Biochemistry Of Cytodifferentiation:

The Biochemistry of Cytodifferentiation Donald Ernest Samuel Truman, 1974 The Biochemistry of Cytodifferentiation Donald Ernest Samuel Truman, 1974 The Cultured Cell and Inherited Metabolic Disease R. Angus Harkness, F. Cockburn, 2012-12-06 The use of cultured cells in the clinical diagnosis of hereditary metabolic disease is a rapidly developing subject to which many different disciplines have brought their expertise and knowledge A number of scientists who have individually contributed to the growth of the subject gave invited papers at the Fourteenth Symposium of the Society for the Study of Inborn Errors of Metabolism in the University of Edinburgh on 13-16th July 1976 These papers form the basis of this monograph which brings together contributions from the basic sciences and from physicians concerned primarily with human disease The cross fertilization produced by this interdisciplinary communication was invaluable to those trying to understand and overcome diagnostic problems posed by hereditary metabolic disease Cell culture methods and cell preservation techniques were described by D G Harnden and D E Pegg Dr T Elsdale outlined some of the factors which control in vitro cell growth and division Cell culture methods and cryopreservation techniques have allowed the wide distribution of biochemically abnormal cells and their study over long periods of time It is also evident that when a defect which produces severe metabolic disorder in man can be studied in the laboratory using isolated cell cultures a wide variety of investigative procedures can be focused on to the cellular defect without distress or discomfort to the patient or relatives
