Biochemical Pharmacology of Blood and Bloodforming Organs James W. Fisher,2012-12-06 The subject of this volume is to review chemical agents which affect blood and blood forming organs Significant advances made over the past several years in the purification of several hematopoietic growth factors such as erythropoietin and colony stimulating factor the availability of several other growth factors such as the interleukins which are important in regulating the production of red blood cells leukocytes megakaryocytes and platelets are discussed Numerous toxic chemical substances are being produced in our environment which people are exposed to daily causing a suppression of erythropoiesis myelopoiesis and megakaryocytopoiesis Attempts to evaluate both the therapeutic role of some of the newer growth factors such as erythropoietin in the anemia of end stage disease as well as colony stimulating factors in some hematopoietic abnormalities are also covered in this volume. In addition, numerous chemical factors in our environment which suppress major hematopoietic lineages stimulated by erythropoietin, macrophage colony stimulating factor, granulocyte colony stimulating factor, interleukin 1, alpha 1, beta 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 are also included. In addition, chapters on the use of erythropoietin in the treatment of anemia of end stage renal disease can provide the practicing hematologist and nephrologist with updated information on the use of erythropoietin for this disease. The book includes chapters on the fundamental control of hematopoiesis and other mechanisms of action of erythropoietin and finally an up to date overview of the chemotherapy of leukemia. This book will prove useful to investigators in the fields of pharmacology, physiology, nephrology, urology, hematology, pathology, endocrinology, biochemistry and molecular and cell biology.

Biochemical and Biological Markers of Neoplastic Transformation Prakash Chandra, 2013-11-11. This volume is a record of the proceedings of a NATO Advanced Study Institute on Biochemical and Biological Markers of Neoplastic Transformation held September 28 - October 8, 1981 at Corfu, Greece. As early as 1860 Rudolf Virchow provided the first genetic concept of cancer by postulating Omnia cellulae e cellulae ejusdem generis a modification of the then existing cell theory Omnis cellula e cellula. Thus the idea that all cells originate from the parent cell was extended to the idea that all cancer cells come from the parent cancer cell. But how the first cancer cell arose or in other words how a normal cell changed to a cancer cell is even after 120 years a mystery. Experimental studies of the past have convinced us that a number of factors contribute to the neoplastic transformation of a normal cell but our knowledge on the mechanisms involved in this process is still in an embryonic state. In the last few years however this field has witnessed a most remarkable advancement catalyzed by the development of modern technology in the allied fields of immunology, the production of monoclonal antibodies, molecular biology and sequencing, and cloning of oncogenes. Presently it is becoming more and more evident to the wishful mind of those engaged in this research that we are approaching a turning point. Thus an assessment of the present situation will be most desirable at this time.

Vanadium Compounds: Biochemical and Therapeutic Applications Ashok K. Srivastava, Jean-Louis Chiasson, 2012-12-06. The papers in this volume comprise invited reviews as well as original research papers presented at the Vanadium Symposium held July 29-31, 1994. Vanadium is a trace element and its compounds have been shown to exert a wide variety of insulin like effects including the ability to lower hyperglycemia in several experimental models of diabetes mellitus. Because of the possibility that vanadium compounds may be able to serve as potential therapeutic agents for the treatment of diabetes and possibly other diseases this trace element has attracted the attention of biomedical researchers from a variety of fields The Vanadium Symposium 1994 was therefore organized to facilitate exchange of ideas and increase interaction among researchers of different disciplines actively engaged in studying the biological actions of vanadium compounds The papers are written by leading vanadium researchers and are grouped into three main sections the chemistry biochemical and physiological aspects and potential therapeutic use and toxic effects of vanadium compounds A good source of information on vanadium chemistry and biology Biochemistry of Chemical Carcinogenesis R. Colin Garner,Jan Hradec,2012-12-06 Research Awards Index , Perinatal Biochemistry Emilio Herrera,Robert H. Knopp,2020-10-28 Intrauterine development and birth constitute an uninterrupted sequence of events that have a molecular physiologic background Perinatal Biochemistry presents a comprehensive review of this subject Specific topics addressed include maternal metabolism during pregnancy maternal insulin resistance embryonic and fetal metabolism and fuel consumption the fetal pancreas growth factors brain metabolism and biochemical adaptations to early extrauterine life The book will be useful to biochemists and physiologists interested in perinatology clinicians working in areas related to maternal health gestational development and delivery gynecologists neonatologists pediatricians endocrinologists and internists
