Building a New Global Order David Brian Dewitt, David G. Haglund, John J. Kirton, 1993 The end of the Cold War era has not brought greater security to the world community Although the likelihood of a global strategic nuclear war has been reduced significantly we have already witnessed the impact of other challenges to international peace As the Gulf War of 1991 demonstrated regional conflicts can expand adopting the methods and means of the earlier superpower confrontation Recent events in the Horn of Africa the Balkans and Southeast Asia have revealed the continuing power of historic ethnic religious and national rivalries and the seeming inability of the international community to find effective solutions At the same time modern weapons and communications technologies demographic changes and environmental degradation vast disparities in wealth and the globalization of both economic activity and Western culture pose enormous challenges Are the international institutions with which we have lived since the end of the Second World War equipped to handle these problems Written by international authorities in a wide range of disciplines the essays in this text examine what is known what must be determined and what might be done with respect to these profound and urgent issues International Security Issues in a Global Age Clive Jones, Caroline Kennedy-Pipe, 2020-07-24 This volume examines the new the changing and the enduring features of international security in the post Cold War era In so doing it examines the extent to which present state structures and institutions have been able to adapt and accommodate themselves to the diversity of security threats

Globalization and International Security Teresa F. Rodrigues, Rafael García Pérez, Susana de Sousa Ferreira, 2014-12

Globalization and International Security In a globalised world the international economic crisis that started in 2008 has led to structural changes in the international system and in the balance of power in several terms from a unipolar to a multipolar sphere from the post modern state to the sovereign state from unrestricted integration in the global economy to the independent management of economy itself and from trade integration at a global level to the fragmentation of the economic space in regional areas In short the transition from a unipolar to a multipolar trend seems to be reflected in the increasing fragmentation of the economic space and has repercussions in the strategic space and security These changes are also affecting the discourse that explains the process of globalisation and the appropriate strategies to act in it Maybe until 2007 we could talk about a Western model But now this is a lot more questionable and we might even talk of an outright censorship The rise of emerging powers leads to the construction of a new narrative adapted to the values that these countries embody among them the strength and suitability to the principles derived from the sovereign state A scenario where it is increasingly difficult to adopt the tenets of globalising governance Our aim is to overview all these structural transformations and assess those changes in the different areas taken into account in this book We also aim to address possible alternatives which may allow a coordinated management of certain risks although regionally differentiated We hope this book can be useful to the academic community both graduate and post graduate students professors and researchers of International Relations and Political Science Armed Forces and other security services as well as decision makers in the areas of economics social and security public policies and other readers can find in this book an overview of some major contemporary challenges resulting from the link between security and the globalisation process
