Winner of a Pulitzer Prize for Drama in 1927, Green was a restless experimenter who pioneered a new form of theater with his symphonic drama The Lost Colony. A concern for human rights characterized both his life and his writing, and his steady advocacy for educational and social reform and racial justice contributed in fundamental ways to the emerging New South in the first half of this century. A Paul Green Reader makes available once again the work of this powerful and engaging writer. It features Green's drama and fiction with texts of three plays, including the Pulitzer Prize-winning In Abraham's Bosom and the famous second act of The Lost Colony, and six short stories. It also reveals the life behind the work through several of Green's essays and letters and an excerpt from The Wordbook, his collection of regional folklore. Laurence Avery's introduction outlines Green's life and examines the central concerns and techniques of his work. A native of Harnett County, North Carolina, Paul Green was a devoted teacher of philosophy and drama at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Sketches Illustrating the Early Settlement and History of Glengarry in Canada ... John Alexander Macdonell, 1893 A Bridge of Ships James S. Pritchard, 2011 The second World War dramatically affected Canada's shipbuilding industry. James Pritchard describes the rapidly changing circumstances and personalities that shaped government shipbuilding policy, the struggle for steel, the expansion of ancillary industries, and the cost of Canadian wartime ship production. The Audacious War W. Barron Clarence W. Barron, Clarence W. Barron, 2007-04 The war of 1914 is not only the greatest war in history but the greatest in the political and economic sciences. Indeed, it is the greatest war of all the sciences for it involves all the known sciences of earth, ocean, and the skies. To get the mil The Works of Nicholas Rowe, Esq. In Two Volumes ... It is aimed at the scholarly public and is not intended as a replacement for Austin's admirable school and undergraduate commentary of 1964. But so splendid an ancient text requires fresh scholarly instruments, and this commentary discusses fully the acutely controversial Helen episode, spurious matters of linguistic and textual interpretation, metre, prosody, grammar, lexicon, and idiom, as well as Virgil's sources and the literary tradition in which he writes. Full attention is given to matters military and historiographical. New critical approaches and recent developments have been taken into account with more attention to their spirit than to their language. A text with translation and three indices are included.
