas of research for demographers These timely issues and their intersections are central to the research explored in the chapters contained in this volume In their chapters these demographers examine the manner in which race and ethnicity affect access to health care the consequences and concerns associated with an aging population the factors affecting Asian migration patterns and the demographic implications of changing family structures These chapters provide a glimpse into the current insights provided by demographic research as well as directions for its future Community

Criminology Ralph B. Taylor, 2015-01-09 For close to a century the field of community criminology has examined the causes and consequences of community crime and delinquency rates Nevertheless there is still a lot we do not know about the dynamics behind these connections In this book Ralph Taylor argues that obstacles to deepening our understanding of community crime links arise in part because most scholars have overlooked four fundamental concerns how conceptual frames depend on the geographic units and or temporal units used how to establish the meaning of theoretically central ecological empirical indicators and how to think about the causes and consequences of non random selection dynamics The volume organizes these four conceptual challenges using a common meta analytic framework The framework pinpoints critical features of and gaps in current theories about communities and crime connects these concerns to current debates in both criminology and the philosophy of social science and sketches the types of theory testing needed in the future if we are to grow our understanding of the causes and consequences of community crime rates Taylor explains that a common meta theoretical frame provides a grammar for thinking critically about current theories and simultaneously allows presenting these four topics and their connections in a unified manner The volume provides an orientation to current and past scholarship in this area by describing three distinct but related community crime sequences involving delinquents adult offenders and victims These sequences highlight community justice dynamics thereby raising questions about frequently used crime indicators in this area of research A groundbreaking work melding past scholarly practices in criminology with the field s current needs Community Criminology is an essential work for criminologists
