The Thirty Thousand Years Left Behind

GUO ZHIXUE, Thirty thousand years ago an advanced human civilization faced devastating retaliation from Earth's secret rulers due to its excessive development causing humanity to revert to the primitive era of knot-tying for record-keeping. When a traveling alien fleet invades Earth, the primitive humans living a brutal and basic existence stand no chance against them. At this critical juncture, ancient human scientists awaken from their millennia-long slumber. As part of their Awakening Plan, they attempt to guide humanity back to civilization through religious forms, marking progress at thousand-year intervals. The alien invasion now threatens the very survival of Earth's civilization. In the face of this threat and under the organization of the ancient human scientists, the once-hostile secret rulers begin to reconcile with humanity. The battle between primitive humans and the alien civilization, coupled with the alliance between ancient human scientists and the secret rulers, sets the stage for a high-stakes struggle. Amid this uneven showdown, the question remains: can the spark of humanity endure and continue to spread?
