Current Transformations and their Potential Role in Realizing Change in the Arab World The Emirates Center for Strategic Studies and Research, 2007-02-05 In recent years terms and concepts like change reform modernization development political transformation and democratization have become commonplace at various national and international levels among both civil and official organizations Although audible in the past appeals for reform from within the Arab world have taken on a new dimension since the beginning of the 21st century The 2002 UNDP Arab Human Development Report sketched the first systematic structure for these demands This new drive for reform has emerged in the midst of unfavorable regional and international circumstances such as the continued Israeli occupation of Palestinian territories the occupation of Iraq by the United States and the escalation of terrorism In the face of calls for reform from both their own peoples and foreign forces Arab ruling regimes have exploited these issues to cripple or postpone the introduction of comprehensive reforms In the Arab world the influence of non governmental organizations NGOs and civil society institutions remains limited However further cultural and political development will strengthen the role of these bodies in creating a system of freedom and good governance in Arab states Recently demands by Arab societal and political forces for democracy have increased to such an extent that progressive Islamic thought has endeavored to achieve historical reconciliation with the mechanisms and values of democracy seeking for example to bring together democracy and the Islamic principle of Shura consultation Most political Islamic groups now advocate democracy but there is still some doubt as to whether these movements do so out of true conviction or are simply using the concept of democracy as a vehicle to seize power which can be discarded after serving its purpose Hence political Islamic movements must clarify their attitudes towards democracy and ultimately decide whether not to follow a democratic path It is also vital that Arab regimes refrain from intimidating internal and external forces by threatening the possibility of Islamic movements taking power if free and honest elections were to be held and by using this to justify their hindrance of democratic transformations effectively paralyzing Arab political life Modern developmental experiences and theories have clearly established a strong if not vital link between liberty and development Ultimately therefore any project to spread democracy in the Arab world must be associated with an effective process of comprehensive development The Contribution of the Arabs to Education, Etc.

Dialogue, Conflict Resolution, and Change Mohammed Abu-Nimer, 2012-02-01 This is the first study to introduce the subject of Arab Jewish relations and encounters in Israel from both conflict resolution and educational perspectives Through a critical examination of Arab and Jewish encounter programs in Israel the book reviews conflict resolution and intergroup theories and processes which are utilized in dealing with ethnic conflicts and offers a detailed presentation of intervention models applied by various encounter programs to promote dialogue education for peace and democracy between Arabs and Jews in Israel The author investigates how encounter designs and processes can become part of a control system used by the dominant governmental majority's institutes to maintain the status quo and reinforce political taboos. Also discussed are the different conflict perceptions held by Arabs and Jews, the relationship between those perceptions and both sides' expectations of the encounters. Abu Nimer explores the impact of the political context, Intifada, Gulf War, and peace process on the intervention design and process of those encounter groups and contains a list of recommendations and guidelines to consider when designing and conducting encounters between ethnic groups. He reveals and explains why the Arab and Jewish encounter participants and leaders have different criteria of their encounter's success and failure. The study is also applicable to dialogue and coexistence programs and conflict resolution initiatives in other ethnically divided societies such as South Africa, Northern Ireland, Bosnia, and Sri Lanka, where the minority and majority have struggled to find peaceful ways to coexist.

Information Systems Applications in the Arab Education Sector Albadri, Fayez, 2012-08-31. Handbook for Arabic Language Teaching Professionals in the 21st Century Kassem Wahba, Zeinab A. Taha, Liz England, 2014-06-03. This landmark volume offers an introduction to the field of teaching Arabic as a foreign or second language. Recent growth in student numbers and the demand for new and more diverse Arabic language programs of instruction have created a need that has outpaced the ability of teacher preparation programs to provide sufficient numbers of well-qualified professional teachers at the level of skill required. Arabic language program administrators anticipate that the increases in enrollment will continue into the next decades. More resources and more varied materials are seriously needed in Arabic teacher education and training. The goal of this Handbook is to address that need. The most significant feature of this volume is its pioneer role in approaching the field of Arabic language teaching from many different perspectives. It offers readers the opportunity to consider the role, status, and content of Arabic language teaching in the world today. The Handbook is intended as a resource to be used in building Arabic language and teacher education programs and in guiding future academic research. Thirty-four chapters, authored by leaders in the field, are organized around nine themes: Background of Arabic Language Teaching; Contexts of Arabic Language Teaching; Communicative Competence in Arabic; The Learners; Assessment; Technology Applications; Curriculum Development; Design and Models; Arabic Language Program Administration and Management; and Planning for the Future of Arabic Language Learning and Teaching. The Handbook for Arabic Language Teaching Professionals in the 21st Century will benefit and be welcomed by Arabic language teacher educators and trainers, administrators, graduate students, and scholars around the world. It is intended to create dialogue among scholars and professionals in the field and in related fields, dialogue that will contribute to creating new models for curriculum and course design, materials, and assessment tools, and ultimately better instructional effectiveness for all Arabic learners everywhere in both Arabic-speaking and non-Arabic-speaking countries.

Political Thought and Political History Moshe Gammer, 2004-08-02 This volume is limited to contributions by Professor Kedourie's previous students. It reveals the far-reaching range of his interests and the immense expanse of his horizons. The first part deals with philosophy, political thought and ideology and the second with history and politics.

Palestine Across Millennia Nur Masalha, 2022-03-24 In this magisterial cultural history of the Palestinians, Nur Masalha illuminates the entire history of Palestinian learning with specific reference to writing, education, literary production and the intellectual revolutions in the country. The book introduces this long cultural heritage to demonstrate that Palestine was not just a holy land for the four monotheistic religions: Islam, Christianity, Judaism and Samaritanism; rather, the country evolved to become a major international site of classical education and knowledge production in multiple languages including Sumerian, Proto-Canaanite, Greek, Syriac, Arabic, Hebrew and Latin. The cultural saturation of the country is found then not solely in landmark mosques, churches and synagogues but in scholarship, historic schools, colleges, famous international libraries and archival centres. This unique book unites these renowned institutions, movements and multiple historical periods for the first time, presenting them as part of a cumulative and incremental intellectual advancement rather than disconnected periods of educational excellence. In doing so, this multifaceted intellectual history transforms the orientations of scholarly research on Palestine and propels current historical knowledge on education and literacy in Palestine to new heights.
