Hansen, M. Debussche, 1990-07-31 In view of the massive change in the area of distribution of many world biota across classical biogeographical realms and of the drastic restructuring of the biotic components of numerous ecosystems the Scientific Committee on Problems of the Environment SCOPE decided at its general Assembly in Ottawa Canada in 1982 to launch a project on the Ecology of Biological Invasions Several regional meetings were subsequently organized within the framework of SCOPE in order to single out the peculiarities of the invasions that took place in each region the behaviour of their invasive species and the invasibility of their ecosystems Most noteworthy among such workshops were one in Australia in August 1984 one concerning North America and Hawaii in October 1984 and one dealing with southern Africa in November 1985 A leitmotiv of these workshops was that most of the invasive species to those regions were emanating from Europe and the Mediterranean Basin inadvertently or intentionally introduced by man It was therefore considered as a timely endeavour to organize the next regional meeting in relation to this region The workshop on Biological Invasions in Europe and the Mediterranean Basin was held in Montpellier France 21 to 23 May 1986 thanks to the financial support of SCOPE and of the A W Mellon Foundation and the logistic facilities of the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique C N R S      Veterinary Parasitology, 1985      Immunobiology of Parasites and Parasitic Infections John Marchalonis, 2012-12-06 The phenomena involved in infections of man and domestic animals with metazoan or protozoan parasites present formidable practical problems as well as a theoretical challenge to immunologists molecular biologists and evolutionary biologists With respect to the public health and economic problems malaria for example remains a major health problem with approximately 200 million people being infected yearly and on the basis of World Health Organization estimates more than 1 million children die each year of malaria infections Chapter 4 This volume addresses state of the art immunologic approaches to the development of vaccines for parasitic diseases Chapter 9 and analyses of studies bearing on the antigenic characterization of protozoan and metazoan parasites Chapters 4 5 and 7 on investigations of the role of precise mechanisms underlying natural resistance or non permissiveness of the host to parasitic infections Chapters 1 2 and 12 on induced mechanisms including the generation of parasite specific T cell lines and clones Chapter 6 and on the generation of monoclonal antibodies Chapters 4 and 5 to parasite antigens of distinct developmental stages Great progress has been made in characterizing parasite antigens capable of inducing a protective response in the vaccinated host further progress in this area strongly depends on biochemistry and molecular biology with the long term goal of synthesizing such antigens chemically or producing them by means of recombinant DNA technology Chapter 4      U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Library System Book Catalog Holdings as of July 1973 United States.
