Introduction Malcolm Cameron Lyons,1995 The hero cycles of Arabic belong to the literary tradition of The Arabian Nights and can be seen as the popular epics of their civilisation The Arabian epic covers eleven of the main representatives of this genre Each of these has been developed through the processes of accretive oral story telling by means of an accumulation of narrative and folklore motifs many of which belong to what can be seen as a universal tradition The work is published in three volumes The first volume introduces the background and the dimensions in which the cycles are set while the second volume analyses their contents and the literary formulae used in their construction as well as listing analogues found in other literatures The epitomes surveyed in the final volume provide non Arabists with a more immediate insight into the contents of the cycles drawing attention to their narrative colouring and texture Black Knights Rachel Schine,2024-11-19 A new account of racial logics in premodern Islamic literature In Black Knights Rachel Schine reveals how the Arabic speaking world developed a different form of racial knowledge than their European neighbors during the Middle Ages Unlike in European vernaculars Arabic language ideas about ethnic difference emerged from conversations extending beyond the Mediterranean from the Sahara to the Indian Ocean In these discourses Schine argues racialized blackness became central to ideas about a global ethnically inclusive Muslim world Schine traces the emergence of these new racial logics through popular Islamic epics drawing on legal medical and religious literatures from the period to excavate a diverse and ever changing conception of blackness and race The result is a theoretically nuanced case for the existence and malleability of racial logics in premodern Islamic contexts across a variety of social and literary formations An Introduction to Arabic Literature and Islamic Studies University of Cambridge The Shahnama or Book of Kings by the Persian poet Firdausi completed in 1010 A D is a verse epic that narrates the history of the Iranian people from the earliest times to the collapse of the Persian Empire in the early seventh century Based on orally transmitted legends and written sources now lost Firdausi s lifetime s work retells the myths and legends of ancient Iran interweaving stories of the successive dynasties and Shahs from the first king Kayumars down to the last ill fated Sasanian monarch Yazdagird III murdered by a miller in the Merv oasis with accounts of combats with monstrous beasts hunting exploits and gargantuan feasting The poem recounts the first ordering of society under Jamshid with the domestication of animals and the learning of crafts the glory and hubris of the Shahs tempted by their power to indulge in acts of tyranny and folly the strained relations between the rulers and their champions the introduction of Zoroastrianism the legendary conquests of Alexander the Great and finally the contest between Persia and Byzantium for dominion in the Middle East The Shahnama is a defining work of Persian literature providing multi layered paradigms of Iran s experience of monarchical rule of her relations with her neighbours to East and West and of the traditional values of civilised society Although the arbitrary and often cruel workings of Fate frequently determine the course of events Firdausi persistently urges his heroes to take responsibility for their actions guided by the twin virtues of justice and wisdom This volume brings together a collection of papers exploring many different aspects of the Shahnama both as literature and as the object of royal patronage It focuses particularly on the manuscripts in which the poem has been preserved from the thirteenth century onwards and the relationships between Firdausi s text and the rich variety of the miniature paintings created to illustrate it The Arabic Literary Heritage Roger Allen, 2005-10-17 Roger Allen here offers an account of the cultural tradition of literary texts in Arabic from their unknown beginnings in the fifth century AD to the present day Allen s organising principle is not that of traditional literary histories but is rather based on an account of the major genres of Arabic literature After introductory chapters on principles and contexts there are chapters devoted to the Qur an as literature poetry belletristic prose drama and criticism Within each chapter the emphasis is on the texts themselves and those who created and commented on them but Allen also demonstrates his awareness of recent Western theoretical and critical approaches The volume as a whole which contains extensive quotations in English translation a chronology and a guide to further reading makes a major non Western literary tradition newly accessible to students and scholars of the West The Muslim World Book Review , 1995 Current Contents Institute for Scientific Information (Philadelphia), 2001 Friendly Fire in the Literature of War Earl R.
