A. Brebbia, Enzo Tiezzi, M. E. Conti, 2006-11-09 The state of our planet continues to deteriorate at an alarming rate We have arrived at a situation where we need to determine urgent solutions before we reach a point of irreversible deterioration Much has been written in different contexts about reaching sustainability but the concept itself needs to be defined in the framework of all different disciplines in order to arrive at optimal solutions Hence this book is essentially trans disciplinary in order to find appropriate sustainable solutions involving collaboration across a wide range of disciplines Publishing papers from the First International Conference on Management of Natural Resources Sustainable Development and Ecological Hazards the book features articles encompassing topic areas such as Water Resources Air Soil Ecology Health Risk Energy Planning and Development Political and Social Issues The Re Encounter New Technologies Learning from Nature Safety

Design for Sustainability Janis Birkeland, 2012-05-04 With radical and innovative design solutions everyone could be living in buildings and settlements that are more like gardens than cargo containers and that purify air and water generate energy treat sewage and produce food at lower cost Birkeland introduces systems design thinking that cuts across academic and professional boundaries and the divide between social and physical sciences to move towards a transdisciplinary approach to environmental and social problem solving This sourcebook is useful for teaching as each topic within the field of environmental management and social change has pairs of short readings providing diverse perspectives to compare contrast and debate Design for Sustainability presents examples of integrated systems design based on ecological principles and concepts and drawn from the foremost designers in the fields of industrial design materials housing design urban planning and transport landscape and permaculture and energy and resource management

Landscape Analysis and Visualisation Christopher Pettit, William Cartwright, Ian Bishop, Kim Lowell, David Pullar, David Duncan, 2008-06-03 Michael Batty Centre for Advanced Spatial Analysis University College London Landscapes like cities cut across disciplines and professions This makes it especially difficult to provide an overall sense of how landscapes should be studied and researched Ecology aesthetics economy and sociology combine with physiognomy and deep physical structure to confuse our understanding and the way we should react to the problems and potentials of landscapes Nowhere are these dilemmas and paradoxes so clearly highlighted as in Australia where landscapes dominate and their relationship to cities is so fragile yet so important to the sustainability of an entire nation if not planet This book presents a unique collection and synthesis of many of these perspectives perhaps it could only be produced in a land used in the tiniest of pockets and yet so daunting with respect to the way non populated landscapes dwarf its cities Many travel to Australia to its cities and never see the landscapes but it is these that give the country its power and imagery It is the landscapes that so impress on us the need to consider how our intervention through activities ranging from resource exploitation and settled agriculture to climate change poses one of the greatest crises facing the modern world In this sense Australia and its landscape provide a mirror through which we can glimpse the extent to which our intervention in the world threatens its very existence planning has involved the designation and protection of exceptional countryside. However, whilst this still remains important, there is a growing recognition of the multi functionality of rural areas and the need to encourage sustainable use of the whole countryside rather than just its hotspots. With an interdisciplinary assessment of the rural environment, this book draws on theories of landscape values, people place relationships, sustainable development and plan implementation. It focuses on the competing influences of globalization and localization, seeing the role of planning as the reconciliation of these conflicting demands, reinforcing character and distinctiveness without museum-izing rural areas. Taking a landscape scale approach to the topic, this book responds to the interest sparked by concern for rural landscapes and by recent local and national policy shifts in this area.

Choice, Rules and Collective Action Elinor Ostrom, Vincent Ostrom, 2014-05-01. This volume brings a set of key works by Elinor Ostrom, co-recipient of the Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences, together with those of Vincent Ostrom, one of the originators of Public Choice political economy. The two scholars introduce and expound their approaches and analytical perspectives on the study of institutions and governance. The book puts together works representing the main analytical and conceptual vehicles articulated by the Ostroms to create the Bloomington School of public choice and institutional theory. Their endeavours sought to re-establish the priority of theory over data collection and analysis and to better integrate theory and practice. These efforts are illustrated via selected texts organised around three themes: the political economy and public choice roots of their work in creating a distinct branch of political economy; the evolutionary nature of their work that led them to go beyond mainstream public choice, thereby enriching the public choice tradition itself; and finally the foundational and epistemological dimensions and implications of their work.

Environmental Management and Development Christopher J. Barrow, 2005. The environment and its management has been and continues to be a very topical issue. Existing environment and development texts place emphasis on listing problems, making warnings and voicing advocacy, but by focusing on environmental management, this informative book offers a very different perspective. Moving on from the usual much-discussed viewpoints, Barrow looks towards practical management and problem-solving techniques. He clarifies the definition, nature and role of environmental management in development and developing countries, beginning with an introduction to the key terms, issues and tools of environmental management, which are linked and developed in later chapters and concluding by discussing who pays for environmental management and its future in developing countries. Written by an experienced and well-known author, this clear, user-friendly book is ideal for students of resource management, geography and development studies. It makes excellent use of chapter summaries, boxed case studies, annotated further readings and websites, discussion questions and illustrations.

De Gruyter Handbook of Sustainable Development and Finance Timothy Cadman, Tapan Sarker, 2022-09-20. The De Gruyter Handbook of Sustainable Development and Finance explores the difficult and challenging issues confronting society and the environment in the contexts of unprecedented climate change, biodiversity loss and the global pandemic. In this seminal text, exploring a wide range of topics and in the devastating wake of COVID 19 scholars and practitioners analyse the effectiveness of current and proposed actions to build a sustainable future and the public and private finance necessary to prevent an impending planetary catastrophe The first section of the handbook introduces readers to the origins and evolution of sustainable development An examination of public and private finance follows in the next two sections presented from the perspectives of authors from both developed and developing countries Climate change one of the largest sectors of finance for sustainable development is investigated in detail as is the new and emerging development frontier the blue economy of the world s oceans Suitable for students policymakers and the public at large the handbook highlights the lessons learned and points the way forward for sustainable development and finance in the wake of the global pandemic and the challenges to come

Evaluation for Participation and Sustainability in Planning Angela Hull,E.R. Alexander,Abdul Khakee,Johan Woltjer,2012-03-29 Planning evaluation is required to establish the success of planning interventions both of physical developments and new approaches Yet this should not be a task undertaken purely by professionals without participation by those affected by the process and outcomes of the projects This book provides case studies and advice on how to balance conservation with economic growth the cost effectiveness of plans alongside the effects upon the community and the importance of engaging with all stakeholders involved in a project Practical aspects of the evaluation process covered include how evaluation is used in planning introducing new kinds of information or criteria alternative ways of collecting presenting information how strategic planning objectives are implemented in local practice International contributors provide empirical studies and cases of application which are of practical value to those involved in the evaluation of planning The book concludes by offering a new paradigm a locally oriented context specific participatory and multi disciplinary approach to planning evaluation Climate-Smart Landscapes: Multifunctionality in Practice Peter A. Minang,Meine van Noordwijk,Olivia E. Freeman,Cheikh Mbow,Jan de Leeuw,Delia Catacutan,2014-11-30 Climate Smart Landscapes Multifunctionality in Practice is about a landscape approach to achieving multiple climate social development and environmental objectives It builds on climate smart landscapes as a growing platform and pathway towards achieving multifunctionality This book in 27 chapters draws strongly from practices methods examples and considerations for applying landscape approaches to achieve multifunctional outcomes and in particular address the complex challenge of climate change http://asb.cgiar.org/sites/default/files/count_click.php?id=2 Integrated Research in Natural Resources Roger N. Clark,2006 Integrated research is about achieving holistic understanding of complex biophysical and social issues and problems It is driven by the need to improve understanding about such systems and to improve resource management by using the results of integrated research processes Traditional research tends to fragment complex problems focusing more on the pieces of problems rather than the whole that comprises multiple interrelationships and interactions The outcome is that a lot is known about the parts e g recreation fish and wildlife but relatively little about how they are interrelated There seems to be general agreement that integrated questions must drive the search for integrated understanding but tradition inertia institutional culture budgets training and lack of effective leadership foster reductionism at worst or minimal degrees of integration at best rather than any substantial sustainable effort toward integrated research In this paper a phased approach to framing integrated research questions and addressing the substantial barriers that impede integrated efforts are discussed A key conclusion is that to make any significant progress toward comprehensive integrated research will require more than rhetoric Progress must begin with more effective leadership throughout various levels of research organizations
