Arms Unbound David Mussington, 1994 Program Manager, 1995 The Weapons State David Mutimer, 2000 The proliferation of all kinds of weapons is a focal point for international security This work shows how both the language used to talk about weapons proliferation and the practices adopted to respond to it serve to define the problem in ways that promote policy responses doomed to failure Managing Intercollective Conflict Anna J. Borgeryd, 1999-02 How does the state system measure up to today's realities when it comes to managing conflict To what extent are efforts to manage conflict successful and for whom Prevailing structures designed to deal with conflict between collectives sovereign states supported by militaries military industry and the United Nations operate mainly on principles that are hundreds of years old Conditions for conflict and its management have changed radically since this state system was constructed There is a risk that institutional inertia produces growing disparity between real world problems and the institutions that are supposed to manage them Realism and legalism are found to form a double ideological support for the state system The study compares the state system's realist and legalist premises to different cases of post cold war intercollective conflict the 1990-91 Gulf War the 1990-95 break up of Yugoslavia and the 1992 Los Angeles riots These cases present important challenges to the prevailing system's premises mismatches between idea and reality that are clearly connected to failures in conflict management In addition findings suggest that the state system not only fails to deal with important aspects of modern day conflict but that it increasingly produces problems that it cannot manage This suggests that the prevailing state system is not in harmony with crucial conflict related aspects of global impact indicating a serious systemic problem Dismantling the Cold War John M. Shields, William C. Potter, 1997 The Nunn-Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) program has since authorized more than 1.5 billion for a wide array of weapons destruction demilitarization nuclear security and nonproliferation activities in the Newly Independent States (NIS) of the former Soviet Union Nuclear Weapons and Arms Control in the Middle East Shai Feldman, 1997 The political dimensions of the Arab-Israeli relationship have changed dramatically in recent years Israel and its Arab neighbors have made remarkable progress toward resolving long-standing conflicts In Nuclear Weapons and Arms Control in the Middle East Shai Feldman considers whether these political breakthroughs have set the stage for agreements on controlling nuclear weapons in the region He presents a richly detailed overview of the current situation and lays out an agenda for future efforts to reduce the risk of nuclear war in the Middle East Feldman whose background in strategic studies includes nearly two decades of research at Tel Aviv University's Jaffee Center for Strategic Studies provides a comprehensive analysis of the nuclear programs of Algeria Egypt Iran Iraq Israel Libya and Syria He presents a detailed picture of how Israel and the Arab states view nuclear weapons their utility and the threats they pose to regional security and explores the different approaches that Israel and the Arab states have adopted toward nuclear arms control Feldman concludes by suggesting interim measures that might help bridge the gap between
