Archaeological Field Survey In Cyprus Past History Future Potentials Proceedings:

Archaeological Field Survey in Cyprus Maria Iakōvou, 2004 The volume contains fifteen papers Ten of them record the genesis and the development of archaeological survey in Cyprus they also discuss the reasons why the twentieth century ended with serious set backs in the protection of cultural landscapes despite the fact that in Cyprus survey was conducted in the name of archaeological resource management as early as 1955 The credit for this accomplishment goes to Hector Catling who had envisioned the island wide Cyprus Survey Project and was instrumental in establishing the Survey Branch in the Cyprus Department of Antiquities The biographies of eight very different projects offer a representative sample of survey archaeology in Cyprus in the last quarter of the 20th century The inclusion of four geographically and methodologically diverse projects from Israel Libya Italy and Greece provide a trans Mediterranean perspective against which survey archaeology in Cyprus can be measured The keynote paper John Cherry brings the Mediterranean and the local projects closer together and gives substance to a multifaceted dialogue which extends from visibility and the degree of isomorphism between surface and sub surface remains to the links between regional survey projects and cultural heritage management

New Directions in Cypriot Archaeology Catherine Kearns, Sturt W. Manning, 2019-04-15 New Directions in Cypriot Archaeology highlights current scholarship that employs a range of new techniques methods and theoretical approaches to questions related to the archaeology of the prehistoric and protohistoric periods on the island of Cyprus From revolutions in radiocarbon dating to the compositional analysis of ceramic remains to the digital applications used to study landscape histories at broad scales to rethinking human environment climate interrelationships the last few decades of research on Cyprus invite inquiry into the implications of these novel archaeological methods for the field and its future directions This edited volume gathers together a new generation of scholars who offer a revealing exploration of these insights as well as challenges to big questions in Cypriot archaeology such as the rise of social complexity urban settlement histories and changes in culture and identity These enduring topics provide the foundation for investigating the benefits and challenges of twenty first century methods and conceptual frameworks Divided into three main sections related to critical chronological transitions from earliest prehistory to the development of autonomous kingdoms during the Iron Age each contribution exposes and engages with a different advance in studies of material culture absolute dating paleoenvironmental analysis and spatial studies using geographic information systems From rethinking the chronological transitions of the Early Bronze Age to exploring regional craft production regimes of the Middle and Late Bronze Ages to locating Iron Age cemeteries through archival topographic maps these exciting and pioneering authors provide innovative ways of thinking about Cypriot archaeology and its relationship to the wider discipline List of Contributors Georgia M Andreou Postdoctoral Fellow Department of Classics Cornell University Stella Diakou Postdoctoral Fellow Archaeological Research Unit University of Cyprus Maria Dikomitou Eliadou Postdoctoral Fellow Archaeological Research Unit University of Cyprus David Frankel

 Panayiotis Panayides, Ine Jacobs, 2023-01-24 Cyprus was a thriving and densely populated late antique province Contrary to what used to be thought the Arab raids of the mid seventh century did not abruptly bring the island s prosperity to an end Recent research instead highlights long lasting continuity in both urban and rural contexts This volume brings together historians and archaeologists working on diverse aspects of Cyprus between the sixth and eighth centuries They discuss topics as varied as rural prosperity urban endurance artisanal production civic and private religion and maritime connectivity
 The role of the imperial administration and of the Church is touched upon in several contributions Other articles place Cyprus back into its wider Mediterranean context Together they produce a comprehensive impression of the quality of life on the island in the long late antiquity Landscapes in the Eastern Mediterranean between the Future and the Past Ioannis N.
 Vogiatzakis, Theano S. Terkenli, Maria Gabriella Trovato, Nizar Abu-Jaber, 2020-05-15 Landscapes have long been viewed as multifunctional integrating ecological economic sociocultural historical and aesthetic dimensions Landscape science and public awareness in Europe have been progressing in leaps and bounds The challenges involved in landscape related issues and fields however are multiple and refer to landscape stewardship and protection as well as to the development of comprehensive theoretical and methodological approaches in tandem with public sensitization and participatory governance and in coordination with appropriate top down planning and policy instruments Landscape scale approaches are fundamental to the understanding of past and present cultural evolution and are now considered to be an appropriate spatial framework for the analysis of sustainability Methods and tools of landscape analysis and intervention have also gone a long way since their early development in Europe and the United States Although significant progress has been made there remain many issues which are understudied or not investigated at all at least in a Mediterranean context This Special Issue addresses the application of landscape theory and practice in the Eastern Mediterranean and mainly but not exclusively reports on the outcomes of an international conference held in Jordan in December 2015 with the title Landscapes of Eastern Mediterranean Challenges Opportunities Prospects and Accomplishments The focus of this Special Issue landscapes of the Eastern Mediterranean region thus constitutes a timely area of research interest not only because these landscapes have so far been understudied but also as a rich site of strikingly variegated long standing multicultural human environmental interactions These interactions resting on and taking shape through millennia of continuity in tradition have been striving to adapt to technological advances while currently juggling with manifold and multilayered socioeconomic and climate environmental crises

Church Building in Cyprus (Fourth to Seventh Centuries) Marietta Horster,Doria Nicolaou,Sabine Rogge,2018 Some hundred early Christian churches are attested on Cyprus dating from the fourth to seventh centuries Their architectural remains have shaped the Cypriot landscape The peculiar evolution of the features of the Cypriot church gave rise to a scientific discussion on how to evaluate these specific local developments In the last decade individual research as well as conferences and workshops dedicated to late antiquity and the early Byzantine period have contributed towards a new approach and a new impulse for the study of this period in Cyprus The volume reinforces and furthers this trend taking into consideration relevant parameters reflected on the architectural planning such as structural knowledge and innovations cultic behaviours liturgical traditions economic capacities social and political aspirations Based on current developments in research new findings in Cyprus and the focus on intercultural contacts the volume is organised into four different sections 1 Building the Christian cityscape and landscape 2 Christian communities and church building fourth to seventh centuries 3 Interior arrangement and theological concepts 4 International Byzantine Style Local traditions and adaptations in and outside Cyprus

Housing in Late Antiquity Luke Lavan,Lale èOzgenel,Alexander Constantine Sarantis,2007 This collection of papers arising from the conference series Late Antique Archaeology examines the housing in the late antique period through thematic and regional syntheses complemented by cases studies and two bibliographic essays

A Study of the Circulation of Ceramics in Cyprus from the 3rd Century BC to the 3rd Century AD John Lund,2015-10-26 This is the first monograph devoted solely to the ceramics of Cyprus in the Hellenistic and Roman Periods The island was by then no longer divided into kingdoms but unified politically first under Ptolemaic Egypt and later as a province in the Roman Empire Submission to foreign rule was previously thought to have diluted if not obliterated the time honoured distinctive Cypriot character The ceramic evidence suggests otherwise The distribution of local and imported pottery in Cyprus points to the existence of several regional exchange networks a division that also seems reflected by other evidence The similarities in material culture exchange patterns and preferential practices are suggestive of a certain level of regional collective self awareness From the 1st century BC onwards Cyprus became increasingly engulfed by mass produced and standardized ceramic fine wares which seem ultimately to have put many of the indigenous makers of similar products out of business or forced them to modify their output Also the ceramic record gradually became less diverse during the Roman Period than before developments which we today might be inclined to view as symptoms of an early form of globalisation

The Topography of Ancient Idalion and its Territory Stephan G. Schmid, Will M. Kennedy, 2024-06-18

The question of how to define the territories of the ancient polities city kingdoms of Iron Age Cyprus is a fascinating but also a very difficult one While this topic has already been widely explored by previous scholarship recent investigations that include both modern approaches such as the application of landscape archaeological methodologies as well as a re evaluation of the available archaeological evidence from a new perspective now offers a fresh take on such questions A workshop organized in Berlin in 2018 aimed at discussing additional information on the topography of the ancient city of Idalion and its hinterland This volume therefore includes unique contributions that deal with a wide array of relevant aspects They provide new information on the location chronology and character of settlements necropoleis and sanctuaries from the wider area of Idalion and discuss important issues such as the continuity or discontinuity of settlement activities from the Late Bronze Age to the Iron Age and how this is reflected by material culture They address questions concerned with the physical control of territories and communication networks by considering Idalion s resource availability and the overall development of its rural settlement pattern in contrast to that of its neighbouring polities

More than a Church: Late Antique Ecclesiastical Complexes in Cyprus Catherine T. Keane, 2024-05-27

The church annexes of late antique Cyprus were bustling places of industry producing olive oil flour bread ceramics and metal products From its earliest centuries the church was an economic player participating in agricultural and artisanal production More than a Church brings together architecture ceramics numismatics landscape archaeology and unpublished excavation material alongside consideration of Cyprus s dynamic and prosperous 4th 10th century history Keane offers a rich picture of the association between sacred buildings and agricultural and industrial facilities comprehensively presenting for the first time the church s economic role and impact in late antique Cyprus

Cypro-Minoan Inscriptions Silvia Ferrara, 2012-01-19 Ferrara offers the first comprehensive examination of an ancient writing system from Cyprus and Syria known as Cypro Minoan and presents an analysis of all the inscriptions through a multidisciplinary perspective that embraces aspects of archaeology epigraphy and palaeography

Making Journeys Catriona D. Gibson, Kerri Cleary, Catherine J. Frieman, 2021-02-01 Despite notable explorations of past dynamics much of the archaeological literature on mobility remains dominated by accounts of earlier prehistoric gatherer hunters or the long distance exchange of materials Refinements of scientific dating techniques isotope trace element and aDNA analyses in conjunction with phenomenological investigation computer aided landscape modeling and GIS style approaches to large data sets allow us to follow the movement of people animals and objects in the past with greater precision and conviction One route into exploring mobility in the past may be through exploring the movements and biographies of artifacts Challenges lie not only in tracing the origins and final destinations of objects but in the less tangible in between journeys and the hands they passed through Biographical approaches to artifacts include the recognition that culture contact and hybridity affect material culture in meaningful ways Furthermore discrete and bounded sites still dominate archaeological inquiry leaving the spaces and connectivities between features and settlements unmapped These are linked to an under explored middle spectrum of mobility a range nestled between everyday movements and one off ambitious voyages We wish to explore how these travels involved entangled meshworks of people animals objects knowledge sets and identities By crossing and re crossing cultural contextual and tenurial boundaries such journeys could create diasporic and novel communities ideas and materialities

Central Places and Un-Central Landscapes Giorgos Papantoniou, Athanasios Vionis, 2019-04-01 This volume examines the applicability of central place theory in contemporary archaeological practice and thought in light of ongoing developments in landscape archaeology by bringing together central places and un central landscapes and by grasping diachronically the complex relation between town and country as shaped by political economies and the availability of natural resources Moving away from model bounded approaches central place theory is used more flexibly to include all the places that may have functioned as loci of economic or ideological centrality even in a local context in the past Fourteen chapters examine centrality and un central landscapes from Prehistory to the late Middle Ages in different geographical contexts from Cyprus and the Levant through Greece and the Balkans to Italy France and Germany

Researches in Cypriote History and Archaeology Anna Margherita Jasink, Luca Bombardieri, 2010 Researches in Cypriote History and Archaeology collects the Proceedings of an international meeting held in Florence in April 2009 The title and the contributions disclose how the original planning of a workshop in Florence evolved in time A report of the University of Florence research activity in the Kouris river valley has been initially planned as soon as the idea of the meeting was advertised it was found appropriate to enlarge the horizon and to include in the discussion further issues on Cypriote History Archaeology and Philology It will thus be seen that starting from the Kouris Valley a kind of small overview on Bronze and Iron Age Cyprus has been put together A wide variety of themes and interests raised up during the meeting in Florence as well as a positive esprit de collaboration which allowed to share new results of interesting researches in progress open further possibilities of exchanges and lead us to hope for a new meeting dedicated to Cypriote History and Archaeology to be planned in Tuscany in a next future

exploration of archaeological evidence from the Roman Empire between 44 BCE and 337 CE In A Companion to the Archaeology of the Roman Empire distinguished scholar and archaeologist Professor Barbara Burrell delivers an illuminating and wide ranging discussion of peoples institutions and their material remains across the Roman Empire Divided into two parts the book begins by focusing on the unifying factors institutions and processes that affected the entire empire This ends with a chapter by Professor Greg Woolf Ronald J Mellor Professor of Ancient History at UCLA which summarizes and enlarges upon the themes and contributions of the volume Meanwhile the second part brings out local patterns and peculiarities within the archaeological remains of the City of Rome as well as almost every province of its empire Each chapter is written by a noted scholar whose career has focused on the subject Chronological coverage for each chapter is formally 44 BCE to 337 CE but since material remains are not always so closely datable most chapters center on the first three centuries of the Common Era plus or minus 50 years In addition the book is amply illustrated and includes new and little known finds from oft ignored provinces Readers will also find A thorough introduction to the peoples and operations of the Roman Empire including not just how the center affected the periphery Romanization but how peripheral provinces operated on their own and among their neighbors Comprehensive explorations of local patterns within individual provinces Contributions from a diverse panel of leading scholars in the field A unique form of organization that brings out systems across the empire such as transport across sea rivers and roads monetary systems pottery and foodways the military construction and technology Perfect for graduate and advanced undergraduate students of archaeology and the history of the Roman Empire A Companion to the Archaeology of the Roman Empire will also earn a place in the libraries of professional archaeologists in other fields including Mayanists medievalists and Far Eastern scholars seeking comparanda and bibliography on other imperial structures
