Dispersing the Clouds of Temptation Brian Lightbody, 2015-04-21 In Romans 7 14 25 Paul declares For I do not do the good I want but the evil I do not want is what I do KJV St Paul s statement is a universal truth for all human beings humans whether Christians Jews Muslims Buddhists Hindus or atheists are prone to committing free actions that are not good Furthermore and irrespective of how we might construe the notion of good whether as acting in accordance with some religious or spiritual precept or simply doing what is in one s best interest we often knowingly and freely choose actions that may or in fact do harm us There is a name given to such actions We call them weak willed Weakness of will or akrasia has perplexed philosophers theologians and laypersons alike for centuries This book reveals why the idea has caused so much bafflement and consternation for so many The main thrust of the work however is to illuminate and inspire Lightbody seeks to demonstrate concretely how and why we are weak willed By extracting an alchemical touchstone from Plato s middle period philosophy Lightbody in addition reveals how we may transmute harmful appetites into life edifying passions

Rustbelt Fables Isaac Hallenberg, 2008-08-21 This is the authors third book the first being a memoir of sorts and the second was in the genre of erotic fiction It is a collection of thirteen short stories all based on or inspired by the fables of Aesop Although it would be impossible to either add to or detract from Aesops the fables were starting points for stories mostly based in the mythical town of Rustbelt City Apparently as much wisdom is required for life in the American Midwest as in ancient Greece And just as in our own lives there is a moral hidden somewhere in each of the stories Unlike in the compilers of Aesops stories where the morals are handily given to us well have to ferret out the meaning for ourselves Instead of anthills and agoras the scenes shift from pagan Greece to pool halls and Fitzpatricks tavern Not so cleverly disguised are locales once dear to my heart in a grimy industrial city that now exists only in my imagination
