Mediterranean-Type Ecosystems George W. Davis, David M. Richardson, 2012-12-06 Human activities are causing species extinctions at a rate and magnitude rivaling those of past geologic extinction events Exploring mediterranean type ecosystems the Mediterranean Basin California Chile Australia and South Africa this volume addresses the question whether biological diversity plays a significant role in the functioning of natural ecosystems and to what extent that diversity can be reduced without causing system malfunction Comparative studies in ecosystems that are similar in certain respects but differ in others offer considerable scope for gaining new insights into the links between biodiversity and ecosystem functioning

Spencer, 2013-10-22 Chemical Mediation of Coevolution explores the degree to which chemicals are the currency of information exchange in coevolved systems it also reexamines existing concepts of coevolution through interpretation of chemical parameters The contents of this volume are based on the Chemical Mediation of Coevolution symposium held on 14 15 August 1985 as part of the 36th annual AIBS meeting at the University of Florida The volume contains 18 chapters majority of which address plant chemical insect systems Explorations are also made into mammalian systems and into insect mimicry as that process derives ultimately from herbivory upon plants The data thus presented will specifically address chemistry as a factor in the establishment and maintenance of coevolution and test coevolutionary concepts for their pertinence to chemically mediated systems It is hoped that this collected work will provide an impetus for careful reconsideration of the possible roles played by chemistry in the establishment maintenance and fate of coevolutionary relationships Gracillariidae (Lepidoptera) Willy de Prins, Jurate de Prins, 2021-10-25 Concerns about global biodiversity are rising dramatically yet we are lagging behind in the most basic prerequisite for its understanding and conservation the inventory Insect species may make up five or ten times the number of all other plant and animal species combined and as such they represent one of the major challenges in biosystematic science World Catalogue of Insects is an initiative aiming at compiling worldscale authoritative catalogues of monophyletic insect taxa We are therefore proud to launch this major series Volumes will as a minimum contain standard nomenclatorial information on all names pertaining to the taxon treated including type locality and distribution to the extent this is relevant Additional information is optional e g location status and condition of types biology bibliographical information pest status vector status etc This volume six focuses on Gracillariidae Lepidoptera Series World Catalogue of of California, Berkeley, 1974 Food And Natural Resources David Pimentel, 2012-12-02 Food and Natural Resources provides an understanding of the interdependency of food and natural resources that affect society. It is hoped that through these discussions a more complete understanding of these timely issues will emerge. This base of knowledge will help individuals and government leaders develop and implement the types of programs that will result in the effective use and management of land, water, energy, and biological resources for improved food production and a higher standard of living for everyone. The book begins by examining the intrinsic dynamics of natural ecosystems, especially the land, water, atmosphere, energy, and biological components. This is followed by chapters on the availability and interrelationships between population size, arable land, water, energy, and other biological resources; the loss of wild species of plants and animals; the availability of agricultural land for crops and livestock; and the impact of land degradation on food and other resources. Subsequent chapters discuss water use in agriculture, the mechanization of agriculture and food production, the principles and practices that can make agriculture environmentally and economically sound and sustainable, and the impact of population growth on the environment and food supply. Bulletin - Entomological Society of Canada Entomological Society of Canada (1951-), 1975
