Cowley And East Oxford Past And Present:

Cowley and East Oxford Past and Present Malcolm Graham, Lawrence Walker, 2001-02-05 Across Magdalen Bridge and away from the architectural delights of the University City there exist other areas of Oxford less picturesque perhaps but each with a fascinating history of its own St Clement s developed as a mediaeval suburb which grew suddenly in the early 1800s and became part of Oxford City in 1836 East Oxford now an extraordinarily cosmopolitan area of the city was mostly built across open countryside in Victorian times Cowley still a quite separate village at the end of the First World War became a large industrial and residential suburb of Oxford within a decade thanks to William Morris and his burgeoning motor industry Blackbird Leys was farmland until the 1950s when it became the site for a large housing estate The development of these contrasting areas is explored through this fine collection of over 230 photographs which compares views dating from the 1820s to the 1970s with their present day equivalents Well known Oxford local historian Malcolm Graham has selected the historic images and his informative captions give a real context to the old and new views The modern photographs some revealing massive change others a surprising degree of continuity are the work of Laurence Waters a professional photographer and keen railway historian Their combined efforts have created a book which will appeal to everyone with an interest in Oxford Town rather than Gown London, Past and Present Henry Benjamin Wheatley, 1891

Based upon the Handbook of London by the late Peter Cunningham Oxford Historical Society, 1899 Music and Identity in Postcolonial British South-Asian Literature Christin Hoene, 2014-08-27 This book examines the role of music in British South Asian postcolonial literature asking how music relates to the construction of postcolonial identity It focuses on novels that explore the postcolonial condition in India Pakistan and the United Kingdom Vikram Seth s A Suitable Boy Amit Chaudhuri s Afternoon Raag Suhayl Saadi s Psychoraag Hanif Kureishi s The Buddha of Suburbia and The Black Album and Salman Rushdie s The Ground Beneath Her Feet with reference to other texts such as E M Forster s A Passage to India and Vikram Seth s An Equal Music The analyzed novels feature different kinds of music from Indian classical to non classical traditions and from Western classical music to pop music and rock n roll Music is depicted as a cultural artifact and as a purely aestheticized art form at the same time As a cultural artifact music derives meaning from its socio cultural context of production and serves as a frame of reference to explore postcolonial identities on their own terms As purely aesthetic art music escapes its contextual meaning The transgressive qualities of music render it capable of expressing identities irrespective of origin and politics of location Thereby music in the novels marks a very productive space to imagine the postcolonial nation and to rewrite imperial history to express the cultural hybridity of characters in between nations to analyze the state of the nation and life in the multicultural diaspora of contemporary Great Britain and to explore the ramifications of cultural globalization versus cultural imperialism It will be a useful research and teaching tool for those interested in postcolonial literature music studies cultural studies contemporary literature and South Asian literature

Paul Gilroy founding Director of the Sarah Parker Remond Centre for the Study of Race and Racism at UCL Hicks must read book describes how it was possible for a human skull to be made into a drinking cup and used in a genteel Oxford college well into the 21st century as if empire were an eternal state of nature Read it to learn new ways to be anti racist abolitionist and to tell other stories than those commemorated by the monuments that surround us from statues to museums and the police Nicholas Mirzoeff author of White Sight Brave and clear sighted Hicks opens up an extraordinary conversation between the past and the present This is a book about falling statues but so much more It's about how we've been lied to and how we can approach the past with honesty Hicks asks whether history and archaeology should be used to justify actions we know impinge on the rights of others or to understand ourselves better Alice Roberts bestselling author of Crypt Dan Hicks writes with grace and fierce focus about what we choose to remember and why in our patterns of thought our institutions and the built environment in which we live Eyal Weizman director of Forensic Architecture The culture war is over If you want it to be It wasn't even a culture war it was a war on culture A sustained attack Dan Hicks argues in the form of the weaponisation of civic museums public art and even universities and one that has a deeper history than you might think Tracing the origins of contemporary conflicts over art heritage memory and colonialism Every Monument Will Fall joins the dots between the building of statues the founding of academic disciplines like archaeology and anthropology and the warehousing of stolen art and human skulls in museums including the one in which he is a curator Part history part biography part excavation the story runs from the Yorkshire wolds to the Crimean War from southern Ireland to the frontline of the American Civil War from the City of London to the University of Oxford revealing enduring legacies of militarism slavery racism and white supremacy hardwired into the heart of our cultural institutions Every Monument Will Fall offers an urgent reappraisal of how we think about culture and how to find hope remembrance and reconciliation in the fragments of an unfinished violent past Refusing to choose between pulling down every statue or living in a past that we can never change the book makes the case for allowing monuments to fall once in a while even those that are hard to see as monuments rebuilding a memory culture that is in step with our times

Flexibility and Commitment in Planning D. Thomas,M. Tvrđý,2012-12-06 This book is about the ways in which two western European countries attempt to cope with the changing demands of urban development In particular it is concerned with the differences in approach of the Dutch and English planning systems and the contrasting ways in which they are used to guide promote and control development The book results from a research study in which members of staff at Delft of Technology and Oxford Polytechnic compared local planning and University development in the Netherlands and England The aim was to investigate ways in which development was promoted and controlled under different planning systems The research was subsequently developed along two converging lines One was an examination of over twenty case studies of plan making and the control of development in the cities of Leiden and Oxford The other was a study of the two planning systems and the ways in which the respective approaches to planning were seen to relate closely to the contrasting legal and administrative systems and differences in development practice The convergence of the two lines of enquiry produced a tension between empirical observations and theoretical supposition which led to a fruitful development of ideas about the nature of the two planning systems and how they promote and control development the origins of the order in the late nineteenth century through today Though clergy were the theological voice of the Oxford Movement the role of sisterhoods included advancing the catholic faith among the laity through religious education parish mission guilds for women and children spiritual guidance instruction in the sacraments the ecclesiastical arts and humanitarian relief

Feminist Comedy Willow White, 2024-06-14 Feminist Comedy argues that the development of modern feminist thought is closely linked to theatrical comedy Through analysis of plays by Catherine Clive Frances Brooke Frances Burney Hannah Cowley and Elizabeth Inchbald the book demonstrates that these authors turned to comedy as a site of feminist critique practice and experimentation

Reading Between the Lines Kenneth Brophy, 2015-10-05 Reading Between the Lines The Neolithic Cursus Monuments of Scotland is the first systematic analysis of Scotland's cursus monuments and is written by one of the foremost scholars of the Neolithic in Scotland Drawing on fifteen years of experience of cropmark interpretation as well as his involvement in several excavations of cursus monuments and contemporary sites Kenneth Brophy uncovers some of the secrets of the Neolithic landscape While outlining the physical characteristics of the cursus this book also addresses the limitations of this kind of typological description when applied to monuments which varied so remarkably in terms of materiality and size Moving beyond a morphological account Brophy considers what can be said of this diverse group of sites and how they were actually built and used in prehistory in light of several decades of aerial reconnaissance and excavation in Scotland Through a close study of the differences as well as the similarities between these structures this book offers a nuanced account of cursus monuments finally allowing this important monument type to be better understood and placed alongside others of the period Offering exciting new ways of thinking about these enigmatic yet important monuments Reading Between the Lines The Neolithic Cursus Monuments of Scotland is an essential resource for students and specialists in British prehistory providing an introduction to the Early Neolithic archaeology of lowland Scotland as well as a meditation on broader aspects of monumentality and architecture
