Hirsh,2022-06-14 Challenging traditional scholarship on the New Deal the book reinterprets the history of rural electrification It tells the previously unacknowledged story of how private power companies with allies in land grant universities engendered social and technical innovations in the 1920s and early 1930s that enabled growing numbers of farmers to obtain electrical service well before the creation of Depression era government programs      Seeing America University of Rochester. Memorial Art Gallery,2006 A stunning full color volume that examines 82 pieces in the University of Rochester Memorial Art Gallery s American collection and their connections to American history culture literature and politics Seeing America is the first ever catalog of the University of Rochester Memorial Art Gallery's American collection Founded in 1913 the Memorial Art Gallery was created in conjunction with the University of Rochester so that it would function within a scholarly milieu yet at the same time perform service as a community museum From its conception it has been an ardent advocate for American art which so many counterpart institutions snubbed until at least the 1930s and more often until well after World War II in favor of European and Asian art The 336 page full color volume examines 82 objects and their connections to American history culture literature and politics The 73 articles present a running commentary on each piece by knowledgeable and thoughtful contemporary scholars and artists writing with expertise and insight ultimately presenting a new and deeper understanding that enhances the reader viewer's appreciation of the work The tour ranges from Colonial times to the twenty first century from Maine to Florida to the far West from mighty historical subjects to intimate byways from august figures and events to the humblest and most anonymous The diversity of American experience on display here reminds us that the best American art is inextricably bound up with the essential truths of American experience

Keeping Up with the Joneses Susan J. Matt, 2013-04-19 A century ago many Americans condemned envy as a destructive emotion and a sin Today few Americans expect criticism when they express envy and some commentators maintain that the emotion drives the economy This shift in attitude is Susan Matt's central concern Keeping up with the Joneses Envy in American Consumer Society 1890-1930 examines a key transition in the meaning of envy for the American middle class Although people certainly have experienced envy throughout history the expansion of the consumer economy at the turn of the twentieth century dramatically reshaped the social role of the emotion Matt looks at how different groups within the middle class men in white collar jobs bourgeois women farm families and children responded to the transformation in social and cultural life Keeping Up with the Joneses traces how attitudes about envy changed as department stores mail order catalogs magazines movies and advertising became more prevalent and the mass production of imitation luxury goods offered middle and working class individuals the opportunity to emulate upper class life Between 1890 and 1910 moralists sought to tame envy and emulation in order to uphold a moral economy and preserve social order They criticized the liberal capitalist preoccupation with personal striving and advancement and praised the virtue of contentment They admonished the bourgeoisie to be satisfied with their circumstances and cease yearning for their neighbors' possessions After 1910 more secular commentators gained ground repudiating the doctrine of contentment and rejecting the notion that there were divinely ordained limits on what each class should possess They encouraged everyone to pursue the objects of desire Envy was no longer a sin but a valuable economic stimulant The expansion of consumer economy fostered such institutions as department stores and advertising firms but it also depended on a transformation in attitudes and emotional codes Matt explores the ways gender geography and age shaped this transformation Bridging the history of emotions and the history of consumerism she uncovers the connection between changing social norms and the growth of the consumer economy      Cora Wilson Stewart and Kentucky's Moonlight Schools Yvonne Baldwin, 2006-03-03 Cora Wilson Stewart 1875 1958 was an elementary school teacher and county school superintendent in eastern Kentucky who in the fall of 1911 decided to open the classrooms in her district to adult pupils Convinced that education could eliminate the poverty that plagued the region she founded the Moonlight School movement ultimately designed to combat illiteracy The movement's motto Each one teach one characterized education as the responsibility of every literate citizen Stewart's Moonlight Schools caught on quickly and when the state legislature created the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission in 1914 they were operating throughout Kentucky as well as in other states Cora Wilson Stewart and Kentucky's Moonlight Schools examines these institutions and analyzes Stewart's role in shaping education at both the state and national level Yvonne Honeycutt Baldwin offers a discourse on the problem of illiteracy which despite the efforts of Stewart and many who followed in her footsteps continues to afflict the nation      Childhood on the Farm Pamela Riney-Kehrberg, 2005 Those personal accounts resurrect the essential experience of children's work play education family relations and coming of age from their own perspectives Steering a middle path between the myth of wholesome farm life and the reality of work that was often extremely dangerous Riney Kehrberg shows both the best and the worst that a rural upbringing had to offer midwestern youth a time before mechanization forever changed the rural scene and radio broke the spell of isolation Down on the farm truancy was not uncommon and chores were shared across genders Yet farm children managed to indulge in inventive play much of it homemade to supplement store bought toys and to get through the long spells between circuses      A New and Universal History Esq.
