Grasping the Changing World Vaclav Hubinger, 2002-09-11 As different societies merge into one global society and face the concomitant crisis of identity of purpose and interest social anthropology urgently needs to bring its methodology up to date new methods are needed to analyse compare and understand different cultures across space and time Grasping the Changing World collects papers read at the second biannual EASA conference in Prague in 1992

The conference took place in an extraordinary postmodern setting. With the fall of communist regimes in Central and Eastern Europe, old certainties and time-honoured concepts had become obsolete. At the same time, anthropology too was in upheaval, and long-established patterns of thought seemed inadequate to grasp the rapidly changing realities. These doubts and tensions are reflected in this collection. The first half of Grasping the Changing World focuses on ways of conceptualising, modelling and perceiving the present, while the second half reassesses the theoretical strength or otherwise of social anthropology as a modern science. Combining methodological rigour and originality, this collection will make invaluable reading for all students of social anthropology, sociology and politics, and its methodology as it is applied to the comparison and understanding of societies across space and time.

Building Community George Manning, Kent Curtis, Steve McMillen, 1996

Water in a Changing World World Water Assessment Programme (United Nations), 2009. The United Nations World Water Development Report, published every three years, is a comprehensive review providing an authoritative picture of the state of the world's freshwater resources. It offers best practices as well as in-depth theoretical analyses to help stimulate ideas and actions for better stewardship in the water sector. It is the only report of its kind, resulting from the collaboration and contributions of the 26 UN agencies' commissions, program funds, secretariats and conventions that have a significant role in addressing global water concerns. The news media are full of talk of crises in climate change, energy and food, and troubled financial markets. These crises are linked to each other and to water resources management. Unresolved, they may lead to increasing political insecurity and conflict. Water is required to meet our fundamental needs and rising living standards and to sustain our planet's fragile ecosystems. Pressures on the resource come from a growing and mobile population, social and cultural change, economic development and technological change. Adding complexity and risk is climate change, with impacts on the resource as well as on the sources of pressure on water. The challenges, though substantial, are not insurmountable. The Report shows how some countries have responded. Progress in providing drinking water is heartening, with the Millennium Development Goal target on track in most regions. But other areas remain unaddressed, and after decades of inaction, the problems in water systems are enormous and will worsen if left unattended. Leaders in the water sector can inform decisions outside their domain and manage water resources to achieve agreed socioeconomic objectives and environmental integrity. Leaders in government, the private sector and civil society determine these objectives and allocate human and financial resources to meet them. Recognizing this responsibility, they must act now. Two-volume set, 336 + 96 pages, case studies. Includes CD-ROM. Published jointly with UNESCO Publishing.

Shaping Film Festivals In a Changing World Dorota Ostrowska, Tamara Falicov, 2025-10-01. This volume is a collective attempt on the part of a community of academics, film festival curators and archivists to come to terms with practical and intellectual challenges of the pandemic and post-pandemic realities affecting cultures of film festivals. The collection draws contours of critical inquiry, orienting current film festival research and practice to explore new directions in archiving and decolonizing practices and big data.
