Research in Social Work Practice Brian Corby, 2006-10-16 What are the key issues and concerns raised by the debate about making social work more of an evidence based profession How is it possible to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of specific research projects How can research findings be applied in social work practice In an era where professions are increasingly being questioned and made more accountable for their actions social workers are required to relate their activities more directly to research findings than ever before In the modern evidence based practice debate there are many claims and counter claims about the benefits of research and about its applicability to social work practice There are also major disputes about what type of research is most valid to the concerns of social work This book tackles these debates with a view to clarifying the issues for students and practitioners in social work and social care fields In particular the book examines The political and ideological disputes surrounding the evidence base debate in social work A wide range of research into social work with children older people mental illness and disability The three main paradigms of social research objectivist subjectivist and critical How research knowledge can be applied to practice Applying Research in Social Work Practice presents social work students and practitioners with the background to the key current issues relating to social work practice and social research It also provides guidance on the skills needed to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of a range of research studies Finally it offers help and guidance about how research can actually be applied in practice The Production and Distribution of Knowledge in the United States Fritz Machlup, 1962 The Production and Distribution of Knowledge in the United States marked the beginning of the study of our postindustrial information society Austrian born economist Fritz Machlup had focused his research on the patent system but he came to realize that patents were simply one part of a much bigger knowledge economy He then expanded the scope of his work to evaluate everything from stationery and typewriters to advertising to presidential addresses anything that involved the activity of telling anyone anything The Production and Distribution of Knowledge in the United States then revealed the new and startling shape of the U S economy Machlup s cool appraisal of the data showed that the knowledge industry accounted for nearly 29 percent of the U S gross national product and that 43 percent of the civilian labor force consisted of knowledge transmitters or full time knowledge receivers Indeed the proportion of the labor force involved in the knowledge economy increased from 11 to 32 percent between 1900 and 1959 a monumental shift Beyond documenting this revolution Machlup founded the wholly new field of information economics The transformation to a knowledge economy has resonated throughout the rest of the century especially with the rise of the Internet As two recent observers noted Information goods from movies and music to software code and stock quotes have supplanted industrial goods as the key drivers of world markets Continued study of this change and its effects is testament to Fritz Machlup s pioneering work Knowledge management New Challenges for Educational Research OECD,2003-07-21 This report explores the first two OECD reviews ever on national educational R D systems in England and New Zealand It shows that OECD countries are increasingly taking innovative research initiatives in order to improve the knowledge base in education for teachers and policy makers Unity of Knowledge (in Transdisciplinary Research for Sustainability) - Volume II Gertrude Hirsch Hardon,2008-12-31 Unity of Knowledge in Transdisciplinary Research for Sustainable Development theme is a component of Encyclopedia of Social Sciences and Humanities in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty Encyclopedias Today there is a social need for a comprehensive unity of knowledge that would provide orientation and ensure action in the context of the complex problems of modern civilization Based on an intellectual need for unity of knowledge different concepts of unity of knowledge have emerged in the course of the history of ideas The intellectual need for unity can be directed at the world science action or the individual It can involve the quest for the unity of the world based on a principle that is immanent in it the unity of science as a theoretical methodical or epistemological unity the unity of action as a correlation of scientific pragmatic and moral knowledge or finally unity as the educational task of the individual The concepts associated with unity of knowledge can go in two directions The first assumes that there is a unity existing in the world that can be perceived by man It is thought of as an order of being i e an ontological unity of the plurality of phenomena that consist in their common nature The other direction is based on the assumption that unity is a construction of a subject based on its cognitive principles and structures Thus it is not something that can be discovered as an existing objective order and is instead subjective These two volumes present some aspects of Unity of Knowledge in Transdisciplinary Research for Sustainable Development in three parts The purpose of the first part is to trace back the core ideas in transdisciplinary thinking in the history of western philosophy and science to locate socially the concerns of transdisciplinary research and to give an account of the development of transdisciplinary research The second group of chapters deals with methodological and management problems related to transdisciplinary research with regard to problem identification and structuring of research questions with knowledge integration in problem investigation as well as with evaluation An outline of the institutional measures and transformations to enable and support transdisciplinary research is given in the third part Institutional strategies build on organizational arrangements and links across academic institutions in education and research on networks between science and society for joint knowledge production in temporally limited settings of research programs or projects but they also set up new institutions such as centers for advanced studies national offices agencies and networks These two volumes are aimed at a wide spectrum of audiences University and College Students Educators Research Personnel and all those concerned with sustainable development

Knowledge Nico Stehr,Reiner Grundmann,2005 The increasing investment in scientific knowledge in its production distribution and reproduction is acquiring greater social significance Everything that is regarded as knowledge in society has become a legitimate subject matter for academic investigations from various disciplines and for practitioners

Research Council Support for Knowledge Transfer Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee,2006 Knowledge transfer is an essential component of innovation It is defined as about transferring good ideas research results and skills between universities other research organisations business and the wider community to enable innovative new products and services to be developed This inquiry focused on the effectiveness of the research councils knowledge transfer activities with particular respect to promotion of collaborative working between researchers and partners in industry including in the creative industries and in Small and Medium size Enterprises SMEs stakeholder engagement and communication results and performance management and co ordination between the councils and the role of Research Councils UK RCUK The Committee found weaknesses in strategies for promotion of knowledge transfer Some Councils focus too narrowly on technology transfer with little attention paid to the wider issues such as policy development The councils also focus their attention on informing stakeholders rather than consulting on stakeholder needs In addition there is a particular need for the research councils to enhance communication and engagement with the Regional Development Agencies and SMEs There is little evidence of research council co ordination or sharing of best practice in knowledge transfer Also despite their clear remit to co ordinate and harmonise there appears to have been no added value from RCUK in this area Whilst some councils have a simple funding structure for knowledge transfer in other cases a high level of confusion has been created since there are so many schemes in operation Since the councils conduct little internal impact analysis of their knowledge transfer schemes it is difficult to see how they can effectively allocate funding to different knowledge transfer activities

The Dutch National Research Agenda in Perspective Beatrice Graaf,Alexander Rinnooy Kan,Henk Molenaar,2025-10-01 The Dutch National Research Agenda is a set of national priorities that are set by scientists working in conjunction with corporations civil society organisations and interested citizens The agenda consolidates the questions that scientific research will be focused on in the coming year This book covers the current status of the Dutch National Research Agenda and considers what changes and adjustments may need to be made to the process in order to keep Dutch national research at the top of the pack ICICKM 2019 16th International Conference on Intellectual Capital themselves speak from diverse material occupational and theoretical locations Knowledge Flows, Technological Change and Regional Growth in the European Union Małgorzata Runiewicz-Wardyn,2013-06-14 The book provides conceptual and empirical insights into the complex relationship between knowledge flows and regional growth in the EU The author critically scrutinizes and enhances the RIS Regional Innovation System approach discussing innovation as a technological institutional and evolutionary process Moreover she advances the ongoing discourse on the role of space and technological proximity in the process of innovation and technological externalities The book closes with an investigation of the role of technological change and knowledge spillovers in the dynamic growth and catching up of EU regions Knowledge Translation in Context Bonnie J. Ross Leadbeater, Elizabeth M. Banister, E. Anne Marshall, 2011-01-01 Knowledge Translation in Context is an essential tool for researchers to learn how to be effective partners in the KT process to ensure that diverse communities benefit from academic research results through improved social and health outcomes

Reconfiguring Knowledge in Higher Education Peter Maassen, Monika Nerland, Lyn Yates, 2018-02-28 Knowledge is now central to national economic competitiveness and to socio economic endeavours concerned with inequalities and social exclusion and in this context higher education is recognized as a core sector of national policy and strategy Yet the changing pressures directions and practices in relation to knowledge pose many challenges for higher education itself How can and how should research and study programs within higher education align with wider knowledge dynamics How can higher education prepare students in professional fields for different kinds of knowledge intensive work practices How can short term economic objectives for higher education be aligned with other kinds of knowledge objectives that have characterized universities and colleges and with the intensified impact of global rankings This book takes as its focus the core interest of higher education in knowledge and takes as its object of inquiry the kinds of reconfiguration of knowledge evident in national policies and governance and in the redevelopment and practices of a range of professional and academic study programs in higher education institutions in Norway and Australia From these detailed accounts the book demonstrates the complexity of knowledge as an object of policy and practice the competing logics that may be evident within and between study programs and policies and the different kinds of agents and drivers that are part of knowledge reconfiguration in higher education and that need further attention going forward
