

Building up alternative economic spaces A comparison of concepts in the Global North and South

Armin Kratzer, Gerhard Rainer, Ana Garay, Julieta Krapovickas

Abstract: Rural societies around the world face numerous challenges related to containing market pressures on agro-food production, which is causing a loss of competitiveness of small-scale agriculture. The outlook for the future is unclear for the rural population while an increase in new capitalized actors is visible in the Global North and South. However, there is also a display of resistance and innovative actions by many groups in rural societies. This paper introduces some of the conceptual approaches underlying these development paths. We provide an overview on the problem definitions, goals, means and central actors that are nurturing these alternative economic spaces. In doing so, we seek to bridge some aspects of the North and South, co-creating the world we want.

Introduction

For a long time rural regions were hardly connected with distant countries. The elimination of trade barriers, the rise of new communication media and a high mobility of people and goods however have connected these peripheries to global processes, particularly with global production networks (Neuburger, 2014). Therefore, rural communities in peripheral areas all over the world are confronted with a particular challenge: The increasing globalization and industrialization of food production and trade provokes a decrease of small-scale agriculture's competitiveness and makes the sustaining of agriculture-based livelihoods an ever more complex process. This does not only have

Interrogating Alterity Duncan Fuller, Andrew E. G. Jonas, Roger Lee, 2010 Alternative ways of thinking analysing and performing economic geographies have become ever more significant in recent years The importance of such alternatives continues to be underlined by the recent global financial crisis the ongoing social and political consequences of which have spread from Europe and the USA to economies and places throughout the world Yet there is a real danger that the debate about alternatives simply becomes a way of fixing global capitalism in its present crisis ridden form Instead the analysis of alternative economic spaces must continue to offer a critique of the very notion of capitalism as a universal if variable set of social relations For geographers and other critical social scientists there is great excitement about the possibilities inherent in constructing alternative economic spaces and for exploiting alternative spaces of political engagement This important book brings together critical analyses of alterity from across the social sciences and humanities refining and advancing what alternative economies and polities are how they are formed what difficulties and problems they face and how they might be sustained A central theme running through the book is the need to examine critically both the material contexts and the conceptual categories deployed in the making of alternative economies This rich and inspiring collection samples an exciting new scholarly tradition one that draws upon and feeds into the social movements that are transforming economies worldwide At once supportive and critical Interrogating Alterity is a must read for anyone interested in the other economies currently taking shape on the ground J K Gibson Graham University of Massachusetts Amherst USA and University of Western Sydney Australia Alternative Economies and Spaces

Hans-Martin Zademach, Sebastian Hillebrand, 2014-04-15 The volume entails a collection of contributions by leading scholars Raymond Bryant Michael K Goodman Benjamin Huybrechts Andrew E G Jonas Roger Lee Peter North and Katinka Weber concerned with alternative modes of economic and social exchange The cases addressed in these contributions including credit unions alternative currencies sustainable consumption and social enterprises deliver valuable insights into how such alternatives are performed at various scales and spaces in relation to and beyond the economic mainstream In sum the collection provides vital grounds for both a transition of the economic system towards a more sustainable one and a reconceptualisation of the economic itself in our scholarly thinking and everyday lives

Goodman, David Goodman, 2016-05-23 An examination of the relationship between space place and consumption offers important insights into some of the most powerful forces constructing contemporary societies Space and place are made and remade through consumption Yet how do cultures of consumption discover space and how do they construct place This book addresses these questions by exploring the implications of conceptualizing consumption as a spatial increasingly global yet intensely localized activity The work develops integrative approaches that articulate the processes involved in the production and consumption of space and place The result is a varied engaging and innovative study of consumption and its role in structuring contemporary capitalist political economies Teaching Geography 11-18: a Conceptual Approach David Lambert, John

Morgan, 2010-01-16 This is a must read for all 11 18 geography educators It argues for a new geography curriculum founded on a set of major concepts that are profoundly relevant to 21st century life For years books on 11 18 geography education have focussed on classroom techniques new pedagogic technologies and alternative modes of student assessment Not this one Teaching Geography 11 18 digs deep It asks not only what geography is for but bases its answer on a set of key concepts able to sustain an exciting and relevant curriculum It also grounds its many arguments in the latest geographical research thus re establishing the broken connection between geography teaching in schools and that in higher education Professor Noel Castree University of Manchester UK This engaging and stimulating book aims to radically re shape and sharpen debates in geography education by taking an entirely fresh approach to both the subject and its place in secondary education Key questions addressed in this book include What is the place of geography within the secondary school curriculum To what extent does school geography reflect and engage with contemporary issues and theories from the wider subject What are the issues challenges and opportunities of a concept led approach to teaching geography What are the implications of ICT media and technology for the future of geography teaching in schools Influenced by the revised national curriculum for geography which has reduced the prescribed content to be covered this book offers an objective view of the concept led approach The new focus on concepts represents a significant shift in how geography is to be taught in schools yet there has been little extended discussion of what a concept led approach to teaching and learning would entail This book fills that void by examining geography s key concepts and providing teachers with a theoretically robust and practical approach to curriculum planning using a concept led approach This is essential reading for all secondary geography teachers trainee teachers and anyone involved with education and curriculum planning
