Airways Neural Control In Health And Disease:

The Airways Michael A. Kaliner, Peter J. Barnes, 1987-12-01 Airways Smooth Muscle: Development, and Regulation of Contractility David Raeburn, Mark A. Giembycz, 2013-03-08 Most studies on autonomic innervation of smooth muscle have focused on the short term mechanisms involved in neurotransmission in physiological and pathophysiological conditions. However, recent observations of the long term plasticity of this system, i.e. its capacity for regeneration and for compensatory change in pattern of innervation and expression of cotransmitters and receptors in ageing following surgery, trauma or in disease have indicated that an understanding of the mechanisms involved could influence the design of therapeutic regimes. There is increasing evidence for long term communication between nerves and smooth muscle cells during development and throughout adult life. To date, the trophic interactions between nerves and airway musculature have attracted little interest; consequently, much of the information presented here is drawn from studies using other smooth muscles. However, the questions posed about trophic interactions during development apply as much to airways smooth muscle neuroeffector systems as to other autonomic neuroeffector systems. These are: i) How do developing nerve fibres know where to go and how do they reach their target sites? ii) What determines the density and pattern of innervation at reaching the effector? iii) How do the nerves survive and maintain their position once established? iv) What factors influence neurochemical differentiation such that genetically multipotential neurones are triggered to synthesize one or combinations of neurotransmitters? v) What influence do nerves have on the structure, function and receptor expression of their effector cells? vi) How do diseases interrupt these processes? see 1 Aspects of Synaptic Transmission T. W. Stone, 1991 A collection of reviews on selected areas of synaptic transmission from neuroscientists in a number of areas of work in the nervous system and related disciplines. Five areas are covered: long term potentiation, galanin, autonomic opioids and 5-hydroxytryptamine Airway Obstruction and Inflammation D. Olivieri, S. including medical therapy and lung transplantation Allergy Frontiers: Classification and Pathomechanisms Ruby Pawankar, Stephen T. Holgate, Lanny J. Rosenwasser, 2009-03-13 When I entered the field of allergy in the early 1970s the standard textbook was a few hundred pages and the specialty was so compact that texts were often authored entirely by a single individual and were never larger than one volume Compare this with Allergy Frontiers Epigenetics Allergens and Risk Factors the present s volume text with well over 150 contributors from throughout the world This book captures the explosive growth of our specialty since the single author textbooks referred to above The unprecedented format of this work lies in its meticulous attention to detail yet comprehensive scope For example great detail is seen in manuscripts dealing with topics such as Exosomes naturally occurring minimal antigen presenting units and Neuropeptide S receptor 1 NPSR1 an asthma susceptibility gene The scope is exemplified by the unique approach to disease entities normally dealt with in a single chapter in most texts For example anaphylaxis a topic usually confined to one chapter in most textbooks is given five chapters in Allergy Frontiers This approach allows the text to employ multiple contributors for a single topic giving the reader the advantage of being introduced to more than one viewpoint regarding a single disease Airways Smooth Muscle David Raeburn, Mark A. Giembycz, 2013-03-09 Many factors may influence the release of neurotransmitters from airway nerves 1 This is likely to be important in physiological control of airway functions and may be particularly relevant in airway diseases such as asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease COPD Neural elements in airways interact in a complex manner and the activation of certain neural pathways may profoundly influence the release of transmitters from other neural pathways Similarly inflammatory mediators released from inflammatory cells in the airways may also modulate neurotransmitter release There are marked differences between species in airway innervation and in neuromodulatory effects and wherever possible studies in human airways have been emphasised although information on neuromodulation in human airways is somewhat limited at present Release of neurotransmitters from nerve terminals occurs via a Ca^{2+} dependent secretion evoked by a nerve action potential but may also be evoked experimentally by a high extracellular K^{+} concentration which directly depolarises the nerve terminal membrane Modulation refers to the alteration of neurotransmitter release which may either be increased facilitation or reduced inhibition by the action of a particular agent thus changing the magnitude of the neurally mediated response Such agents would normally act on receptors on the nerve terminal which are referred to as pre junctional or presynaptic receptors in contrast to post junctional or post synaptic receptors located on the target cells which are influenced by that particular transmitter Pharmacotherapy in Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease Bartolome R. Celli, 2003-12-17 Placing specialists at the cutting edge of therapeutic and biotechnological research this reference reviews the extensive array of pharmaceutical options available for the management of patients with COPD The book considers disease severity dosing regimens administration methods and monitoring procedures as well as medication related side effects for improved lung function reduction of disease symptoms and enhanced quality of life Contributions from world renowned authorities reflect recent practices controversies and procedures in the control of COPD symptoms and detail the development and efficacy of therapies such as anticholinergics beta adrenergics and corticosteroids

Muscarinic Receptors in Airways Diseases Johan Zaagsma,Herman Meurs,Ad F. Roffel,2013-03-08

What are the different muscarinic acetylcholine receptor subtypes and how are they distributed in the airways and molecular signalling mechanisms What is their function in neurogenic and non neurogenic control of the airways and in inflammatory mechanisms How is their gene expression regulated The great importance of muscarinic acetylcholine receptors for the pathophysiology and treatment of chronic inflammatory obstructive airways diseases calls for a comprehensive and integrated overview of the current knowledge to address such questions to discuss the role of these receptor subtypes in diseases such as asthma and COPD and to present novel perspectives on antimuscarinic drug development The present book is the worthy result of this need It points out innovative insights into the hitherto poorly understood role of postjunctional muscarinic M2 receptors in airway smooth muscle contraction and sheds some light on the novel concepts of antimuscarinic drug development with special reference to the l
