A History Maker:

A History Maker Alasdair Gray,1996 In a story set in Scotland's Ettrick Forest in the twenty third century Wat Dryhope is unhappy about his clan's violent and permissive lifestyle until he is challenged by Delilah Puddock and her plot to restore the competitive exploitation of human resources

All the books from Movies on Paper collections are different from your regular books novels Most books and novels have about 10 000 or more words plus chapters All my books are created different with my new style of written and publishing I called it The Journal Style of writing for all my books This new style of my writing is less than 10 000 words with notes photos and documents I wanted to be different from other authors and wanted my books to be different from other books

Alasdair Gray Stephen Bernstein,1999-10 Since the publication of Lanark in 1981 Alasdair Gray has been a figure of importance in contemporary literature Now through attention to mixed genre counter historical narrative and the thematics of memory this first study of Alasdair Gray's novels shows the coherence of the Scottish writer's varied body of work Stephen Bernstein refuses to view Gray's work through the vague lens of postmodernism seeing Gray instead as a writer at home in a variety of literary traditions Beginning by providing an American audience with backgrounds to Gray's work this study recounts the chronology of his publications and their reception by an international audience simultaneously placing his writing in the contexts of Scottish culture and literature
