A Bibliography of the Northern Territory: Sciences, primary industry and recreation ,1977      The Archaeology of Rock Art in Western Arnhem Land, Australia Bruno David,Paul Taçon,Jean-Jacques Delannoy,Jean-Michel Geneste,2017-11-30

Western Arnhem Land in the Top End of Australia s Northern Territory has a rich archaeological landscape ethnographic record and body of rock art that displays an astonishing array of imagery on shelter walls and ceilings While the archaeology goes back to the earliest period of Aboriginal occupation of the continent the rock art represents some of the richest most diverse and visually most impressive regional assemblages anywhere in the world To better understand this multi dimensional cultural record The Archaeology of Rock Art in Western Arnhem Land Australia focuses on the nature and antiquity of the region s rock art as revealed by archaeological surveys and excavations and the application of novel analytical methods This volume also presents new findings by which to rethink how Aboriginal peoples have socially engaged in and with places across western Arnhem Land from the north to the south from the plains to the spectacular rocky landscapes of the plateau The dynamic nature of Arnhem Land rock art is explored and articulated in innovative ways that shed new light on the region s deep time Aboriginal history

Fire in Tropical Savannas Alan N. Andersen,Garry D. Cook,Richard J. Williams,2006-05-17 Fire is a major agent of disturbance in many biomes of the world but is a particularly important feature of tropical savannas Up to 50% of the ext sive tropical savanna landscapes of northern Australia are burnt each year This includes prestigious conservation reserves such as World Heritage listed Kakadu National Park in the Top End of the Northern Territory As in other savanna regions of the world the responses of biota to different re regimes are poorly understood such that re management represents one of the greatest challenges to conservation managers and researchers alike This is the context within which a landscape scale re experiment was established at Kapalga Research Station in Kakadu which aimed to provide a sound scienti c basis for conservation management in the region The experiment was established by The Australian Commonwealth Scienti c and Industrial Research Organization CSIRO but involved collaborators from a range of universities and government agencies including the m agers of Kakadu the Australian Nature Conservation Agency ANCA now Parks Australia North This book summarizes the ndings from the Kapalga re experiment and explores the implications for conservation management We believe that Kapalga has provided important insights into the re ecology of tropical savannas and has broad relevance for the conservation management of prone landscapes in general This book should be of interest to researchers graduate students and land management agencies vii viii Preface We are extremely grateful to all our collaborators both inside and outside CSIRO for their involvement in the Kapalga experiment Tennant Creek, N.T. A. J. Stewart, 1976      Aves (Columbidae to Coraciidae) Richard Schodde, I. J. Mason, 1997 This is the first of four proposed volumes that will catalogue the birds of Australia. It contains a wealth of detail about the complex nomenclature and includes informative qualifications and taxonomic decisions. The Catalogue also documents type localities, distribution, ecology and bibliographic references. The authoritative work compiled by world experts is the culmination of many years of research and will be much in demand as the directory to the status of knowledge on the Australian fauna. Features comprehensive introductions, 14 families, 12 subfamilies, 10 tribes, 130 living indigenous and established feral species, over 200 genus available names, over 700 species available names, nomina nuda, incertae sedis and taxa confirmando, subgeneric arrangements, subspecific arrangements, alternative taxonomic arrangements, many new taxonomic and nomenclatural decisions, synonymies with authorities, detailed qualifications of the status of names, location and status of type material, new type designations, type localities, summaries of distribution and ecology, ecological keywords, extensive literature citation.      Pigeons and Doves in Australia Joseph Forshaw, 2015-04 Possibly the most successful urban birds pigeons and doves in the Order Columbiformes are one of the most easily recognised groups. They are an ancient and very successful group with an almost worldwide distribution and are most strongly represented in tropical and subtropical regions including Australia. In most species simple plumage patterns feature mainly grey and brown with black, white or dull reddish markings but the highly colourful fruit doves include some of the most beautiful of all birds. From dense rainforests of north Queensland where brilliantly plumaged Superb Fruit Doves Ptilinopus superbus are heard more easily than seen to cold windswept heathlands of Tasmania where Brush Bronzewings Phaps elegans are locally common, most regions of Australia are frequented by one or more species. For more than a century after arrival of the First Fleet interest in these birds focused on the eating qualities of larger species. In addition to contributing to declines of local populations in some parts of Australia, excessive hunting brought about the extinction of two species on Lord Howe Island and another species on Norfolk Island. In Pigeons and Doves in Australia Joseph Forshaw and William Cooper have summarised our current knowledge of all species including those occurring on Christmas, Norfolk and Lord Howe Islands and with superb artwork have given readers a visual appreciation of the birds in their natural habitats. Historical accounts of extinct species are also included. Detailed information on management practices for all species is presented ensuring that Pigeons and Doves in Australia will become the standard reference work on these birds for ornithologists and aviculturists.

Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, 1956      Bulletin, 1988      Minerals Yearbook, 1992      The Purari — tropical environment of a high rainfall river basin T. Petr, 2012-12-06 One of the major river systems of our country, the Purari River finds its outlet to the sea in the Gulf of Papua on the southern coast of Papua New Guinea. All highlands provinces contribute to this mighty river; the Erave of the Southern Highlands Province joins with the Kaugel and Wahgi Rivers. Western High Lands, the Tua River, Simbu and Asaro and Aure Rivers of the Eastern High lands Province to make the Purari the third largest river in P N G Unlike its rivals the Fly and the Sepik the distance between its escape from the mountains and its entrance to the sea is short After winding its way mostly through deep gorges flanked by high mountains the river leaves the foothills of the southern slopes of the central cordillera barely eighty kilometers from the sea The energy potential of such a river is enormous Could the waters be utilised in any way to the advantage of the nation Twelve years ago the Electricity Com mission of Papua New Guinea proposed an answer to this question the building of a dam across the river in the Wabo area of the Gulf Province The generation of vast quantities of hydro electric power could be fed into a national distribution grid and heavy industries could be established in the Gulf Province and other suitable localities to benefit from this power
