A Course in Romance Linguistics Frederick Browning Agard, 1984 A comparative contrastive description of five modern Romance languages French Spanish Portuguese Italian Roumanian in terms of underlying grammar manifested in surface similarities and differences Toward a Typology of European Languages Johannes Bechert, Giuliano Bernini, Claude Buridant, 1990 The series is a platform for contributions of all kinds to this rapidly developing field General problems are studied from the perspective of individual languages language families language groups or language samples Conclusions are the result of a deepened study of empirical data Special emphasis is given to little known languages whose analysis may shed new light on long standing problems in general linguistics Sentential Negation in French Paul Rowlett Lecturer in French Language and Linguistics University of Salford, 1998-08-26 This is the first full length study of sentential negation phenomena in French Paul Rowlett assesses from a generative perspective the respective contribution made to the expression of clausal polarity by ne pas and elements such as jamais and personne His conclusions have far reaching implications leading to the controversial hypothesis that despite widespread belief French is not a negative concord language contributions identify the recurrent patterns and principles behind the complex spectrum of observable variation. The volume bridges the gap between cross linguistic variation, regional variation, diachronic variation, contact induced variation, as well as socially conditioned variation. Moreover, it addresses fundamental methodological and theoretical issues of variation research. The volume brings together internationally renowned specialists of their fields while at the same time offering a platform for gifted and highly talented young researchers. The authors come from different theoretical backgrounds and through their work illustrate a rich array of scientific methods. All authors share a strong belief in empirically founded theoretical work. The contributions span a high number of languages and dialects from many parts of the world. They are extremely broad in their empirical coverage, addressing an impressive selection of grammatical domains.

C-ORAL-ROM Emanuela Cresti, Massimo Moneglia, 2005. The C-ORAL-ROM book and DVD provide a unique set of comparable corpora of spontaneous speech for the main Romance languages: French, Italian, Portuguese and Spanish. The corpora are accompanied by comparative linguistic studies, models and standard linguistic measures of spoken language variability. Each corpus is built to the same design using identical sampling techniques and each corpus is presented in multimedia format allowing simultaneous access to aligned acoustic and textual information. Texts are headed with information about provenance, participants etc. and the transcriptions show changes of speaker. Speech acts are tagged according to the evidence of prosodic criteria. Each corpus totals 300 000 words and presents formal and informal speech in a variety of contexts of use, dialogue structure and text genres, semantic domains and speech act typologies. The corpora have great statistical relevance for spoken language structures and can address key issues in human language technology such as speech recognition in unrestricted discourse, the suitability of speech synthesis in natural prosody and multilingual applications of the spoken language interface. The work provides new data and innovative theoretical perspectives that are relevant for corpus linguistics, Romance linguistics, syntactic theory, speech and prosody research and second language acquisition.
