Arsenal Of The Revolution:

Arsenal of World War II Paul A. C. Koistinen, 2004 Prolific munitions production keyed America's triumph in World War II but so did the complex economic controls needed to sustain that production Artillery tanks planes ships trucks and weaponry of every kind were constantly demanded by the military and readily supplied by American business While that relationship was remarkably successful in helping the U S win the war it also raised troubling issues about wartime economies that have never been fully resolved Paul Koistinen's fourth installment of a monumental five volume series on the political economy of American warfare focuses on the mobilization of national resources for a truly global war Koistinen comprehensively analyzes all relevant aspects of the World War II economy from 1940 through 1945 describing the nation's struggle to establish effective control over industrial supply and military demand and revealing the growing partnership between the corporate community and the armed services Koistinen traces the evolution of federal agencies mobilizing for war including the National Defense Advisory Commission the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board and then focuses on the work of the War Production Board from 1942-1945 As the war progressed the WPB and related agencies oversaw the military's supply and procurement systems stabilized the economy while financing the war closely monitored labor relations and controlled the shipping and rationing of fuel and food In chronicling American mobilization Koistinen reveals how representatives of industry and the armed services expanded upon their growing prewar ties to shape policies for harnessing the economy and how federal agencies were subsequently riven with dissension as New Deal reformers and anti New Deal corporate elements battled for control over mobilization itself As the armed services emerged as the principal customers of a command economy the military industrial nexus consolidated its power and ultimately succeeded in bending the reformers to its will The product of exhaustive archival research Arsenal of World War II shows that mobilization meant more than simply harnessing the economy for war it also involved struggles for power and position among a great many interest groups and ideologies Nearly two decades in the making it provides an ambitious and enormously insightful overview of the emergence of the military industrial economy one that still resonates today as America continues to wage wars around the globe

Arsenal of the Revolution Edward D. Fales, Kathryn Boughton, 1997 Missionaries of Revolution Clarence Martin Wilbur, Julie Lien-ying How, 1989 During the 1920s the Soviet Union made a determined effort to stimulate revolution in China sending several scores of military and political advisers there as well as arms and money to influence political developments The usual secrecy surrounding Soviet foreign intervention was broken when the Chinese government seized a mass of documents in a raid on the Soviet military headquarters in Peking in 1927 Missionaries of Revolution weaves together information gleaned from these documents with contemporary historical materials Henry Knox and the Revolutionary War Trail in Western Massachusetts Bernard A. Drew, 2012-01-23 During the winter of 1776 in one of the most amazing logistical feats of the Revolutionary War Henry Knox and his teamsters transported cannons from Fort Ticonderoga through the sparsely populated Berkshires to Boston to help drive British forces from the city This history documents Knox's precise route dubbed the Henry Knox Trail and chronicles the evolution of an ordinary Indian path into a fur corridor a settlement trail and eventually a war road By recounting the growth of this important but under appreciated thoroughfare this study offers critical insight into a vital Revolutionary supply route

Modern China's Network Revolution Zhongping Chen, 2011-06-27 Chambers of commerce developed in China as a key part of its sociopolitical changes In 1902 the first Chinese chamber of commerce appeared in Shanghai By the time the Qing dynasty ended over 1 000 general chambers affiliated chambers and branch chambers had been established throughout China In this new work author Zhongping Chen examines Chinese chambers of commerce and their network development across Lower Yangzi cities and towns as well as the nationwide arena He details how they achieved increasing integration and how their collective actions deeply influenced nationalistic reformist and revolutionary movements His use of network analysis reveals how these chambers promoted social integration beyond the bourgeoisie and other elites and helped bring society and the state into broader and more complicated interactions than existing theories of civil society and public sphere suggest With both historical narrative and theoretical analysis of the long neglected local chamber networks this study offers a keen historical understanding of the interaction of Chinese society business and politics in the early twentieth century It also provides new knowledge produced from network theory within the humanities and social sciences Onondaga's
